JAPANESE TAKE CITY NORTH OF CHENGCHOW

FORCE ADVANCING 10 MILES A DAY

Column in Shantung North of Suchow Unable to Break Through — Bombing Planes of Both Sides Active.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 18.—Japanese troops were reported today to have fought through a 20-mile zone of heavy fortifications and captured Sinsiang, last important Chinese Peiping-Hankow railway stronghold north of the Yellow River.

Two flying columns, Japanese said, pressed westward from Sinsiang along a branch of the railway in pursuit of retreating Chinese.

The Sinsiang detachment still had 40 miles to go to reach its main objective, Chengchow, junction of the Lunghai and Peiping-Hankow railways south of the river.

Ten-Mile-a-Day Advance.

In the 10 days since Japan's campaign for capture of the Lunghai corridor got under way on all fronts, the Northwestern columns pushing south toward Chengchow and Kaifeng have had the most success. The force based at Taming has averaged 10 miles a day.

In the area north of Nanking, Japanese driving north toward Suchow have advanced 25 miles after costly crossings of the Hwai River at Pengpu. Japanese north of Suchow in Southern Shantung Province, however, have been unable to break through Chinese defenses. A Japanese detachment at Tsining has been partly surrounded.

Japanese continued their drive in Shansi Province toward Tunguangkwan, the important "rising sun" pass in Southeastern Shansi Mountains.

Both factions credited their air forces with destructive bombardment of enemy positions, Japanese bombers operating in the Lunghai area and Chinese south of Shanghai in the Hangchow zone.

Report of Change in Command.

Foreign sources reported the Japanese high command was being changed. Gen. Iwane Matsui, who came out of retirement last August to take command of all Japanese forces in the Shanghai area, was said to have been recalled to Japan. Gen. Shunroku Hata, Inspector-General of Military Education in Japan, was reported arriving to succeed him.

Fifty Chinese crossed the Whangpoo River from Japanese controlled Pootung, opposite Shanghai, and raided a foreign warehouse in the Japanese section of the International Settlement. Police captured it.

5 RAIDING PLANES FELLED AT HANKOW

By the Associated Press.

HANKOW, China, Feb. 18. — In one of the most spectacular air battles of the Chinese-Japanese war, Chinese flyers today shot down five Japanese pursuit planes near Hankow.

The battle occurred when a Japanese squadron tried to raid Hankow, temporary capital of China.

Chungking, 600 miles farther up the Yangtze River, where some Chinese Government departments have found refuge, also was raided by a Japanese squadron today, but with little damage.

Japan Sending Fresh Troops to Battlefront in China.

TOKIO, Feb. 18.—Imperial headquarters announced tonight that fresh contingents of troops were being sent to China "in order to strengthen the army to fight to the last."

The announcement gave no details as to numbers nor did it mention to which of the several fronts the new levies would be sent. It said the fresh troops would be replacements, not reinforcements, and an equal number of soldiers would be returned to Japan.

TWO DROWNED IN AUTO THAT STALLS IN CREEK

Youth and Girl Swept Downstream in Flood Waters Near Cadet, Mo.

Vernon Gidley, 18 years old, of Bonne Terre, Mo., and his companion, tentatively identified as Miss Cortel Cown, 17, of Flat River, were drowned last night when Gidley's automobile stalled in a swollen creek near Cadet, about 75 miles south of St. Louis.

The office of the Missouri State Highway Patrol at Kirkwood reported Gidley's body was recovered about a mile and a half downstream.

The youth, son of Martin Gidley, a tavern owner, attempted to drive his car across a "low water bridge" —two strips of concrete which normally afforded safe passage across the small stream. Residents of the neighborhood heard cries for help but found nothing when they arrived at the scene. The flood waters swept the car downstream.

GOV. STARK SEES NO NEED NOW FOR SPECIAL RELIEF SESSION

Declares He Has Been Told That Situation in St. Louis Is Improving.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 18.—Gov. Stark, commenting on renewed suggestions from St. Louis that a special session of the Legislature be convened to appropriate additional funds for unemployment relief, said at his press conference today that "I see no necessity for a special session at this time."

The Governor said he had conferred with State Social Security Commission representatives who are supervising relief work in St. Louis and had been informed the relief situation there appeared to be improving.

"I was told that no one is going without relief, who needs it," the Governor said, "and that no one is suffering from lack of food or warmth. The relief allowance for food, heat and clothing is on a par with that of a year ago."

CHAIN OWNER TELLS OF RACKET THREAT

Testifies He Was Warned to Pay $2000 to Get Glass Put In.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 18.—Vernon Stouffer, chain restaurant owner and chief witness against Donald A. Campbell and John E. McGee in the labor leaders' extortion trial, testified today Campbell "told me if we didn't pay $2000 we couldn't get window glass put in at the restaurant here we were renovating."

Stouffer denied that he fought unionization of his employes, contending he was willing his employes should belong to unions "if they wanted to."

The union business agents are charged with extorting $1200 after demanding $2000 from Stouffer, proprietor of restaurants in Cleveland, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Detroit.

Municipal Safety Director Eliot Ness sat at the prosecution table after defense counsel protested Ness' presence placed the defendant labor leaders in a "precarious position."

Ness, former Federal agent whose undercover investigation resulted in indictments against McGee, Campbell and two other union leaders, has been consulted regularly by prosecutors at trial sessions.

Defense Attorney William J. Corrigan told Common Pleas Judge Alva R. Corlett that Ness was "impressing" the jury.

Judge Corlett interrupted Corrigan to remark, "he doesn't impress the court." Corrigan responded, "How about the jury?"

The Judge then said he hoped the jurors would be no more impressed by Ness than by anybody else.

NIEMOELLER LAWYERS BACK IN COURT AS TRIAL RESUMES

German Pastor's Secretaries and Some Ministers Admitted in Reversal of Policy.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Feb. 18.—The trial of the Rev. Martin Niemoeller, militant Protestant leader, was resumed today with his three original attorneys conducting his defense against charges of grave offenses against the Nazi Government.

When the trial was suspended Feb. 9 Niemoeller had dismissed his attorneys and indicated he would remain silent, refusing to reply to the State's accusations of inciting to disobedience to its laws.

He resented bitterly the State's assertions that his defense counsel had been in "treasonable communication" with foreigners concerning his trial. The reappearance of the attorneys today was believed to mean the State had withdrawn such statements.

In contrast with the first days of the trial, when the public was barred, several Protestant ministers as well as Niemoeller's woman secretaries were admitted to the courtroom.

AIRLINER FORCED TO LAND

Comes Down in Arkansas Field; 12 Passengers, None Hurt.

FORREST CITY, Ark., Feb. 18.—The American Airlines flagship Texas en route from Memphis to California with 12 passengers aboard, was forced down in a field two and a half miles south of Forrest City at 11:30 a. m. No one was reported injured. Passengers were brought in to Forrest City.

The plane, serving the route from New York to Los Angeles, had just left Memphis on the western leg of the trip. American Airline officials at Little Rock said a "normal landing was made at an emergency field."

5 U. S. BOMBERS COMPLETE FLIGHT TO BUENOS AIRES

Land After 5000-Mile Journey From Miami to Attend Presidential Inauguration.

SIXTH PLANE IS FOLLOWING THEM

It Took Off From Lima, Peru, 2500 Miles Away, After Delay Caused by Propeller Trouble.

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 18.—A squadron of five huge bombers of the United States army appeared over Buenos Aires at 10:08 a. m. today at the end of a 5000-mile good-will flight from Miami, Fla.

The planes approached El Palomar military air base with their 20 motors—four on each—performing excellently. They had come from the United States with only one stop, at Lima, Peru.

They completed the 2500-mile Lima-Buenos Aires leg in a little more than 12 hours. The first plane landed on El Palomar Field one minute after the squadron flew over the city.

The planes crossed the Andes at an altitude of 20,000 feet shortly before 7 a. m.

At 8:50 a. m. the bombers passed over Mercedes, San Luis Province, 500 miles west of Buenos Aires.

One Plane Delayed.

The sixth plane of the original squadron which yesterday flew non-stop from Miami, Fla., to Lima, Peru—2695 miles in 15 hours and 40 minutes—was following the others from the Peruvian capital.

It was held up at Lima by propeller trouble. Adjustments were quickly made, however, and Maj. J. V. Meloy, its commander, was able to take off at 6:20 a. m., seven hours and 20 minutes after the departure of the other five.

The six ships carried 49 men and the flight from Miami was the longest non-stop flight ever made by the United States Army Air Corps.

The five advance planes hugged the Pacific coast for about 1700 miles south eastward from Lima, then wheeled to the east at Santiago, Chile, to cross the snow-capped Andes.

The Lima-Buenos Aires leg is about 2500 miles.

Several Argentine air squadrons circled over El Palomar military air base here, awaiting the approach of the bombers on their mission of good will. The Argentine planes were ordered to fly out to escort the visitors to their landing.

Sunday the visitors will take part in ceremonies connected with the inauguration of Roberto M. Ortiz, Argentine's President-elect.

Comparative Flights.

The bombers were the heaviest and largest planes ever to cross the Andes, although a squadron of Italian pursuit planes crossed the Cordillera in 1937 but not in a flight as sustained as this one.

Within 25 minutes after the five planes left Santiago the first two had crossed the range with the other three following within a few minutes.

From the cold of the mountain crossing the squadron flew into mid-summer. The temperature in Buenos Aires was above 90 degrees Fahrenheit.

Early in the day a crowd started to collect at El Palomar Field. Alexander W. Weddell, the American Ambassador, with naval and military attaches and Argentine military and naval authorities were on hand also to welcome the flyers.

FRANCO REJECTS BRITAIN'S PLEA TO END BOMBING CITIES

Insurgent Chief Regrets Loss of Life in Civilian Centers, But Is Unable to Act.

LONDON, Feb. 18.—Britain's appeal to the insurgent Spanish leader, Generalissimo Francisco Franco, to halt bombings of cities behind the fronts today met with refusal.

Franco's note replying to the appeal expressed regret for the loss of life in bombings of civilian centers but said in effect that he was unable to take any action.

JUSTICE BLACK'S WISH DENIED

House Committee Refuses to Grant $2000 to Give Him Secretary.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18. — The House Appropriations Committee disclosed yesterday it had turned down a request for $2000 to provide a secretary for Associate Justice Black of the Supreme Court.

Frank K. Green, Supreme Court Marshal, had told the subcommittee: "When Justice Black came on the bench, he wanted a secretary as well as a law clerk, as several of the Justices have."

25 KILLED, MANY HURT IN TORNADO AT RODESSA, LA.

HOUSES COLLAPSE ON THEIR OCCUPANTS

Power and Communication Lines Broken—Aid From Nearby Cities Arrives Within 30 Minutes.

By the Associated Press.

RODESSA, La., Feb. 18.—Twenty-three persons were killed, more than 40 injured and property damaged to the extent of perhaps a half-million dollars by a tornado that struck this oil boom town last night.

The figures on the dead and injured were given by the Shreveport Journal, which said three others were missing.

Relief workers labored today in a pouring rain in their effort to find the dead and care for the injured and homeless.

Some of the dead remained unidentified. Eighteen of the more seriously hurt were in Shreveport hospital.

No heavy winds were reported elsewhere in the low pressure area that spread across the Southwest and South today but torrential rains caused danger of floods.

A revised list of the identified dead: Mrs. Bessie Trevillan, 39 years old; Patricia Bess Trevillan, 4; Mrs. Clark, 30; Laura Lee Clark, 7; B. E. Crowder, 51; his wife, 45; Mrs. Anna Crowder, 76; Baby Terry, 1 year old; girl named Thatcher, 9; W. L. (Bill) Young, 40; Mrs. Davis, 35; George Blackwell, 30; Mrs. Bernice Blackwell, his wife, 25; Robert Allen Trevillan, 22; a Mr. Bennett; L. B. Somerfield; Mrs. L. B. Somerfield; Somerfield girl aged 3; Robert Jackson; James Haddock, 45.

Sounded Like Freight Train.

The tornado struck at 9:42 p. m. The hands of a large electric clock in the path of the storm stopped at that time. The storm blew in from the north and sounded like a freight train, witnesses said. For two minutes it blew along Supply street, leveling virtually every structure. Small frame houses collapsed on their occupants. Larger business houses swayed and fell, filling the air with splinters, tree limbs and other debris.

The power system failed, throwing the town into darkness and adding to the confusion.

Communication and power lines were broken throughout the area. Oil derricks toppled. One fell across a highway, blocking traffic. Another, uprooted and carried from the well, permitted oil to blow wild.

Description by Eyewitness.

Eddie Hill, oil field worker, said the tornado "sounded like a huge freight train rumbling through the town."

He was sitting with his wife in their hotel room when they heard a "terrific roar." They rushed into the street.

"There was plenty of confusion," he said. "People were running about wildly and some asked what had happened. They seemed stunned. Dead and injured were lying in the street and in the wreckage."

Volunteers ran to the area carrying lanterns, flashlights and torches. They dug into the wreckage, guided by the cries of those trapped under the demolished houses.

Trucks Used as Ambulances.

Trucks from the oil fields were converted into ambulances. Some were used to drag portions of fallen walls and heavy timbers from the victims.

Within less than 30 minutes after the storm struck, aid arrived from Shreveport, Vivian and Atlanta. Lack of facilities here prompted the transfer of the dead and injured to the neighboring towns.

Gov. Richard W. Leche at Baton Rouge ordered Adjutant-General Raymond Fleming to Rodessa to take care of the relief and rehabilitation work and sent word to Gen. Louis F. Guerre, head of the State Police, to move every available man.

Rodessa is an unincorporated town which was built three years ago in connection with the discovery of the Rodessa oil field.

ROOSEVELT STATES AIMS AND ECONOMIC POLICIES OF HIS ADMINISTRATION

"BALANCED SYSTEM OF PRICES" HIS OBJECTIVE

Reads and Explains, at Press Conference, Statement Prepared by Wallace, Morgenthau, Miss Perkins and Eccles.

NO INFLATIONARY ACTION INTENDED

Attributes Recession to Dislocation of Prices Last Spring — Would Now Raise Those of Certain Commodities.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—President Roosevelt officially took cognizance of the deepening of the business depression today and at a 45-minute press conference read a prepared statement of the social aims and economic policy of his administration. He then put a number of questions to himself concerning the various points in the statement, which presumably the public might ask, and answered them.

He was emphatic in stating that his immediate program did not contemplate "inflation" or further devaluation of the dollar.

The press conference was unusual in character, with the President explaining with charts and a pointer the highly technical economic trends which lately have perturbed him and his inner council of advisers.

"Dislocation of Prices."

The statement read by the President was an 800-word analysis of the economic situation during the past year prepared by Secretaries Morgenthau, Wallace and Perkins of his cabinet, and Chairman Eccles of the Federal Reserve System. This statement, which the President approved, attributed the "recession" in general terms to "dislocation of prices" last spring when a "sharp rise in prices encouraged speculative inventory buying, which combined with the decline in housing construction, laid much of the ground for the present recession."

After reading the formal statement, the President took up several typewritten pages, explaining that he had guessed what questions the reporters probably would ask and had written out the answers. The advisers' statement was made available for publication textually, but the reporting of the President's own questions and answers was restricted by the White House precedent that the President's press conference remarks cannot be quoted directly.

How to Readjust Prices.

The President observed that he knew that the first question would be general, such as, what is to be done to bring the dislocated prices back into balance?

His answer to this was that the administration was acting on a good many fronts: (1) the recently enacted farm bill would bring a better balance of prices; (2) the new housing program would eventually stimulate production, and (3) the expanded relief program would increase buying.

The next question, he imagined, would be: Does this mean inflation?

To this he replied with an emphatic "no," and repeated that the objective was to help balance prices.

There was less emphasis in his voice when he said that the plan did not contemplate further devaluation of the dollar.

Treasury's Gold Sterilization.

He commented on the Treasury's modification of the gold sterilization plan when he asked himself whether the Treasury's announce-

Statement Read by President

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.

THE text of the statement of administrative price policy read by President Roosevelt to his press conference today follows:

(The President said the statement was prepared at his request by Secretaries Morgenthau, Wallace and Perkins; Marriner Eccles, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, and economists of various executive departments.)

This administration has from the beginning pursued a policy designed to promote full employment of our human and material resources. That continues to be our policy. The productive power of our workers and our resources, if fully utilized, can provide and maintain a national income far above any levels we have yet reached.

Price Behaviorism.

An important factor that determines whether we shall succeed or be blocked in our endeavor to attain full employment and a high level of income is the behavior of prices. In this connection careful attention must be given to: (1) The relations of the prices of various groups of commodities to each other; (2) the relations between commodity price levels and the levels of debt burdens and costs; (3) the direction and rate of movement of the general price level. To further its broad objective the administration has, therefore, in its agricultural, industrial, and monetary programs necessarily been concerned both with the relation of the prices of groups of specific commodities to each other and with the movement of the general price level.

Measures to Fit Needs.

The measures employed at any given time to further this policy must fit the needs of that time. A year ago there was ground for concern that a too rapid rise in the prices of some commodities was encouraging a speculative boom. During the past six months, on the other hand, the general price level and industrial activity has been declining. Government policy must be directed to reversing this deflationary trend.

This does not mean that all prices should advance, nor that the rise should be rapid. Prices of different groups of products must be brought into balanced relations to one another. Some prices and some costs are still too high to promote that balanced relationship between prices that is necessary for sustained recovery. Continued high prices of many of the commodities not subject to highly competitive market forces intensifies the downward pressure on all other prices. Those industries that have maintained prices and curtailed output should seek the restoration of profits through increased rather than through restricted output.

Housing Situation Cited.

The prices of some items are still at the highest levels reached in 1937; some are even higher than in 1929. When high prices sharply curtail sales there is real danger. This is shown by our recent experience with housing. A year ago there was a serious shortage. We had unused productive resources ample to overcome the shortage. Yet all the major elements in housing costs advanced so sharply by the spring of 1937 as to kill a promising expansion of activity in an industry whose restoration is vital to continued recovery.

For industries, such as agriculture, that operate at a high level of capacity even when business activity is at low levels, the restoration of profits must come primarily through higher prices. Higher prices in such industries and increased output in other industries will, by increasing profits, encourage new investment in replacement and expansion of equipment. This is necessary to full recovery.

The average family will benefit from the business recovery which a balanced price structure will foster. Increased employment and more continuous income should much more than offset any increase in the cost of living. Recently wholesale prices have declined markedly, yet that decline has been reflected in the cost of living only to a very slight degree. A moderate rise in wholesale prices at this time should only slightly affect living costs. Incomes of most families will increase while the cost of what the housewife buys should show little change. The average family will enjoy a higher standard of living.

Moderate Rise Desirable.

It is clear that in the present situation a moderate rise in the general price level is desirable, and that this rise need not and should not extend to all prices. The rise should take place in and must be mainly confined to classes of commodities whose prices are too low. These include most of those raw materials and finished products which are produced and sold under highly competitive conditions. Such rise must not be so sharp or continue so long as to lead to a repetition of the unhealthy speculative conditions of a year ago. That sharp rise in prices encouraged speculative inventory buying which, combined with the decline in housing construction, laid much of the ground for the present recession. We must do everything we can to prevent this from happening again.

Our program seeks a balanced system of prices such as will promote a balanced expansion in production. Our goal is a constantly increasing national income through increasing production and employment. This is the way to increase the real income of consumers.

This is not a policy of restriction; it is a policy of abundance.

Our agricultural, industrial, housing and monetary programs have been and will be directed toward this end.

STOCKS OFF IN LATE TRADING AFTER ROOSEVELT STATEMENT

Morning Gains Turned Into Losses Ranging to $2; Commodities Also Down.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Leading stocks and commodities dropped under a selling outburst, steadied and then sagged again in late trading today following President Roosevelt's elaboration of administration views on prices. A rally had carried over from the preceding session into early dealings.

Morning gains were replaced by losses ranging to more than $2 in numerous shares, particularly industrial groups.

Foreign exchanges, which had been moving up against the dollar, dropped on what observers took to be a reaction mainly to the President's assertion the administration policy did not mean further dollar devaluation.

ROOSEVELT LEAVES CAPITAL

He Expects to Spend Four Days Resting at Hyde Park.

He is expected to return to Washington Wednesday morning.

R F C TO RESUME LOANS TO 'DESERVING BORROWERS'

Chairman Jones Makes Public a Letter From Roosevelt Urging Lifting of Bar.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, announced today the R F C would resume immediately the making of loans to "all deserving borrowers" whom the agency is authorized to aid.

Except for a few loans to railroads, the R F C has made no new loans since October.

Jones said railroads, industries and all other types of business eligible under the R F C act could qualify for the loans.

Jones announced the lifting of the bar on lending while making public a letter from President Roosevelt. The President told Jones it was his wish that credit be made available to all deserving borrowers, especially loans that will "maintain or increase" employment.

Jones said the R F C had $1,500,000,000 available, but predicted, "We won't have any demand for any considerable part of it."

There had been no change, he said, in collateral requirements since lending was suspended last October except that "we will try all the harder" to qualify every application that is made.

"That does not mean, however, that we will make a loan to every applicant," he said.

SPANISH REBELS REPEL ADVANCES ON TWO FRONTS

GOVERNMENT'S KEY POSITION BOMBED

Insurgent Attack Forces Abandonment of Ground Taken in Aragon—Fight Continues.

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, Feb. 18.—Massing behind an artillery barrage, Spanish insurgents on the southern front today checked and threw back advancing Government troops northwest of Cordoba.

Government forces had greater success in holding out against insurgents on the eastern front in fresh fighting around Teruel. They reported 100 insurgent bodies were left on a battlefield at Vivel del Rio Martin, about 36 miles north of the Aragon city, after spirited hand-to-hand fighting.

In the Estremadura region to the south insurgents forced Government troops to abandon positions they had captured Wednesday near Llerena.

Insurgents carried Aragon fighting back to Teruel itself, heavily bombing the ruined city and Government positions at Mansueto hill, the key to Government defenses.

(Dispatches to Hendaye, France, said the Government acknowledged an insurgent attack had forced the Government's Aragon army to abandon positions taken yesterday when it reported trapping 1000 insurgents at Villanueva del Rebollar. The Government reported, however, that it had regained some ground.)

Rebels Report 1000 Loyalists Killed, Americans Captured.

HENDAYE, France, at the Spanish Frontier, Feb. 18.—Spanish insurgent military dispatches today asserted Government reinforcements, "mostly North Americans," suffered "terrible punishment" in a battle in the Alfambra-Teruel sector yesterday.

Insurgents said their armies broke through Government lines in three places after a devastating artillery and aviation bombardment. Exact positions were not given.

One thousand Government soldiers were killed, their bodies left on the battlefields, and several hundred prisoners were taken, "all of them foreign volunteers," insurgents said.

700-YEAR-OLD ROYAL TOMB IN WESTMINSTER OPENED

Seals on Urn Containing Bones of Grandchildren of Edward I Broken to Show Carving.

LONDON, Feb. 18.—A marble tomb in Westminster Abbey containing the bodies of Mary and Humphrey Bohun, infant grandchildren of Edward I, has been opened 700 years after their burial, it was disclosed today. Seals on an urn containing their bones were broken in order to "reveal the very beautiful fourteenth century carving," said L. E. Tanner, keeper of the Abbey's valuables.

"The carving on the urn is almost perfect," Tanner said. "Visitors to the Abbey can now walk around the tomb and examine a specimen of craftsmanship which had been concealed for centuries."

Tanner said the opening of the tomb was incidental to work to uncover a wall which he said "had been ruthlessly built" into the Abbey more than 300 years ago, hiding the tomb. The tomb was removed from this wall and placed on a specially built plinth.

Humphrey died in 1304, his sister in 1305, both in infancy.

The opening of a tomb was the second in this century. The bones of Edward V and his brother, Richard, Duke of York, who was murdered in the Tower of London, were exhumed in 1923.

FORMER POLICEMAN PLEADS NOT GUILTY OF KILLING GIRL

Robert F. Langdon Arraigned in Washington, Charged With Murder of Theater Usher.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Robert F. Langdon, formerly a policeman here, pleaded not guilty today of murder seven years ago of Beulah Limerick, 19-year-old theater usher.

Langdon, indicted earlier in the week, asked the United States District Court to appoint an attorney to defend him. The former officer was returned here Wednesday night from New Haven, Conn., where he had been held on a charge of placing an obstruction on a railroad.

During the investigation of the murder seevn years ago Langdon appeared before the Coroner but later was released.

He was dismissed from the police force when his superiors said liquor-making apparatus was found in his home.

Terrorism in Nanking Under Japanese Rule

For Three Weeks Soldiers Worked Their Will on Helpless Populace—Censors Kept Facts From World.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Feb. 18. — The Manchester Guardian prints the following as an authoritative statement of violence and terrorism in Nanking under Japanese rule:

The Manchester Guardian's correspondent in Shanghai has been prevented by the Japanese military censors from sending any account of the Japanese army's atrocities in Nanking. He was told, when he complained, that the accounts were "exaggerated" or "untrue." From documents received direct from Nanking it is now possible to reveal in detail the extent of the Japanese terrorism.

Foreign Flag No Protection.

The Japanese army entered Nanking on Dec. 13, and on the following day some 50,000 soldiers were turned loose in the city, which was packed with Chinese refugees. The Japanese soldiers roamed through the city at will, robbing the Chinese of money, food and clothing, breaking into houses, violating women and wounding or killing any who resisted their demands.

Thousands of refugees were gathered in the buildings belonging to the Nanking University under the care of foreign missionaries, and in some cases under the American flag, but this proved no protection. Japanese soldiers broke in the gates or climbed over the walls, tore down the American flag and threatened foreigners with the bayonet.

The International Safety Zone Committee and the university authorities repeatedly protested to the Japanese Embassy, which arrived on Dec. 15 in order to act as a buffer between the army and the foreign colony, but without result. For a long time the Embassy refused to believe what they were told, and when they could no longer pretend to innocence (for the streets were full of corpses and women were assaulted within sight of the Embassy doors), they admitted that they were powerless.

At first there were only 17 military policemen in the whole city to control 50,000 soldiers, and as late as Dec. 21 two members of the International Committee drove several miles through the city without finding a single military policeman.

Details of Atrocities.

The following details, all attested by foreigners whose evidence is indisputable, will be the best proof of what was happening all over the city:

On Dec. 15 Japanese soldiers broke into the Library Building of the University for the third time. They assaulted four women on the property, carried off two who were released after being violated and three who never returned. One thousand five hundred refugees were sheltering in the building.

On Dec. 16 more than 30 women were assaulted in the Agricultural Economics Compound by soldiers who came repeatedly and in large numbers. The same night Japanese soldiers returned to the Library Building and demanded money, watches, and women at the point of the bayonet. Several women were assaulted on the premises and the watchman beaten because he had no girls ready for the soldiers.

On Dec. 17 some soldiers broke into the University Middle School. One frightened child was killed by a bayonet and another seriously wounded. Eight women were violated. Soldiers climbed over the walls of this building day and night, with the result that the refugees became hysterical and did not sleep for three nights.

On Dec. 21 seven Chinese men were dragged from the Library Building for forced labor though there was no suspicion that they had served as soldiers. Soldiers also broke into the University hospital and were removing the ambulance when stopped by an American.

These are just isolated incidents quoted from a long list. All the time the looting continued and soldiers frequently forced poor Chinese to carry the possessions which had been stolen from them.

Thousands of refugees were starving because they had lost all their food and money and bitterly cold because they had lost their clothing.

Systematic Burning of Homes.

For some reason the Japanese soldiers, working in large groups under the direction of officers, systematically set fire to the poorer quarters, so that thousands of people were rendered homeless. Where refugees were gathered soldiers habitually came on "inspection," which meant looking for women.

The houses of foreigners were not immune and Japanese soldiers broke in freely. One American missionary was dragged out of bed in the middle of the night by a drunken soldier with a bayonet.

After repeated protests had been made the Japanese authorities began to promise that the situation would be remedied and discipline restored.

Proclamations were actually put up on gates and walls, but were torn down by the Japanese soldiers. As late as Dec. 26, for instance, soldiers visited the Bible Teachers' Training School for Women, a place which had already suffered terribly, and took food, clothes and money. They also assaulted seven women, including a girl of 12. The same night another group of soldiers came and assaulted 20 women. Frequently, after many such visits, the refugees would have no more money and food left to give, and the soldiers would beat them for their "refusal."

On the same night, Dec. 26, three Japanese soldiers drove up to the main gate of the university in a car and announced that they had orders to "inspect" the buildings. They forcibly prevented the watchman from giving alarm and took him with them while they found and assaulted three girls, one of whom was only 7 years old. One of the girls they took away with them.

Three Weeks of Brutality.

Yet all these incidents were only a fraction of the total and took place, indeed, where the situation was relatively good owing to the presence and "protection" of foreigners.

It is difficult to imagine the full extent of the terror and misery of the captured city. The latest reports are that the situation has now improved and that discipline has to a certain extent been restored. This seems due less to the goodwill of the generals, who showed themselves utterly callous, than to the anxiety of the diplomats at the reports which were beginning to reach the outer world in spite of censorship.

The improvement did not come until after nearly three weeks of unparalledel brutality.

DR. RINTELEN RELEASED BY AUSTRIAN AMNESTY

Man Slated to Succeed Dollfuss in 1934 Putsch Leaves Prison Broken in Health.

By the Associated Press.

VIENNA, Feb. 18. — Broken in health, Dr. Anton Rintelen, former Cabinet member and Austrian Minister to Italy, who was sentenced to life imprisonment in connection with the 1934 anti-Dollfuss Nazi putsch, was released today under Austria's new amnesty for political prisoners.

Age and prolonged illness bore heavily on the 67-year-old former diplomat, who emerged white-haired and with sunken face in contrast to the robust appearance he presented four years ago.

Dr. Rintelen, who was believed to have been slated for the chancellorship if the putsch against Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss had succeeded, was convicted of high treason and sentenced in March, 1935, following a 12-day trial.

It was Dr. Rintelen who was announced over a captured Government radio station as "the new Chancellor" at almost the same time Dollfuss was assassinated in the chancellery on the afternoon of July 25, 1934. Throughout his trial he steadfastly denied the charges against him, but emphasized his policy had been one of reconciliation with Germany.

Originally sent to Stein prison near Vienna, he was there given special dispensations because of his failing health and he later was treated under guard at a Vienna hospital. He still suffers from lameness of his right foot and left hand.

Dr. Rintelen said he had no plans to go to Germany, explaining he would remain for a while with a daughter in Vienna, possibly going later to his native Graz to continue work on a book. He said he was no longer interested in politics.

Of the estimated 3200 political prisoners in Austria, 54 of whom were involved in the anti-Dollfuss putsch, all had been released today and action had been dropped against those facing charges.

ROOSEVELT PRAISES KENNEDY FOR MARITIME BOARD SERVICE

Accepts His Resignation to Become Ambassador to Great Britain.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—President Roosevelt accepted today the resignation of Joseph P. Kennedy as chairman of the Maritime Commission. Kennedy sails for London Wednesday to take up his duties as Ambassador to Great Britain.

Roosevelt wrote his new Ambassador that "it is with real regret that I accept your resignation," but added "this is tempered by the fact that you are staying in the family and taking over a new assignment."

"I want to take this occasion," he continued, "to express my appreciation, so generally shared, for the fine work you have done. In both of your important Government assignments you have maintained your justly earned reputation of being a two-fisted, hard-hitting executive."

The letter was addressed to "My Dear Joe." The other Government assignment referred to was Kennedy's service as chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Earlier Kennedy had had expressed the opinion that shipbuilding costs were so high in American shipyards that there may be "no American merchant marine worthy of the name."

Rockefeller Center executives withheld comment "until after the Labor Board hearing," which began at 3 p. m.

RAIN RAISES THE MISSISSIPPI

Up 6.8 Feet This Month; Further Rise Expected.

The Mississippi River, at low stages early this winter, rose 6.8 feet during this month to a stage of 11.9 feet today, and a further rise of about two feet was expected by Sunday, due to the heavy rainfall recently.

Most of the rainfall, which in St. Louis amounted to 2.3 inches Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, has been in the lower Mississippi basin, however. Sharp rises in the lower Missouri and Illinois rivers account for the higher level of the Mississippi here.

LAKE TANEYCOMO UP 10 FEET IN NIGHT; FLOOD AT HOLLISTER

Black and St. Francis Rivers Rising Rapidly in Poplar Bluff Region.

By the Associated Press.

BRANSON, Mo., Feb. 17.—Lake Taneycomo, fed by streams swollen by rains since Monday night, rose 10.5 feet last night to its highest level since 1935. The level at the Powersite Dam was reported to be 60.35 feet. The normal level is 52 feet.

The downpour continued last night. Seven inches of rain already had fallen.

At Hollister, merchants removed stocks from the first floors of buildings when Turkey Creek left its banks. Water from the creek covered the north end of the town to a depth of five feet. Water spread across Highway 65, forcing travelers to detour.

By the Associated Press.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Feb. 18.—A two-inch overnight rainfall at Williamsville, 40 miles north of Poplar Bluff, sent the Black River out of its banks.

The Black River stage at Poplar Bluff this morning was 2.6 feet, a rise of more than six feet since yesterday morning. A stage of 16 to 17 feet here by tomorrow morning is likely.

The St. Francis River was rising six inches an hour at Greenville today.

Snowstorm Halts Vessel's Push Toward 4 on Floe

Fog So Thick, Crew Is Unable to See Ahead of Soviet Icebreaker—Flyers Lost Two Days Rescued.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Feb. 18.—An Arctic snowstorm stalled the Soviet icebreaker Taimyr today in its attempt to push through thick pack ice to the four Polar scientists encamped on a floe.

The Taimyr sent word that the storm, off the Greenland coast, was so heavy its crew was unable to see ahead of the vessel. As soon as the storm subsides, flyers intend to drop fresh meat, cigarettes, matches and pencils to the explorers.

The North Sea Route Administration, director of the expedition, said that faulty wireless reception led to an erroneous report that Pilot Ivan Cherevichny had landed at the camp Wednesday. Cherevichny was forced down in a snowstorm and lost for two days in the Arctic icefield. He was rescued along with his flying mate, Karabanoff, yesterday by Pilot Gennady Vlasoff. Efforts were being made to salvage the plane.

Vlasoff, given a hero's reception aboard the icebreaker Murman, a second rescue ship, thus far has been the only pilot to visit the explorers.

His Story of Visit to Camp.

He told in detail today of the visit he and Navigator Dorofeyeff had with the camp's commander, Ivan Papanin, Wednesday, in which the campers saw the first person since they were landed near the North Pole May 21.

After a two-hour flight from the Murman, he said, he sighted a gray spot which Papanin had identified by wireless as his camp.

"We circled over it twice," Vlasoff related. "To mark the camp distinctly Papanin had hung clothing on stakes and had torches lighted. I saw him taking a picture of the plane as we circled overhead.

"The camp, on a small floe in pack ice, looks like a fortress surrounded by strong walls because ice is piled up all around it.

"In the camp are a windmill and two tents, with supplies scattered all over the floe.

Lands After Signals.

"The men waved signals to us, and we finally guessed it was an invitation to land at their airfield, which had black banners planted along the edges.

"Papanin ran to the airfield, about two kilometers (one and one-fourth miles) from the camp. I landed and ran to meet him."

Vlasoff said he and the commander threw themselves into each others' arms with tears in their eyes. They were unable to speak for a moment.

Papanin reported everyone well. Then Vlasoff handed him a bundle of letters, several bottles of beer and a bag of tangerines before taking off on the return flight.

The icebreaker Yermak, which intends to smash directly to the camp, was expected to reach the icefield by Sunday. Its position was given today as off the Shetland Islands in the North Sea. On board is Dr. Otto J. Schmidt, head of the Soviet North Sea Route Administration, who put the scientists on the floe last May.

WAGE-HOUR MEASURE DRASTICALLY REVISED

Compromise Will Eliminate All Exemptions, Retain Principle of Original Bill.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—House leaders indicated today they had abandoned hope of enacting the type of wage-hour legislation shelved at the recent special session.

Their attitude became known shortly after the House Labor Committee resumed consideration of the subject.

Chairman Norton told reporters she was having substantial changes made in the measure which the House sidetracked last December, and would offer it as "an administration compromise." The principal change would be elimination of all exemptions, she indicated.

Mrs. Norton said the bill would retain the principle of the original measure's wage-hour standards.

The shelved measure would have empowered a Federal board to fix minimum wages at not more than 40 cents an hour and a maximum work week at not less than 40 hours.

HITLER AT BERLIN AUTO SHOW

Says Germany Shall Soon Lead the World's Motor Industry.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Feb. 18.—Chancellor Hitler opened Berlin's annual automobile show today with the declaration that Germany "shall soon build the cheapest car in the world."

Somewhat pale, but vigorous in gesture, Hitler spoke with a strong voice which showed signs of huskiness only after 15 minutes of the 20-minute address. To encourage auto-mindedness, he announced creation of a German motor sport medal and boasted that German roads were the best in the world. Soon, he said, Germany also would lead in the automobile industry.

Robbed of Auto and $5.

Richard Herman, 2722 Allen avenue, was robbed of $5 and his automobile by an armed man who got into his car, parked on Eighth street just south of Washington avenue, after Herman left Loew's State Theater at 10:10 o'clock last night. The robber forced Herman to drive to Commercial and Market streets, and there put him out on the riverfront. The car was found abandoned an hour later.

Followers at Train When He Leaves Los Angeles to Enter Jail.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18.—Several hundred followers were at the train last night when Dr. Francis E. Townsend, old-age pension leader, left for Washington, to serve a jail term for contempt.

Several elderly women wept and all followers joined in singing "I'm Grateful to You." Dr. Townsend was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $100 for refusing to testify before a House Investigating Committee about his promotion of the $200-a-month pension plan.

NOT GUILTY PLEA MADE BY SIX OF STUMBLING SEAYS

Two Women Also Accused Ill in Hospital and Unable to Be Present at Arraignment.

BOND FOR EACH PLACED AT $1000

Preliminary Hearing March 16 — Mail Fraud in Damage Claims Based on Feigned Injuries Alleged.

Six of the stumbling Seays, St. Louis Negroes, whose accident-faking rivaled that of East St. Louis' falling Womacks, pleaded not guilty to mail fraud charges when arraigned this afternoon before United States Commissioner John A. Burke.

Those present for arraignment were Albert Seay, described as ringleader of the troupe; his niece, Ellen Barnes; Roosevelt Jones, Veola Hill, Oedie Meeks and Johnnie Sims. The warrants, issued late yesterday, also named Seay's sisters, Amanda Gales and Minnie Jones, wife of Roosevelt Jones, but they are at Homer G. Phillips Hospital, having become ill since their arrest.

Pleas of not guilty were entered for the six arraigned by their attorney, George C. Dyer. Preliminary hearings were set for March 16, and bond was fixed at $1000 for each defendant. Pending completion of arrangements for bond, they were returned to Police Headquarters.

Charges of Fraud.

The warrants charge that Seay, with four of his relatives and three friends, devised a scheme to defraud the St. Louis Public Service Co., the Illinois Terminal Railroad, and other unnamed corporations by deliberate falls and feigned injuries.

Police Lieut. Ira Cooper, whose four-month investigation resulted in the arrest of the group, estimates that they obtained about $10,000 from 50 or more faked accidents of which he has learned.

Cooper, pursuing the investigation, planned to talk today with four physicians, three Negro and one white, who examined the Seay injuries after their tumbles and made reports which were used in negotiating settlements with claim adjusters.

The group used several names in dealing with the physicians, as in dealing with the claim adjusters, but Lieut. Cooper thought the doctors might add something of value to the information he has already gathered.

The complaint made by Postoffice Inspector Arretus F. Burt, on which the warrants were based, set out that in each instance of faked injury the Seays called in a physician to make an examination. This procedure differed from that of the Womacks, sentenced last week in East St. Louis to prison terms for mail fraud. The general practice of the Womacks was to get a quick settlement for the relatively small "nuisance value" of their claims, which might have vanished if they had been subjected to thorough medical examination.

Two Others Held.

Two others arrested in the investigation are still held at Police Headquarters. They are Bertha Johnson and Edna Davis. Lieut. Cooper said Bertha Johnson had supported some of the Seay claims as witnesses and that Edna Davis had fallen once on a street car, collecting $100.

John Henry Robinson, arrested with the Seays, was released today. Two other men were arrested for questioning about a claim they filed against a drayage company.

Only falls are mentioned in Postoffice Inspector Burt's complaint, but Lieut. Cooper is investigating claims made against a downtown variety store, based on illnesses alleged to have been caused by eating candy purchased at the store.

Wayne Ely, attorney for the store, told a Post-Dispatch reporter Oedie Meeks and Amanda Gales had each claimed $115 recently on that score. A separate claim for an amount not specified, was made, Ely said, by Seay, in behalf of three members of his family. In that instance, the attorney said, the candy offered as a sample of what had caused the supposed illness proved to be a variety which the store did not sell.

Seay, Lieut. Cooper said, discovered as early as 1923 that there was "easy money" to be had in accident faking, and soon after that date began sending back to Mississippi for relatives whom he coached.

Another of Womack Troupe Taken to Federal Prison.

John Ehrman, one of the accident faking Womacks, was taken from the Belleville jail today to the Federal prison at Lewisburg, Pa., to serve his two-year sentence for conspiracy. Joe Miller, another of the troupe, decided to make another effort to obtain a $5000 bond pending determination of his appeal, and remained in jail.

The wives of Miller and Ehrman, convicted with them, are at liberty on appeal bonds. Others of the nine convicted have been taken to prisons to begin their sentences.

Roosevelt States Aims And Economic Policy

ment on Monday was a part of his plan to stabilize prices.

The sudden announcement Monday that the Treasury would sterilize no more gold unless more than $100,000,000 worth came into this country in any three-month period, he revealed, was one part of the present program but not the only one.

In foreign capitals, the Treasury's new gold policy has been interpreted as a virtual abandonment of the sterilization program started a year ago last December. The original plan was stated to be to keep the incoming gold out of the American credit base and was hailed as "deflationary." The new plan to allow $400,000,000 of incoming gold to go into the credit base each year has been described here and abroad as a form of credit inflation, since the incoming gold under the new plan will increase the amount of money available for lending.

Administration's Version.

This highly technical banking procedure was simplified in the advisers' statement that the "Government's policy must be directed to reversing the deflationary trend" which started six months ago, and the President's promise that an easy credit policy would be maintained by the Treasury Department and the Federal Reserve Board.

The President reverted to one of his homely illustrations when he asked himself how he reconciled his views today that most prices were too low with his announcement last April that many prices were too high.

Such a question, he said, implied that the man who warns you to go slow on a curve is responsible if you go off the road.

Everyone seemed agreed, he continued, that price dislocations were one of the major causes of the recession. This price maladjustment and speculative buying, he said, had been developing since the latter part of 1936. Looking back, he explained, the only regret he had about the April warning was that he had not issued it sooner.

During his discussion, he referred repeatedly to price charts placed on an artist's easel by his chair. Using a schoolroom pointer, he traced the lines of price trends from 1929 to 1938, and as he finished his remarks about each specific chart, he instructed the secret service man at his side to put up another exhibit. He said that the most impressive chart was that showing the rise in the cost of cement, structural steel, plaster and prepared strip shingles above the 1929 levels.

Yes and No.

He gave a yes-and-no answer to his own question as to whether the administration was seeking a restoration of the 1926 levels, explaining that while he wanted a general increase in prices, the question was not one of using a given year as an objective.

In 1933 and 1934, he said, there had been a lot of talk that the price level, then about 68 or 69 per cent of the 1926 level, should be brought up to the previous figure. At that time, he continued, many people owed money borrowed years earlier and were forced to pay back in 1926 dollars. Since 1933-34, he said, there has been new borrowings in the terms of 1935, 1936 and 1937 dollars, and this must be considered as a modifying factor in any price level calculation. At present the prive levels of most commodities are about 80 per cent of the 1926 figures, he pointed out, so, considering the purchasing power of the present dollar, the average should be sought somewhere between the present 80 and the 97 attained for a time in 1937.

When he asked the reporters if they understood this explanation, the reply was several resounding "noes" and he left the subject.

"Extended Relief Program."

Asked if his mention of an "extended relief program" meant that he would ask additional appropriations, he answered that he was referring to the $250,000,000 appropriation recently requested from Congress.

"Do you mean you won't ask for any more," the reporter inquired. The President replied that he hoped he would not have to ask for more.

Several times when reporters tried to break into the President's own questions and answers, he replied that he was coming to those topics later. One of these questions was: "Are labor costs too high?"

The President had the answer written out. It was that in the manufacturing industries, the wages per hour for the worker were 24 per cent higher in 1936 than in 1932, but that the labor cost per unit of output was only 6 per cent higher in 1936 than in 1932.

This was due, he said, to the increased productivity of labor, or in simpler language, the increased efficiency of labor, and that this was primarily caused by the fact that in the mass production industries labor is more efficient when producing at a high level. This was demonstrated, he contended, by the fact that during the past five months there have been no wage increases, and with the production slowing down, the cost per unit of output has risen another 6 per cent.

Wage Increases.

To his own question: Did wages rise too fast last spring? he also had a prepared answer.

There had been few wage increases from October, 1934, to 1936, he said, but during the nine months from October, 1936, to July, 1937, hourly wages in the manufacturing industries had increased from 57 to 65 cents. Many firms, he observed, had been in a position to increase wages during 1935 and 1936 and had not done so. Therefore, in the later nine-month period they had to absorb a large lump of wage increases because they had postponed the increases so long.

Many people, he observed, had talked about the necessity of "flexible wages" during a downswing of business. These same people, he added, had apparently forgot about flexible wages during recovery. The result has been, he said, that they delayed as long as possible, even to the peak of a boom, to grant wage increases, which many times were small in comparison with the profits made during recovery. But even these small increases, he said, were difficult to maintain when volume falls off.

Against Sliding Scale Pay.

Asked if he was advocating profit-sharing with labor, the President did not give a direct answer, and only observed that this plan, by and large, had been generally successful in some industries. He was definitely against a sliding scale of wages based on production, pointing out that in some industries, such as the bituminous coal industry, prices at the mine were not high, and under the cutthroat competition in that industry, the managers could not pay a decent wage and make a profit. The Guffey coal act, he said, was designed to see that the price of coal was not so high as to force possible customers to other types of fuel, and not so high as to give the mine owners an exorbitant profit.

There was only one possible threat in the discussion. After the President had talked at length on the necessity of raising most prices he was asked what plans he had, if any, of bringing down the prices of those commodities which he had asserted were too high. This question, of course, related to the so-called monopoly-controlled prices and the President immediately recognized its implications.

He said that the administration was studying the question and was not yet ready to shoot on it.

Morgenthau at Elbow.

The importance President Roosevelt placed on today's press conference was emphasized by the presence of Secretary Morgenthau, who sat on the President's left with his own press relations man. It was Morgenthau and Chairman Eccles of the Federal Reserve System who worked out the recent retreat from the gold sterilization policy.

The conference room was jammed to capacity. The White House had announced yesterday that the President would have an important statement to make today.

GIRL, 19, ACQUITTED OF KILLING CHILD, 5

Cheer in Courtroom When Mary O'Connor Is Freed of All Charges.

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 18.—Mary O'Connor was acquitted today of all charges in the death of 5-year-old Nancy Glenn last Labor day. The 19-year-old girl athlete had been charged with murder, voluntary manslaughter and involuntary manslaughter.

A cheer went up in the courtroom as the foreman of the jury of nine men and three women announced the verdict.

Miss O'Connor and her mother had sat tensely nearly 20 minutes after they learned that the jury was ready to report—until Assistant District Attorney Charles G. Gordon could be found and brought in for the verdict.

The child was found in a muddy lane near the O'Connor and Glenn homes after she failed to return home for lunch on the holiday. An autopsy showed she had died of mud and water in her lungs.

Testifying in her own defense, Miss O'Connor said yesterday that she turned around and struck the little girl accidentally—"just a slap." They were standing together in the lane. The child had been teasing to ride Miss O'Connor's bicycle.

Miss O'Connor at first accepted the verdict without show of emotion. Later she wept almost hysterically. Her father, Robert S. O'Connor, put his arm around her and spoke in a whisper. He turned and walked to an ante room to take the news to his wife, who had collapsed.

Miss O'Connor embraced Mrs. Marie Kibler Phillips, her close friend, who was called by the State to testify against her, and then she joined her parents.

The jury received the case at 10:23 o'clock last night.

Judge Joseph Sloane's charge to the jury was confined to a discussion of the evidence. It left the jurors, if they found the girl guilty, free to choose any of five verdicts—ranging from 18 months in a reformatory to death.

HART RESUMES MARRIAGE MILL AFTER SUPREME COURT ORDER

Writ Stops Proceedings in Suit to Enjoin Justice of Peace From Performing Ceremonies.

Performance of wedding ceremonies by Justice of the Peace George R. Hart at his "marriage mill" at St. Charles and Natural Bridge roads was resumed yesterday, following issuance of a temporary order by the Supreme Court of Missouri, stopping proceedings in a suit to enjoin Hart's activities.

Hart said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that he officiated at seven ceremonies last night and already had 20 weddings booked for the near future. He declared he had received about 35 letters sympathizing with him against the effort of Prosecuting Attorney M. Ralph Walsh of St. Louis County to close his marrying business.

The Supreme Court's stop order was issued pending consideration of Hart's application for a writ of prohibition to prevent the Circuit Court from acting in Walsh's injunction suit. Circuit Judge John J. Wolfe had issued a temporary restraining order against Hart Tuesday. Hart also has appealed to the Supreme Court from another Circuit Court decision ousting him as a Justice, the ouster being ineffective while the appeal is pending.

An amended application for the writ of prohibition, prepared for filing by Hart's attorney, says that Hart is an ordained minister but that Judge Wolfe and Walsh have refused to recognize his status in that capacity. Hart has said he was ordained in the "Holiness Church" Jan. 13.

CHAUFFEUR GETS 4 MONTHS FOR DRIVING WHEN DRUNK

Everett Rigdon Pleads Guilty; Truck Struck Boy on Bicycle April 25, 1935.

Everett Rigdon, chauffeur, was sentenced to four months in the Workhouse by Circuit Judge David J. Murphy today for driving when intoxicated. He pleaded guilty to a charge resulting from an accident April 25, 1935, in which a truck he was driving struck Arthur Voss, then 13 years old, at Vandeventer and Kennerly avenues.

Voss, 3831A Page boulevard, who was riding a bicycle, suffered minor injuries. Rigdon, 34, who gave his address as 3409 Arlington avenue, disregarded his bond and left the city. Following his return, he was recognized by police Jan. 5 and has been in jail since. He offered no explanation of his absence.

85-Cent School Tax Indorsed.

The Boulevard Heights Improvement Association, meeting Tuesday at the Woerner School, 6131 Leona street, adopted a resolution favoring retention of the school tax rate of 85 cents on the $100 valuation in the special election April 5. It declared it was essential that the educational system should be unimpaired, in order to fight ignorance and propaganda threatening democracy.

DECISION ON CITY-WIDE P W A STRIKES DEFERRED

Walkout Called on Four Jobs at St. Charles to Force Settlement of Alton Dam Dispute.

While the St. Louis Building Trades Council deferred until Monday a decision whether to call a general strike on P W A construction jobs in the St. Louis area, contractors on four P W A school construction jobs in St. Charles County were notified this afternoon that building laborers would go on strike at close of work today.

The walkout is called to force settlement of labor difficulties between the army Corps of Engineers and the Hodcarriers', Building Construction and Common Laborers' Union of St. Charles County over wage scales and union recognition on the Alton dam timber-clearing project. The St. Louis council, meeting on the matter this morning, decided to discuss a protest strike Monday morning.

Meanwhile, about 350 nonunion workers continued the job of clearing brush and trees from the 2600-acre St. Charles County tract to be flooded when the Alton dam gates are closed in the spring. They are getting 44 cents an hour for a 48-hour week, but are working only 44 hours. The International Hodcarriers', Building Construction and Common Laborers' Union, A. F. of L. affiliate and member of the building Trades Council, is picketing the work in demand of a 67½-cent-an-hour scale and exclusive employment of union members.

150 DAYS IN WORKHOUSE AS TAXICAB LAW VIOLATOR

Kennard Brown, Negro, Fined $150; Driver's License Suspended 150 Days.

Kennard Brown, Negro, 1506 South Eighth street, was sentenced to 150 days in the Workhouse and was fined $150 today by Police Judge James F. Nangle for violating taxicab ordinances. His driver's license was suspended for 150 days.

Police testified he was operating without liability insurance or bond; he had no city taxicab license and no cab driver's license; his rates of fare were not displayed on the doors of the automobile as required by law, and he was driving an unfit car as a cab.

Brown was arrested Feb. 1 at Twenty-second and Chestnut streets after discharging two passengers there, they said, adding that he had been observed discharging two other persons at different points. Brown, who said he was a laborer, declared he was not carrying paying passengers and he intended to appeal.

INTERNATIONAL SHOE CITED BY LABOR BOARD

Unfair Practices Charged in Company's Three Plants at Hannibal.

A complaint charging unfair labor practices by the International Shoe Co. in its three plants in Hannibal, Mo., was issued by the National Labor Relations Board office here today.

It is charged principally that the company has fostered a company union and has been guilty of discriminatory tactics against members of the International Boot & Shoe Workers, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

Following announcement of the complaint by Dorothea de Schweinitz, in charge of the N L R B office here, it was announced hearings would begin some time next week at Hannibal. The plants employ about 3000 men and women, it was stated at her office.

The complaint charges that since last June the company has fostered and dominated an organization known as the Western Brotherhood of Shoe and Rubber Workers and that since last summer it has interfered with the rights of its employes under the Wagner Act by various unfair labor practices.

Among other things, it is charged, the company has threatened workers with discharge on account of membership in the Boot & Shoe Workers, the A. F. of L. organization; that its officers have made disparaging remarks about the union and its officers; that surveillance of members of the union while engaged in union activity has been carried on; that there have been threats to close the plants; and that members of the union have been temporarily laid off or demoted because of union activity.

Frank C. Rand, chairman of the board of the International Shoe Co., issued this statement:

"A complaint in general terms has been filed against us by the National Labor Relations Board in connection with the operation of our Hannibal factories. We do not even know the specific charges we are asked to defend.

"There is no controversy between the company and its Hannibal employes, or any group of them. By its action the National Labor Relations Board is inciting and provoking a controversy where none exists.

"At a time like this, when cooperation and understanding between all groups of people are so essential to the winning of the recovery that we all desire, it is most unfortunate that a needless and false issue should be staged in this manner."

WHITE MAN WHO KILLED NEGRO EXECUTED IN NORTH CAROLINA

State Also Puts to Death by Gas Father Who Poisoned Girl in Insurance Plot.

By the Associated Press.
RALEIGH, N. C., Feb. 18.—Milford Exum, 39-year-old farmer, was put to death in North Carolina's gas chamber today, the first white man ever executed at the State prison here for the murder of a Negro. Exum was convicted of killing Jim Williams, 60-year-old basketmaker, in a robbery that yielded $4.

A few minutes after the execution of Exum, Edgar Leroy Smoak, 40-year-old railroad carpenter's helper, of Wilmington, died in the chamber for the murder of his 16-year-old daughter, Annie Thelma. The State charged Smoak poisoned the girl in a plot to collect a $500 insurance policy.

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., Feb. 18. — Roy L. Righthouse of Fresno and Lee Grant Goodwin of Los Angeles were hanged simultaneously on the prison gallows here today.

Righthouse was sentenced for luring Elma Estep, a nurse, to his home last Easter and beating her to death. Goodwin was convicted of killing Harry H. Crowther Jr. in a holdup of a market in Maywood.

DRIVER GETS 40-DAY TERM ON FIFTH ARREST AS SPEEDER

Patrick Cashen, Also Fined $40, Denies the Charge and Indicates He'll Appeal.

Patrick Cashen, 3127 Neosho street, was sentenced to 40 days in the Workhouse and fined $40 on a charge of speeding yesterday by Police Judge James F. Nangle after he had admitted four previous convictions for speeding since 1930. His driver's license was suspended for 40 days.

Cashen, manager of an automobile parts concern, was arrested on Kingshighway Jan. 28, charged with driving 40 miles an hour betweeen Pernod and Fyler avenue. He denied the charge and indicated he would appeal.

STATE PATROL IMPOUNDING AUTOS BEARING OLD PLATES

Drivers Picked Up on Highways in County Must Store Cars Until They Get New Licenses.

Motorists driving on State roads in St. Louis County without 1938 State license plates face the prospect of having their automobiles impounded by members of the State Highway Patrol until new plates are obtained.

Capt. T. L. Leigh, in charge of the patrol's Kirkwood office, told a reporter the patrolmen have been instructed to give the offending driver tne option of storing his automobile in his own garage, a nearby commercial garage, or on the State Highway Department property in Kirkwood. Usually, he said, the driver returns in a few hours with new plates.

THREE CHILDREN KILLED IN CRASH ARE BURIED

Triple Funeral Held for Macalik Brothers and Sister—Joseph, 6, Dies of Injuries.

A triple funeral was held this morning for Emily Macalik and her brothers, Joseph and Charles Jr., victims of an automobile accident that was a tragic sequel Wednesday to the funeral of their mother, Mrs. Louisa Macalik.

Joseph, 6 years old, died last evening at St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis of a brain concussion suffered in the crash, a head-on collision between an automobile in which eight relatives of Mrs. Macalik were riding, and a light truck, on United States Highway 40 at Cahokia Mounds State Park, five miles east of East St. Louis.

Emily, 12 years old, was killed outright, and Charles Jr., 15, died an hour later at the hospital. Their great-aunt, Mrs. Augusta Novak of Maryville, Ill., also was killed, and four others of their relatives in the automobile were seriously injured. Two persons in the truck were injured. The children were those of Charles Macalik, a painter, 1221 Allen Market lane, St. Louis.

The 300 pupils of St. John Nepomuk Parochial School, at which the Macalik children were students, attended the funeral services, at the St. John Nepomuk Catholic Church, a Bohemian church, 1627 South Eleventh street.

Eight boys and six girls who were schoolmates of the children acted as pallbearers. The girls carried one casket and four boys carried each of the other two caskets. The children were buried in a single grave in SS. Peter and Paul's Cemetery beside the grave of their mother.

East St. Louis Man, 70, Hurt by Auto

Tillman J. Scivally, 70 years old, 744 North Thirteenth street, East St. Louis, suffered a fractured right leg and head injuries yesterday when struck by an automobile at Thirteenth street and St. Clair avenue, East St. Louis. He was taken to St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis. The driver of the car was Harold Kelley, 2516 Forest boulevard, East St. Louis.

Cave-in at Belleville.

A former street car right of way at Forty-eighth and West Main streets, Belleville, caved in yesterday, leaving a small opening which enlarged beneath the surface to a hole six feet square by seven feet deep. Superintendent of Streets E. A. Fleckenstein attributed the cave-in to an abandoned mine underlying that area.

Bullet Mailed to Black Legion Foe.

DETROIT, Feb. 18.—Postal inspectors and Highland Park police began yesterday an investigation of the mailing of a cartridge to H. A. Smith, an official of the suburb who had been an opponent of the Black Legion. Smith, chairman of the Highland Park Civil Service Commission, said an envelope, addressed to him and postmarked in Detroit, was delivered to his residence Wednesday and contained a .38-caliber automatic pistol cartridge with a copper jacket.

COLLECTION AGENCY SUES TO ENJOIN BAR ASSOCIATION

In Counteraction Defendant Alleges "Malicious Interference" With Its Business.

A petition for an injunction to prevent the Bar Association of St. Louis from interfering with the operation of the Berns Adjustment Agency, 3121 North Grand boulevard, was filed in Circuit Court yesterday.

The agency, operated by John Berns, is defendant in a pending injunction suit in which the Bar Association charges unauthorized practice of law and improper collection methods, including use of constable's duns to induce debtors to remit.

Berns' petition, set for hearing March 3 before Circuit Judge William S. Connor, charges the Bar Association's Committee on Unauthorized Practice of Law with "malicious interference" with his business. It alleges letters were sent to debtors by the committee asserting that he was engaged in authorized law price and encouraging them not to pay bills.

The object of the action against him, the petition says, is to interfere with the efficiency of his business and to increase the business opportunities of lawyers.

RELIEF NEED NOT MET IN 3 OTHER MISSOURI CITIES

Problem "Extremely Bad" in Kansas City — Only Half of Requirements Taken Care Of.

As evidence that St. Louis is not alone among Missouri communities in failing to meet the needs of its destitute, the Social Planning Council made public today reports it obtained from Kansas City, St. Joseph and Joplin.

The most acute need, it was apparent from these reports, was in Kansas City, where Superintendent of Schools George Melcher stated that in the three weeks prior to Jan. 28 there were 433 children absent from school because they lacked clothing or food, or both. In addition, the superintendent reported, 2000 inadequately clothed children were attending school and 2782 undernourished children were attending.

From St. Joseph, E. R. Hinckley, executive director of the Community Chest, reported: "The standard of relief in Buchanan County is not as high as many of us think it should be." Hinckley said, however, that the county, until recently, had provided 40 per cent of relief funds, the other 60 per cent coming from the State Social Security Commission. Plans were being made, he said, for the county to continue its contribution through the rest of this year.

The Joplin report came from the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, Earl Brown, who wrote: "The standard of relief in Joplin is not as high as many of us would like it to be, and we are striving to raise the 40 per cent which the State is requesting."

Further information on the Kansas City relief problem was obtained from C. W. Pfeiffer, executive director of the Council of Social Agencies, who wrote that it was "extremely bad."

"The money available for direct relief is so far below the requirements of adequate relief," he wrote, "that people are receiving, at best, about half of what would be the very minimum kind of budget.

"Relief grants totaling as much as 20 odd dollars per month per family seem to be the absolute maximum and this size of relief allowance only in families of unusual size. I know of several situations where families of around fixe or six are receiving relief allowances of approximately $15 per month. We are advised that the average for January was less than $11 per month per case. Ordinarily these relief grants are in the nature of orders good for a certain amount of money on grocery stores. Only in rarest instances is any allowance made for rent—this is being done generally to prevent eviction or to relocate a family after eviction. Ordinarily, if fuel becomes a part of relief, the food orders have to be reduced by an equivalent amount of money."

Communists Want Representation if Mayor Calls Conference.

The Communist party, in a letter bearing the signature of Alfred Wagenknecht as State organizer, asked Mayor Dickmann today for representation at the relief conference he said he might call next week and proposed a program for consideration at that meeting.

The program includes a special session of the State Legislature to appropriate additional relief funds, a new city relief bond issue of $4,000,000, an additional 25,000 W P A jobs, and relief allowances adequate for rent, fuel and clothing.

POLICE CHASE, ARREST DRIVER AFTER HIS AUTO HITS MAN

Elmer Nooter Says He Didn't Know His Car Struck Anyone; Other Accidents.

City detectives who saw an automobile hit a pedestrian at Tenth and Market streets at 12:20 a. m. today, then continue west, gave chase in their car and at Twelfth boulevard arrested the driver, who said he was Elmer Nooter, 7342 Drexel drive, University City, and did not know his car had hit anyone. The pedestrian, Patrick Ward, listed as homeless, was taken to City Hospital, suffering from a fracture of the left hand and cuts and bruises.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Goldman, 520A Rosedale avenue, were injured when struck by an automobile at 6:30 o'clock last evening as they attempted to cross Washington boulevard at Rosedale. The driver, who said he was Ewell G. Parrish, 764 Clara avenue was released when the Goldmans said they would not prosecute. Goldman suffered a fracture of the left knee and his wife fractures of the right knee and several ribs. They were taken to Jewish Hospital, where their son, Dr. Alfred Goldman, is a member of the staff.

Miss Grace Bond, 5883 Julian avenue, suffered a skull injury and fractures of the left arm and left leg at 10 o'clock last night when struck by an automobile at Julian and Hodiamont avenue. The driver, who said she was Miss Jane Taylor, 6443 Scanlon avenue, took Miss Bond to St. Mary's Hospital. A witness said Miss Bond stepped from behind a parked car during a heavy rain into the path of Miss Taylor's car.

TOWN MARSHAL KILLS MAN WHEN INVESTIGATING THEFT

Coroner's Jury at New Madrid, Mo., Returns Verdict of Justifiable Homicide.

NEW MADRID, Mo., Feb. 18.—A Coroner's jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide yesterday in the killing of Lynton Carrigan, 27 years old, by T. A. Cruchon, 45, City Marshal of New Madrid.

Carrigan was shot five times early yesterday by the officer, Cruchon said, when the man attempted to attack him, after threatening him with a shotgun. His testimony was supported by that of Sheriff A. F. Stanley, who witnessed the shooting.

Testimony before the Coroner's jury was that Carrigan and four other young men had visited a night club here and after they left Slim Ellis, owner reported to New Madrid officers that someone had stolen a radio aerial from his automobile.

Night Marshal John Giles, who received the call, telephoned Cruchon before investigating the theft and together they went to Carrigan's home. The officers testified Carrigan appeared with a shotgun.

LEAVENWORTH PRISON OVERTAXED, DIRECTOR SAYS

James V. Bennett Asks House Committee for $982,860 for Maintenance Next Year.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—James V. Bennett, director of prisons, told a House appropriations subcommittee the population of the Leavenworth (Kan.) Penitentiary was above the level at which the institution operates satisfactorily.

Bennett testified, publication today of the testimony of hearings on the Justice Department appropriation bill disclosed, that the penitentiary "does not operate satisfactorily if the population exceeds 2400 or 2500." The actual population on Dec. 1 was 2801 compared with 2970 a year ago. Bennett said he expected an average of 3000 during 1939.

Bennett requested $982,860 for maintenance of the institution during the next fiscal year—an increase of $29,490 over the amount this year. Of the requested amount, $11,240 would be for additional personnel, including a clerk who would be general assistant to the warden, an assistant steward and four junior officers.

HOLC OWNED 71,733 HOUSES AT END OF '37

Got Them by Foreclosure — Lent $3,093,459,271—11 Per Cent Repaid.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—The Home Owners' Loan Corporation at the end of 1937 owned 71,733 homes through foreclosures, or about 50,500 more than a year before, its records show. Foreclosure proceedings were started in the summer of 1936.

Up to June, 1936, the corporation's operations, from the time it started business in June, 1933, were confined mainly to lending funds to home owners. Loans were made available only on dwellings housing not more than four families, one unit of which the owner occupied.

Here are some official statistics bringing up to date the history of H O L C, as a lender and a property manager:

Up to Nov. 30, 1937, the latest date for which figures are available, the corporation lent $3,093,459,271, of which 11 per cent had been repaid.

At the end of 1937, the corporation had sold 6024 homes and owned 55,951, which were rentable. Of the latter 87.6 per cent were rented.

On Dec. 31, 1937, steps were taken to make the remainder of the foreclosed homes rentable.

There were 611,407 loans being currently paid, or less than three months in arrears, compared with 551,023 on Dec. 31, 1936.

During 1937 the number of loans more than three months in arrears declined 100,472 to 290,464. A spokesman for the H O L C said the majority of these loans "are now in a liquid position." Current monthly installments were being met and a part of the past due installments is being paid off gradually, he said. About 12,000 delinquent accounts were regarded as "insoluble."

Explaining that more than 88 per cent of the foreclosures were started only after borrowers were delinquent more than a year, a corporation spokesman gave the following explanation of the causes:

Abandonment of properties, 18.5 per cent; refusal to pay despite possession of funds, 21.5; death of owners and refusal of heirs to assume mortgages, 5.5; legal complications, 0.3; and "all other cases, including inability to pay," 54.2.

For several months prior to Nov. 30, 1937, collections by H O L C averaged more than 92 per cent of total billings, it was said, but the recent business decline reduced this.

CENSUS DIRECTOR'S THEORY OF STABILIZED POPULATION

He Says Point May Be Reached Ahead of the Normal Time for a New Country.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18. — The population of the United States may reach the stabilization point—where deaths equal births—many years in advance of the normal time for a new country to do so.

William L. Austin, Director of the Census Bureau, told a House Appropriations Subcommittee yesterday that economic conditions, birth control, the number of women at work and related factors were responsible.

Birth registration has been falling off for several years, Austin said, while the number of deaths has been increasing. He declined, however, to predict when the two would be equal, asserting the trend had not had sufficient study.

ONE KILLED, 7 SAVED IN FLOODED COAL PIT

Rescuers Find Victim Buried Under Mud in Mine at Jeanesville, Pa.

By the Associated Press.

HAZLETON, Pa., Feb. 18.—Seven of eight men trapped by a rush of water in an anthracite mine at nearby Jeanesville were found today, uninjured. The eighth, Paul Kuritz, 40 years old, of Hazleton, was dead.

Rescuers digging through tons of debris during the night found his body buried in mud piled up by the water that rushed into the mine yesterday from a pool left as a result of surface mining.

The others were safe in a rock hole high above the waters.

All said they were uninjured and "felt fine." They said they would go home and not to a hospital.

Two men were carried out of the mine by the rush of water and were unhurt.

Bernard McAlarney said he had just set off two sticks of dynamite yesterday when the flood poured down from a break in the top of the mine. It rushed through the tunnels. It rose toward the roof. The swirling flood bore McAlarney and George D. Schutter, assistant superintendent, both of Hazleton, to safety.

Then the waters subsided, falling away through the mines' natural drainage system.

McAlarney and Schutter hurried to the surface—drenched but uninjured.

The flood came from a big pond—formed in a hole left by surface mining. McAlarney's dynamite blast, officials said, apparently opened the rock between the bottom of the pond and the roof of a chute being driven upward.

The mine is at Jeanesville, five miles from Hazleton.

RETIRED RESTAURATEUR KILLS HIMSELF WITH AUTO FUMES

Abraham Samelson Found Dead in Garage Behind His Apartment Home in University City.

Abraham Samelson, retired former owner of small restaurants in various parts of St. Louis, ended his life early today with carbon monoxide in the garage behind his apartment home at 6805 Washington avenue, University City.

A Negro janitor found the body at 7:20 a. m. in Samelson's automobile. The engine was running. Fumes from the exhaust had been piped through an open window of the car from the muffler with a flexible tube.

Members of his family, which includes his wife, three sons and a daughter, said he had retired from the restaurant business a year ago because of ill health. He was 55 years old.

KING GEORGE AIDS CAMPAIGN FOR PHYSICAL TRAINING

Says British Should Make Themselves Fit as "Duty to Our Generation."

LONDON, Feb. 18.—King George VI, in one of his rare speeches, called on the nation yesterday to make itself physically fit as "a duty to ourselves and our generation."

The King thus gave a royal spur to the lagging campaign for regular physical exercises which popularly are known here as "the jerks." He urged an opportunity for all for regular exercise, and declared, "This cause lies very near my heart. If we all do our snare, success is assured and greater well-being of our people will be the supreme reward."

DAMASCUS, Syria, Feb. 18.—Mounir el Ajlany, Deputy in Parliament and leader of the opposition to the National Government, was arrested with 13 followers yesterday in a police raid on a meeting in a private house. Ajlany, former chief of the Nationalist bloc, the "Ironshirts," resigned recently, after bitterly criticising Premier Djemil Mardan in Parliament for what he called his pro-French policy. Police said Ajlany and the others were arrested for holding a political meeting without a permit.

PRIBILOF SEAL FISHERIES IN ALASKA NET U. S. $278,148

Japan Gets $73,708 Share of $1,000,000 Gross Sales During 1937 Fiscal Year.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18. — The Pribilof Islands seal fisheries of Alaska netted the Government $278,148 during the 1937 fiscal year.

Frank T. Bell, Bureau of Fisheries commissioner, told a House Appropriations Subcommittee, however, that this amount also included $19,000 from fox skins and $8000 for seal oil. Records of the committee hearings were made public today.

Gross sales from the fisheries amounted to about $1,000,000, Bell explained, but Japan and Canada each received 15 per cent, and costs of processing skins had to be deducted from the total revenue.

Bell said Japan took cash for its share of the skins, which, in the 1937 fiscal year, netted $73,708 to that Government.

FOUR C I O UNION MEN GET 90 DAYS IN JERSEY CITY

Begin Terms on Conviction of 'Being Unable to Give Good Account of Themselves.'

By the Associated Press.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Feb. 18.—Convicted under the disorderly persons' statute of "being unable to give a good account of themselves," five Baltimore men, four of them members of the Maritime Union of the Committee for Industrial Organization, began 90-day jail terms today.

They are under $10,000 bail each for the grand jury on charges of carrying a concealed and dangerous weapon.

The sentences were imposed last night on Patrick B. Whalen, 48 years old; Charles Hansen, 45; Jesse Suttka, 33, and Bermie Weinkrantz, 29, all union officers, and Benjamin Fields, 41.

Their defense was that a revolver with five bullets found in their car when they were stopped on suspicion in Kearny Feb. 6 was carried for protection because they were on their way to get $1500 in union funds in New York and take it back to Baltimore.

Fields said he went on the trip for the ride.

Prisoners Challenge Statute.

Abe J. Isserman, union counsel, argued before Judge Paul F. Cullum in Hudson County Traffic Court that the law requiring persons to be able to give "good accounts" of themselves was unconstitutional, and the phrase had no special meaning because a policeman was unable to determine between a good and bad account.

"Each officer," Isserman said, "is his own judge in a sidewalk trial under this statute."

Isserman said a permit to carry a weapon was not required in Maryland.

Assistant County Counsel Eric Jentz contended Maryland law required a permit, and Isserman said he was ready to put a Maryland lawyer on the stand to support his contention that no permit was required. The lawyer was not called.

Saying the charge was a misdemeanor, Isserman asked that the $10,000 bail each under which the men had been held since their arrest be reduced to $1000 each, which he said was "usual." The application was denied.

Jentz told Judge Cullum all the defendants except Weinwrantz had criminal records, and Isserman declared all the charges against them were at least 20 years old.

Whalen testified that the revolver was carried for protection because he was to pick up the union funds in New York. He said he was port chairman of the Baltimore district of the union and agent of its firemen's division.

Moe Byrne, treasurer of the New York branch of the union, testified union funds were usually transferred there by check. He had intended to pay the $1500 to Whalen in cash, he said, but Whalen had no advance notice of this.

The men have been in jail since their arrest. Bail of $3000 each was increased to $10,000 several days later when Judge Cullum said he had heard one of the men had a "long police record."

ST. LOUIS SCHOOL CENTENNIAL ATTRACTS ROOSEVELT LETTER

President Praises Institutions as Bulwark of Democracy in Note to Dr. Gerling.

A letter praising the democratic form of government as upheld by the public school was received from President Roosevelt yesterday by Superintendent of Instruction Henry J. Gerling, in connection with the centennial of the St. Louis schools now being observed.

"I am glad," the President wrote, "that you are planning appropriate recognition of the centennial of the opening of the first public school in St. Louis. Our democratic form of government, which gives the individual infinitely more than any other, likewise makes infinitely greater demands upon every member of the community. As the bulwark of our system of government is education, the public school is indeed the cornerstone of our whole democratic plan. It is something we must protect and improve and perpetuate as the invincible guardian of that form of government which alone will satisfy a free people."

Educators of numerous other cities have sent congratulations recently to Dr. Gerling on the century's achievements of the St. Louis schools. Many St. Louisans have given him mementos of early school days.

MONEY LENDER PLEADS GUILTY

Twelfth of 14 Accused in East St. Louis, Fined $200.

L. D. Davis of East St. Louis, formerly in business as the Central Loan Brokers, was fined $200 today on his plea of guilty of violating the Illinois Small Loan Act by engaging in the money-lending business without a license. He appeared before Acting County Judge Paul H. Reis at Belleville.

Of 14 East St. Louis money-lenders charged last July with violation of the act, 12 have now pleaded guilty and paid fines totaling $7000.

FRISCO TRUSTEES SUIT EVIDENCE CONCLUDED

Decision in $10,000,000 Action to Recover Not Expected Before Summer.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The long court hearing over a stock market transaction of 13 years ago, in which Frisco Railroad trustees assert the line lost $10,000,000 while banking firms were profiting, ended yesterday. A decision is not in prospect before summer.

The trial of the trustees' suit against Edward N. Brown, former Frisco chairman, and against the banking firms of Speyer & Co. and J. & W. Seligman & Co. was before Supreme Court Justice Louis A. Valente. About 5000 pages of testimony has been taken, and much more documentary matter still is to be filed.

The plaintiffs were allowed 45 days to file briefs; the defense 30 days beyond that period to file answers, and the plaintiffs another 15 days for a rebuttal brief.

Defense motions to dismiss, previously denied, were renewed and taken under advisement.

In the five-week trial, 22 to 24 lawyers participated daily, at an estimated daily cost in fees of $3500. And this was exclusive of $185,000 in estimated costs to both sides in advance of trial. Two tons of documents were in the courtroom daily.

St. Louis attorneys, headed by Frank A. Thompson, carried much of the burden of the plaintiffs, appearing against 18 defense lawyers, including Henry W. Taft, brother of the late President.

The trustees sought to show that in a Brown-approved purchase of Rock Island stock in 1925 the banking firms turned loose their holdings at the right time for profit, while Frisco was holding on, eventually to lose.

They contended Brown was under the influence or domination of the Speyer firm, acting more in its interest than for his railroad.

The defense sought to establish that Brown acted in good faith in the transaction, and that he lost heavily.

WINDSORS AT PARIS PARTY

Pair Are Guests of U. S. Ambassador Bullitt.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 18.—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor emerged from the seclusion of their new home at Versailles last night to attend a party at the United States Embassy residence. They said they still hoped to make their trip to the United Sttaes.

Guests included members of the diplomatic corps and prominent residents of the American colony. United States Ambassador William C. Bullitt gave the party as a farewell to friends before he sails Feb. 24 for a three-month rest in the United States.

St. Louis Mutual Life Directors.

Stock and policy holders of the St. Louis Mutual Life Insurance Co., at their annual meeting yesterday, re-elected four directors for full terms of three years and chose Harold F. DAVEY DENIES $25,000 CAMPAIGN FUND DEAL Ohio Governor Says He'll Seek Prosecution of Graft Inquiry Witness for Perjury.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 18.—Testimony of Lee Bradley, an asphalt salesman, before the State Senate Graft Investigating Committee brought sharp retorts today from Gov. Martin L. Davey and Democratic State Chairman Francis W. Poulson.

Gov. Davey termed "a deliberate slander" the statement by Lee Bradley, self-identified campaign worker, that General Motors Corporation contributed $25,000 to Davey's 1933 campaign on the promise of one-half of the State's automobile business.

Davey said he would seek to have Bradley prosecuted for perjury.

Poulson said "Bradley never at any time collected or undertook to collect a single dollar for any Davey campaign, for Democratic headquarters, or any purpose that I know about."

L. L. Tremper, Midwestern regional manager for General Motors Truck and Coach Corporation, who was named in Bradley's testimony, said at Chicago that "to my knowledge" neither his company nor the parent corporation made any contributions. He termed Bradley's statement "absolutely erroneous and absurd."

Bradley, testifying at Cleveland yesterday, asserted also that he "contacted 27 public utility companies in 22 states" while "making arrangements for campaign contributions" and that he made written reports to Davey "two or three times a week."

Davey said Bradley's statement "that he arranged for $175,000 campaign contributions from utilities is an unscrupulous lie. The fact is that the utilities were not asked for contributions and they made none."

He described Bradley as a former salesman for the Davey Tree Expert Co. of Kent, O., who was discharged and who later represented himself as a friend of the Davey administration.

Caesarean Birth Saves Child.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 18.—Physicians said today a baby born in a Caesarean operation several hours before its fatally burned mother died was a perfectly normal boy. The birth was almost a month premature. The mother, Mrs. Anna Haus, 25 years old, of nearby Coraopolis, suffered burns last night when wax in a bottle she was heating over a stove exploded and ignited her clothing. Doctors decided to save the baby.

AUSTRIAN BLOCS ORGANIZING FIGHT ON NAZIFICATION

Monarchists Trying to Work With Socialists to Beat Schuschnigg's Deal With Hitler.

ONLY LEGAL PARTY ALSO PROTESTING

Catholics Too, Resent the Bargain With Germany Where the Church Has Been Oppressed.

By the Associated Press.

VIENNA, Feb. 18.—A rising tide of opposition developed in Austria today. Monarchists sought to swing Socialists behind them to combat Nazi inroads. Their leaders met to try to affect a Monarchist-Socialist agreement.

The prospect of speeded up industry under German direction met thinly-veiled opposition from some business men, who feared there would result an unfavorable trade condition and currency depreciation.

Members of the Fatherland Front, the only legal political party, cried out against statements by Chancellor Kurt von Schuschnigg, who tartly replied that they were there to listen, not express opinions.

Workers' Guild leaders declared that if Austrian independence were in danger "we are ready to erect barricades against Naziism."

Socialists and Catholics pleaded with Schuschnigg for a voice in the conduct of affairs, but were told only that perhaps political societies would be formed to permit them and other groups to express opinions, under police supervision.

Austrian Catholics expressed belief they received a severe blow in the Berchtesgaden meeting in which Schuschnigg yielded to Reichsfuehrer Hitler of Germany. They felt that Schuschnigg, himself a Catholic, should have intervened on behalf of German Catholics, oppressed by the Nazis. They asserted the Government changes contravened the Austrian Constitution, which affirms that Austria is a Christian country.

German sources here said that Arthur Seysz-Inquart, the Hitler-indorsed Minister of the Interior, now in Berlin for consultation with Nazi leaders, henceforth would be regarded as the Fuehrer of the Nationalist group in Austria.

Seysz-Inquart was expected to return from Berlin today. Last night he telephoned friends here that Hitler and other Nazi leaders had assured him Germany considered him as the responsible leader of the Nationalist movement in Austria.

There were reports here that Hitler was demanding that Jewish influence in the Austrian press, Federal banking system and State industries be reduced to a minimum.

Physicians maintained a close watch over Schuschnigg, for he was suffering from strain. They required him to retire early last night and suspended telephone connections with his apartment. He had a good night's rest and was able to continue his conferences today.

Goering Expected to Visit Vienna.

Newspapers reported Germany's field marshal general, Hermann Wilhelm Goering, would come to Vienna next month to meet Austrian government and industrial leaders. This gave rise to reports plans then would be drawn to press Austrian industry into the machinery of Germany's four-year plan—a plan for assuring to Germany raw materials from its own sources, without the necessity of depending on foreign supplies.

Thus such a co-ordination of industry would carry into the field of practice the agreement for closest co-operation between Europe's two great German-speaking nations.

The agreement already has brought into the Austrian Cabinet for the first time five men sympathetic to Naziism, although the party has been outlawed in Austria since 1934.

With the political changes already begun, there have been indications the new, pan-German experiment also would include economic and perhaps military co-operation between Germany and Austria.

Goering is Germany's economics chief, and should he come to Austria it is reasonable to suppose his visit would have economic reasons.

While there were some industrial leaders who took a joyful view of the prospects of high pressure industrial activity, others feared an intensified business with Germany soon would deprive Austria of valuable imported raw materials.

It further was held that Austria might have to accept from Ger-

VON PAPEN SPONSORS COMBINE OF NATIONS

He Would Unite Middle European Countries Under Germany's Leadership

By the Associated Press.

VIENNA, Feb. 18.—Franz Von Papen, who helped arrange last Saturday's meeting between Chancellors Kurt Schuschnigg and Adolf Hitler, today explained the Reichfuehrer's entrance into Austrian affairs as a move toward Austrian and international peace.

Von Papen had been recalled as German Ambassador to Austria when he aided in negotiating the Austrian Chancellor's Berchtesgaden meeting with Hitler, which he attended.

Von Papen represented himself as the father of a gigantic plan to organize "a commonwealth of nations in Middle Europe" under Germany's leadership. He said the Austrian agreement was the first step in this direction.

Others Expected to Follow.

Other countries, he said, especially the succession states to the Austro-Hungarian Empire, were expected to follow.

(Austria and Hungary are the principal succession states. Czechoslovakia, Poland, Rumania, Yugoslavia all received territories of the former empire.)

"Political and economic pride among the nations of Middle Europe has been disrupted as a result of the World War," Von Papen continued. "Consequently this affected aspirations of the little countries and formed a constant danger to European peace."

"Austria will be an example of how the uncertainty in Middle Europe can be swept away," Von Papen said in an interview. "This, as the Fuehrer will say on Sunday (before the Reichstag), is being done by Germany's agreement to guarantee 'Austrian integrity and independence.

"The developments mean that the Nazis in Austria can now openly say they are Nazis. All Germany wants in Austria is that the Nationalists have the right to express their views as other groups have.

Denies Split With Italy.

"The world has been trying to believe there has been a split between Germany and Italy because of Italy's attempt to reach a closer understanding with England. That is wrong.

"Hitler believed this Italian policy also was in Germany's interest. Germany will do the same thing. It is Italy's and Germany's sincere intent to establish a permanent European peace.

"This cannot be done without the understanding and friendship of the great Powers. Germany is holding her hands out to England in friendship provided England recognizes Germany's natural human demands for return of colonies."

He denied that Germany would compel Austria to quit the League of Nations or join the anti-Comintern pact of Germany, Italy and Japan.

On Van Zeeland Plans.

Referring to the recently disclosed world economic plan drawn up by former Belgian Premier Paul Van Zeeland, Von Papen said: "The Fuehrer believes the Van Zeeland plan forms an excellent foundation for the pacification of Europe."

The envoy deprecated a rumor that Schuschnigg, during the three-day period following the Berchtesgaden meeting, had tried vainly to obtain help from Premier Mussolini of Italy and was forced into agreement with Hitler by Mussolini's refusal to talk with him.

Von Papen asserted Mussolini was completely satisfied with the new Austrian-German agreement and said it probably had been discussed when Mussolini visited Hitler last October.

Von Papen expected to leave Vienna tonight. It is likely that his successor will be named in a week or two.

EDEN TO TALK MONDAY AFTER HITLER SPEECH

British Foreign Secretary Expresses Concern at Austrian Situation.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 18.—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden promised the House of Commons today the Government would continue to interest itself in the Austrian problem "in relation to Central Europe as a whole."

This was taken to mean that Britain was concerned not only by Germany's thrust toward Nazification of Austria but with the future of Czechslovakia and Germany's other smaller neighbors.

Many opposition questions on the Austro-German situation were put to him, but Eden answered only a few of them.

He declared he hoped to make a "much fuller statement on Monday" after Reichsfuhrer Hitler's scheduled speech to the Reichstag Sunday. He repeated that "the responsibilities are not exclusively our own."

Replying to Laborite Clement Attlee, Eden said that "the House will be aware of the interest which His Majesty's Government always has taken and will continue to take in the Austrian question, not only on its own account but in relation to Central Europe as a whole. We therefore, are watching the situation closely."

Asked if he would consult with the Little Entente nations, Eden said that "all considerations such as those are at present in our minds."

He did not answer questions on whether a special League Council meeting would be called and whether "urgent action" was necessary now that "Austrian independence has been disposed of by Germany."

Eden went directly from Commons to 10 Downing street to confer with Prime Minister Chamberlain and Italy's Ambassador, Count Dino Grandi.

Grandi had two sessions with the British ministers, returning to Downing street for a second talk at 3 p. m. This gave rise to belief that in the interim he had consulted Premier Mussolini on the Austrian question.

The French Government made representations to Britain in favor of "maximum help" by the two Powers to Chancellor Schuschnigg of Austria to resist further Nazi encroachment on Austrian independence. Ambassador Charles Corbin conveyed the views of the Paris Government to Eden after Eden and Chamberlain had the conferences with Count Grandi.

CZECH POLICE BREAK UP NAZI-SOCIALIST FIGHT

Member of Parliament Wounded in Disturbance Near German Border.

By the Associated Press.

PRAHA, Czechoslovakia, Feb. 18.—Police were called out yesterday to disperse rioting Czechoslovakian Nazis at Karlovy Vary, only 15 miles from the German border.

A Nazi member of Parliament named Wollner was wounded in the head during the fight between the followers of the Czechoslovakian Nazi leader, Konrad Henlein, and a group of German Social Democrats.

Meanwhile in Praha, British, French, Yugoslav and Rumanian diplomats called on Government officials in an effort to keep a close watch on the spread of Nazi influence in Austria and its possible effect on Czechoslovakia where the German-speaking minority demands autonomy and is openly supported by the German press.

Government circles here still persist in their view there is no reason for any partticular pessimism as far as Czechoslovakia is concerned in the developing situation of Central Europe.

The clash at Karlovy Vary came when a band of Nazis, led by Wollner, forced their way into a meeting of the Social Democrats. In the free-for-all fight that followed, the Nazis smashed windows and surged about the offices of the Social Democrat newspaper, where police swooped down and dispersed them.

Czechoslovakia's 3,000,000 German-speaking citizens make up more than one-fifth of the World War created republic's population. United under Henlein, 39-year-old former gymnastics teacher, they demand autonomy that the Government fears would break up the republic. Adolf Hitler is their avowed apostle. The German Nazi party has supported them.

The Czechoslovakian Government has done all in its power to control the Nazi influence short of disbanding Henlein's party by force.

In the general election in 1935 they polled 1,250,000 votes and won 44 seats in the House of Deputies, just one less than the large Agrarian party.

CANADA TO MAKE PUBLIC ALL SEAWAY CORRESPONDENCE

White Paper Will Include Letters on Export of Power and River Diversion.

By the Associated Press.

OTTAWA, Ontario, Feb. 18.—The Government will issue a white paper next week containing all correspondence relating to the St. Lawrence deep waterways, export of power and diversion of Northern Ontario rivers into Lake Superior, Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King announced in the House of Commons yesterday.

John R. MacNicol (Toronto Conservative), asked King about a report from Washington that Representative Walter Andrews (Rep.), New York, had read a letter from Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario concerning the diversion of two rivers. He wanted to know if King had altered his position on this project from that stated in a letter to Stewart Lyon, former chairman of the Ontario Hydro Commission, in which he said he would not ask the United States to approve the diversion.

King said he did not recall the entire letter and would not comment on it until he had looked it up. He thought, however, the only way to satisfy members about details of the matter would be to print the whole correspondence.

INFORMAL PACT WITH CANADA ON ALIENS ILLEGALLY IN U. S.

They Are Permitted to Enter Dominion to Try to Obtain Required Visas.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18. — The Labor Department has an informal agreement with Canada which permits aliens illegally in this country to enter the Dominion to try to obtain the required visas.

John F. Simmons, chief of the State Department's Visa Division, told the House Appropriations Committee yesterday that the Labor Department had entered into a "special procedure" for facilitating the entry into Canada of aliens who are in this country on other than a permanent basis.

He made this statement in response to questions by Representative Tarver (Dem.), Georgia, who said about 200 person shad been taking advantage of the arrangement each month.

Tarver said charges had been made that the Secretary of Labor had stayed deportation of some aliens "three years or more, without authority from Congress," and the agreement with Canada was one of the devices employed.

He said the aliens would be permitted to go to Canada and apply for consular visas. Before leaving for Canada, Tarver declared, the aliens would be given letters by immigration commissioners assuring the Canadian Government they would be readmitted to the United States even if they were found ineligible for visas.

PLACING OF STATE HIGHWAYS BIG PROBLEM, SAYS SPEAKER

103,000 Miles of Side Roads Are Little Used, States C. T. McGinley.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 18.—Missouri's road problem in the future will not be where to build roads, but where not to build them, C. T. McGinley of the State Bureau of Public Roads, told the Highway Engineers Association of Missouri here yesterday.

"Every mile of road constructed costs many times the original outlay for maintenance," McGinley said. "Outside the State highway and the supplementary systems there are more than 103,000 miles of roads in Missouri, which would require more than $20,000,000 a year for maintenance if they came under State ownership.

"Our survey has shown that 90 per cent of these roads carry fewer than 20 vehicles a day."

Man Who Declares He Is Butenko Vanishes as Soviets Begin Inquiry

Disappears From Hotel in Rome Before Questioners Arrive—He Is Impostor, Says Litvinov.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Feb. 18.—A man who had said he was Jodor Butenko, Charge d'Affaires who disappeared from the Russian legation at Bucharest, disappeared again today as Soviet diplomats sought to check his identity.

Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov yesterday in Moscow informed Rumanian authorities his Government was convinced this man was an impostor and that the real Butenko was in the hands of kidnapers in Rumania or dead.

The second secretary of the Russian Embassy here said he had gone three times yesterday to the hotel where the supposed Butenko was staying but each time was told the man was not there. The secretary said he had been a classmate of Butenko at a diplomatic school.

Fresh attempts to see the man were made today but again the answer was that the man was out. Italian officials said he was "outside Rome but not outside Italy." They declined to say where he had gone.

Rumanian Foreign Office officials who had been pressed by Moscow to investigate the affair since Butenko disappeared Feb. 6 in Bucharest said their inquiry showed Butenko had left Rumania under an assumed name and with a Spanish Government passport. The supposed Butenko arrived here Tuesday night.

Litvinov Thinks Supposed Butenko Is White Russian.

MOSCOW, Feb. 18.—Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov, in informing Rumanian authorities yesterday of the Soviet Government's belief that the supposed Jodor Butenko was an impostor, said the man in Rome was a White Russian, enemy of the Soviet.

Litvinov said Serge Alexandrovsky, Soviet Minister to Czechoslovakia, had been ordered to Bucharest to conduct an investigation and to confer with Rumanian authorities.

The Commissar also asked Jean Popestu, Rumanian Charge d'Affaires in Moscow, to tell his Government that Soviet authorities doubted the authenticity of a letter from Budapest and statements published in Rome, both of which had been attributed to Butenko.

If the communication and statements were genuine, Litvinov said, they must have been extracted "by threats and possible torture."

Popestu told Litvinov the new Rumanian Government considered it an established fact that Butenko quit Bucharest voluntarily and went abroad as indicated in a letter signed in his name and received by the Rumanian Foreign Minister.

"We don't believe the version of the voluntary departure of Butenko which was spread by the press of Rumania and the Fascist countries from the very moment of Butenko's disappearance long before the fake letter from Butenko was received by the Rumanian Minister of Foreign Affairs," Litvinov said.

"If the letter was not a fake, but authentic and written by Butenko's hand, we don't doubt that he still is in the hands of kidnapers who by threats and possibly torture induced him to write the letter which was then sent to Budapest by criminals and there forwarded to Bucharest.

"We are informed one Italian newspaper was reported to have published a declaration from Butenko's letter and that Butenko even was in Rome inviting foreign journalists to come and interview him.

"If true, we still have no doubt the article and the declaration were written by Butenko under pressure of his kidnapers and that they handed Butenko's document to some Russian white guard, who, under the name of Butenko, is acting in Italy. We are quite sure Fascist authorities will do nothing to expose him.

"While Butenko has not appeared in any free country and has not shown himself to people who know him, nothing will ever shake our conviction that he still is in Rumania in the power of kidnapers, if not killed by them.

"In this connection, the Soviet Government is fully maintaining demands in the note of the Soviet legation at Bucharest on Feb. 10, and insists upon complete satisfaction."

TRIAL OF 4 ORDERED IN ENGLISH SPY PLOT

Arsenal Workers Plead Not Guilty; Two of Them Are Denied Bail.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 18.—Four former arsenal workers arrested on evidence of "Miss X," England's secret agent, were committed for trial today after pleading not guilty to charges of violating the official secrets act.

The defendants, accused of photographing secret army, navy and air force weapons for delivery to an unnamed foreign power, were P. E. Glading, former employe of the big Woolwich arsenal; Albert Williams, former inspector at Woolwich; George Whomack, who was gun section foreman at the arsenal, and C. W. Munday, assistant chemist.

Glading and Williams were denied bail. Whomack and Munday were permitted bail of 200 pounds ($1000) each.

"Miss X," whose identity has been shielded by court authorities, testified at previous hearings she spent three years watching the activities of the alleged spy ring before giving the tip that brought their arrest.

She told of a shadowy "Mr. Stevens of Moscow," and his wife, to whom she said arms secrets were delivered until their disappearance last year. Prosecutor G. B. McLure said Stevens' real name was Brandes, but has not identified him further.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Failure of G. O. P. and Democrats.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IT will soon be five years since President Roosevelt took office. Inventories of the progress or recession of the nation from an economic standpoint appear in our daily newspapers, occupying columns and pages of space.

In the majority of instances the changes made by the New Deal are called progress if the writer of the inventory favors the New Deal; it is called retrogression if the compiler of the inventory is opposed to the New Deal.

There is a possibility that neither has happened. Or, better still, that President Roosevelt, the New Deal and a topheavy Democratic Congress have been unable to stem the logical developments of a capitalist economy.

We have, as a nation, greatly increased our national debt. But both Republican and Democratic administrations of the past have contributed to the increase. True, it did not always take place in a straight line, but the general direction during the history of our nation has been toward ever-larger public debt.

The same remarks can be made about unemployment. It was not so readily discernible when our great Western plains were still open to exploitation and development. But this very opening of the West was accelerated by unemployment in the East, plus, of course, an influx of immigrants. We practically stopped immigration, but it had no noticeable effect on curing the problem of unemployment. We managed to have unemployment under both Republican and Democratic administrations and it takes better statistics than are available to say under which regime the size of the army of unemployed has shown the greater progress.

As to the implements to be used to reduce both the size of the public debt and the army of unemployed, there again is little to choose between the donkey and the elephant. If memory serves me right, we had under President Hoover:

1. A share-the-work campaign.
2. A have-confidence campaign.
3. A prosperity-around-the-corner campaign.

Under President Roosevelt we have:

1. A shorter-hour campaign.
2. A restore-confidence campaign.
3. A "recession-not-a-depression" campaign.

If we compare these campaigns or remedies closely, it takes a greater imagination than most of us have to discover any fundamental difference in them.

Slight wonder, therefore, that third party talk is heard and will become louder as the 1938 and 1940 elections approach. However, a third party will have to come forward with a real program, not a rewording of all the old ones. That program must provide a definite road leading to a standard of living commensurate with our capacity to produce the things necessary to satisfy our needs and desires. A party with that program will be skeptically received at first but it will take power in the end.

MARTIN B. LECHNER.

Call for L. C. McC. and N. G. E.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WILL L. C. Mc. and N. G. E. please communicate with me direct concerning suburban train service, which was the subject of their letters to you under date of Jan. 24 and Feb. 3? I would like the opportunity of going into this subject further with them at first hand.

L. W. BALDWIN,

A Rebuke to Married Women Workers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THERE was a time when men boasted that their wives and daughters didn't have to work. Husbands made enough to keep them. They were ladies and were respected as such. In those days, working girls didn't spend all their salary on furs and fine clothes to wear to work. If they did, the honorable employer would give the position to someone that needed it. Instead, the working girl dressed neatly and paid strict attention to her work, shared the expense at home and, when she married, she married an honorable man and gave up her position to someone less fortunate.

Until we return to this way of living, there will not be employment for a large number of persons.

Shame on the person holding a job that doesn't need it; shame on the man that takes a wife and can't keep her.

M. E. S.

America's Main Interest.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IS the United States to play "stooge" in the next war? I wonder. Uncle Sam was "stooge" in the last conflict under "kept-us-out-of-war" Wilson, and is being cast for the same role by Ambassador Norman Davis in the next combat of nations.

Strange as it may seem, Mr. Davis is an American and is supposed to be representing American interests. But is that what Mr. Davis is doing? If American interests are war, treaty entanglements and verbal agreements and favoring Great Britain, Mr. Davis is doing a fine job. But I think America at the present time is mainly interested in maintaining peace and avoiding the shipment of American men to foreign lands to fight the wars of other nations. VINCENT BURKE.

IS CROP CONTROL TO BE PERMANENT?

It is disturbing to find President Roosevelt speaking of the enactment of the new farm bill as the "winning of one more battle for an underlying farm policy that will endure."

There are certain features of the bill, of course, which should be permanent, among them the soil conservation provisions, designed to halt the all-too-rapid depletion of one of our primary national resources. But if the President's words signify that the administration contemplates making crop control itself an "underlying" and "enduring" policy of the Government, he is going further than some of the most ardent champions of the A A A and its substitute measures have thus far been willing to go.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace left the impression when he first launched the A A A, that crop control was a temporary device to compensate the farmer for the loss of his foreign markets and to offset the subsidy that he, in common with other elements of the population, had been paying industry through an unreasonably high protective tariff. He left little doubt that crop control was meant to stay in force only until the volume of foreign trade could be built up again. Meanwhile, it was to be one of the foremost duties of the farmers to use their collective political power to work for the restoration of international trade, and by this means to win back their foreign agricultural markets.

In more recent years, however, Secretary Wallace seems to have paid less and less attention to the need for restoring foreign markets and more and more attention to building up sentiment for crop control. This shifting of direction, we think, is important—and disquieting. For if the farmer goes over permanently to the ranks of those who follow the delusion of economic nationalism, the forces fighting against subsidies and regimentation (the two, in the final analysis, are synonymous) will have lost a powerful ally.

Let the farm forces follow crop curtailment as a permanent policy, and they will wake some day to the hard reality that they have pursued a mirage. They will find themselves stripped of their foreign agricultural markets, and they will find also that their traditional independence and individualism are gone.

If the accepted farm leaders are true to the confidence reposed in them, they will not forget that the long-range solution of the farmer's troubles lies not in seeking permanent subsidies for agriculture, but in removing subsidies in those fields where they constitute an unfair burden on the farmer.

Or if they despair of removing the subsidies in these other fields and therefore favor the payment of farm subsidies as a continuing policy, those benefits should be put on a basis which will not rigidly limit production or boost prices on exportable surpluses above the level in the world market. Should it be necessary to make a choice between the present system of crop curtailment and a plan based on the domestic allotment principle, the latter has undeniable advantages.

MR. COCHRAN IN A FAMILIAR ROLE.

Congressman John J. Cochran played a familiar role in the House the other day when he led the fight to kill a $54,000,000 claim against the Government. This claim, known as "a till-tapping expedition," grows out of a Government transaction with the Cherokee Indians of more than a century ago. It had already been passed upon in part by the Court of Claims, whose ruling was adverse, and to approve the bill killed by Mr. Cochran's efforts would have been to reinstate a dead issue.

For years, Mr. Cochran has campaigned against the private claims racket in Congress, by which attempts are made to raid the Treasury in the interest of claimants and their attorneys, after the claims have been rejected by Government departments or the courts.

One of the most spectacular of these claims was one for $900,000, filed by one A. S. Postnikoff, representing his alleged loss on sale of shoes to the White Russians in 1919. Postnikoff admitted he had no legal claim upon the Government, and his demand had previously been denied by the State Department and the Comptroller-General, but Congress, over Mr. Cochran's protests, generously agreed to pay the money. Partly as a result of the publicity given the matter by the Missouri Congressman, the bill was vetoed by the President.

Other unwarranted claims which Mr. Cochran has taken a leading part in balking have ranged from alleged damage done by Union troops in the Civil War to a church at Germantown, Mo., to the plaint of a garbage contractor that a certain camp during the World War did not furnish garbage enough to feed his little pigs.

* * *

The junior Senator from Missouri is mistaken when he says that "Mr. Milligan has been made a hero by the Kansas City Star and St. Louis Post-Dispatch." If Mr. Milligan is a hero, it was Mr. Milligan who made him a hero, though, in fairness, it ought to be said that the Pendergast machine has rendered royal, if reluctant, assistance.

A WISE PRECAUTION.

What the United States Veterans' Administration is doing to safeguard the estates of veterans in charge of guardians appointed by probate courts is a procedure so simple and so reasonable that it ought to be employed in every instance, whether the ward is a veteran or not.

That procedure, described in an article by the regional attorney for the Veterans' Administration, reprinted on this page today, is to require an annual inspection of the securities held by the guardian, so that the court may know, independently of the guardian's report, in what the assets of the estate consists, and that they are held intact for the estate.

Simple as it seems, it is not the usual practice, except for estates of veterans. Only recently, the guardian of an estate once valued at more than $130,000 reported to the St. Louis County Probate Court that most of the estate's assets had "disappeared" from a safety deposit box. Seeking to protect its own interests, the surety company which provided this guardian's bond, represents to the Court that most of the missing assets were gone from the estate before it assumed the bond liability, nearly five years ago. But the guardian's reports, making no mention of missing assets of the estate, went unchallenged until after the Court removed him, a few months ago. His once wealthy ward, now insolvent, is to be committed to a State hospital for the insane as a public charge, because the estate can no longer maintain him in a private sanitarium.

What happened to this estate has happened to others before it. It will happen to more in the future if the present Probate Court practice of accepting guardian's reports at their face value and without corroboration is continued.

Annual examination of assets of all estates in charge of guardians appointed by the probate courts ought to be the invariable rule.

HISTORICAL FOOTNOTE.

In 1934, Harry Truman was a member of the County Court of Jackson County. He was getting nowhere, either politically or financially, and, as a loyal follower of Boss Pendergast, felt himself entitled to promotion. The particular job he wanted was that of County Collector, which, while not much further up the political scale than County Judge, was more highly remunerative. It was a reasonable enough ambition, but the boss had promised the post to someone else.

To compensate Mr. Truman for his disappointment, however, the boss decided to make the would-be County Collector a United States Senator. Pendergast, two years before, in 1932, had put up Charlie Howell, an insurance lobbyist, for the senatorial nomination, and saw him go down to defeat before Bennett Clark. With the tide running to the Democrats, and a Democratic nomination for the Senate the practical equivalent of election, Pendergast set about to avenge Howell's defeat.

Truman's opponents in the primary were Congressman Jacob L. Milligan and John J. Cochran. Milligan was Senator Clark's candidate but was never a formidable contender. But Cochran, by virtue of a long record of public service and of a huge personal and political following, was a real threat to Pendergast's candidate.

In the whole State of Missouri, excluding Jackson County, Cochran beat Truman by 225,522 to 131,198, or a plurality of more than 94,000 votes. But in Jackson County, Truman got 137,000 votes to Cochran's 1655, wiping out Cochran's lead. The Pendergast machine had gone to town for the boss' candidate, and how many ghost voters it threw into the breach to do so will never be known.

That is how an obscure County Judge beat a seasoned national legislator for the highly coveted seat in the United States Senate. It is cited as a historical footnote to Senator Truman's vicious speech denouncing United States Attorney Milligan and Federal Judges Reeves and Otis, who are currently engaged in the herculean task of purifying the ballot in Kansas City.

NO MISUNDERSTANDING.

The official news release of the Board of Permanent Seat of Government, announcing the award of the contract for the new Missouri Office Building, asks for the "particular attention" of newspaper editors, "inasmuch as there has been some apparent misunderstanding concerning the location of the building."

As everyone knows who has followed this matter to its sorry end, there has been no misunderstanding. There has been only insufficient understanding on the part of the people of Missouri as to what is being done. Had members of the board wanted to inform the taxpayers they would have released an architect's perspective drawing as soon as the plans were drawn. This is almost invariably done when public buildings are to be erected.

The reason for failing to follow custom in this instance is obvious. The hillside site slopes sharply to the west and south. A perspective of the building from the corner would have revealed to everyone the $850,000 building as the architectural atrocity it is to be.

HART'S MARRIAGE MILL.

George R. Hart's marriage mill in St. Louis County sprang into public notice following the enactment of an Illinois law requiring applicants for marriage licenses to pass physical examinations proving their freedom from venereal diseases.

Hart, by a widespread advertising campaign, encouraged Illinoisans to marry at his establishment. By doing so, they could evade a law designed for their own protection. Hart's business became highly profitable. Besides his fees, he collected large sums from the sale of wedding rings and other accessories.

County officials, looking into Hart's title of Justice of the Peace, found it defective and filed a suit which resulted in his ouster from office—a decision which has been appealed.

On the day before the ouster decision was handed down, Hart had himself ordained as minister of an obscure religious sect, where ordination requires no theological study. This was his second line of defense against the ouster suit.

Now, after numerous complaints, including one from the owner of the property at which the marriage mill is located, the Prosecuting Attorney has filed an injunction suit, on the ground that Hart has brought the county and its people into disrepute. A temporary order has been granted, restraining operation of the marriage mill, but this has now been set aside, for the time being, by the State Supreme Court.

Meanwhile, various annulment suits have been filed to invalidate Hart's marriages, and widespread objection has been filed to his questionable advertising and his commercialization of a solemn rite.

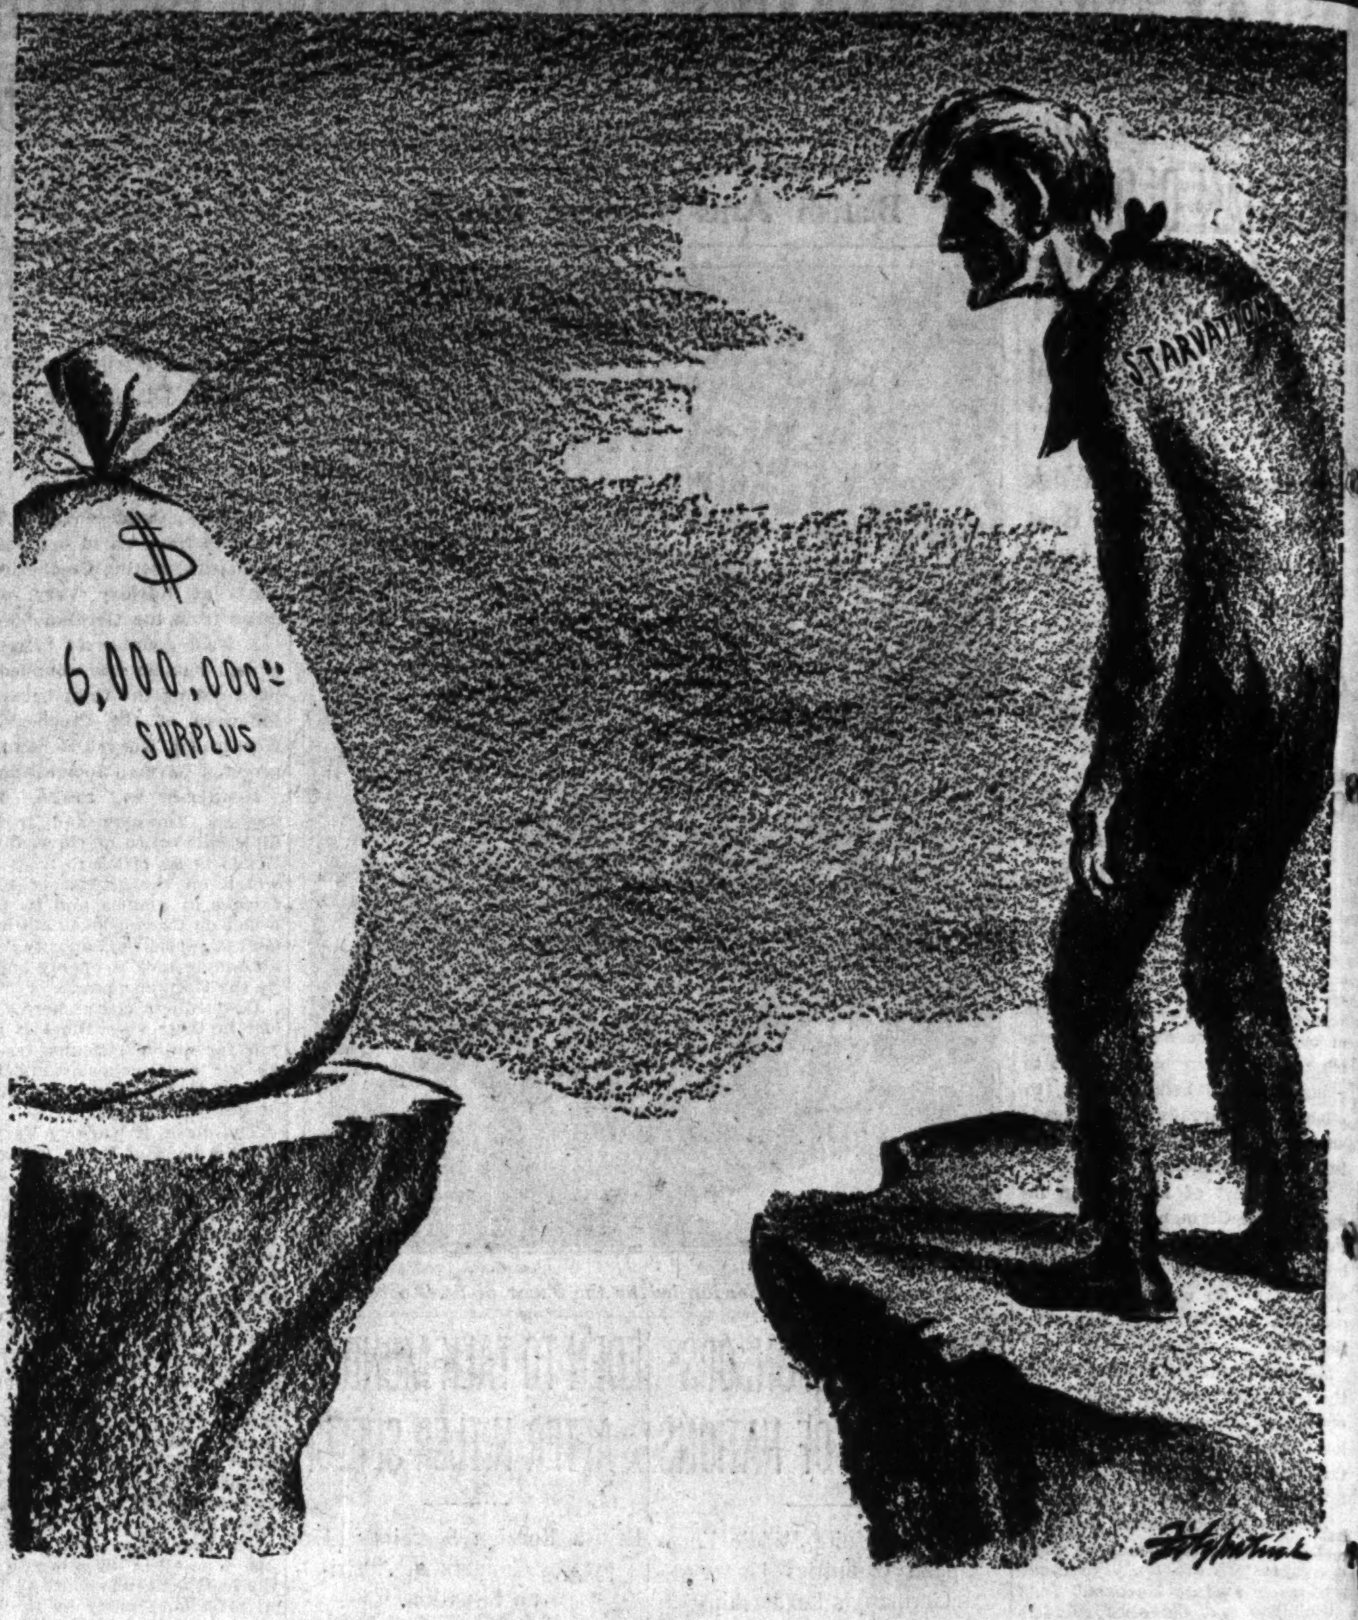
Hart has shown remarkable tenacity in clinging to a business that has brought him handsome returns. Is he reaching the end of his rope, or will he find a new way to carry on? Is the community helpless against a person of this kind, or can it find a proper remedy in the courts?

REGULATE THE BURIAL SOCIETY.

Attorney-General McKittrick makes a proper suggestion when he advocates placing burial associations under State supervision, with requirements for cash reserves and the payment of benefits in cash, not in undertakers' services at the undertakers' own indisputable valuation.

Better Business Bureau officials and others have made a convincing case for their charge that many of the societies flourishing among the poor of Missouri put large profits into the pockets of their promoters. The organizations are able to thrive with the ostensible approval of the State because of their incorporation under the non-profit association statutes, although their fees and benefits are not subject to the control of any representative of the public. As the Attorney-General points out, it is unsound for burial societies offering an insurance service to operate without requirements for cash reserves.

The next Legislature would do the State a service by stringently revising the law, which opens a rich field to the unscrupulous promoter. Necessary regulations would not hurt the honestly conducted society.



THE GAP CAN BE BRIDGED

One Way Out of Our Tax Troubles

Magazine of business urges centralized taxation and elimination of wasteful, overlapping governmental units; greatest saving can be effected in state and local governments, which require 50 per cent more revenue than the Federal branch; Missouri and Illinois cited as prime examples of States where duplication is rampant.

Condensed by Reader's Digest from Fortune.

WHEN the average American talks of reducing taxes, he usually means reducing Federal taxes. In so doing, he is barking up the wrong tree.

For barely over 8 per cent of his income goes to Federal taxes, while he pays some 12 per cent to a confused agglomeration of state and local governments—chiefly to counties, cities, townships, school districts, all the way down to mosquito-abatement districts. The number of these overlapping taxing units the country over amounts to the incredible sum of 175,000!

And anyone who wants to find waste and inefficiency on a grand scale should look at these jigsaw puzzles of government by which local affairs are run. He should watch the states fight among themselves over the sources of revenue—at the taxpayers' expense.

For not only is the bulk of the United States tax burden imposed by the states and their little subdivisions; also most of the unnecessary part of that burden—from the standpoint of a reasonable price for services performed—can be laid to the states and the localities.

Moreover, though many costly services that used to be handled by states and localities are now being taken over by the Federal Government, local taxes have not decreased. Unemployment relief used to be handled locally. Road building, once a chief reason for local taxes, is receiving more and more Federal funds. There are other public works—buildings, sewers, parks—which used to be paid for out of local taxes and to which the United States Treasury now contributes a larger and larger share. Yet local taxes have not gone down.

For a miniature of local taxation, look at Brighton School District No. 1, in Monroe County, N. Y. Within that single school district, there are over 60 taxing authorities, ranging from 21 pavement districts and 11 lighting districts through many garbage, ash and hydrant districts. These overlap in such a way as to create 114 different tax zones—each zone paying to a different combination of districts.

Illinois contains more taxing units than any other state: 17,336. But Missouri has 11,626; New York 11,184, Michigan 8905—and so on all over the country.

It is easy to see that this duplication of government services and officials means waste to the taxpayer. For instance, Macon County, Ill., saved $800,000 in 15 years by abolishing unneeded township tax collectors.

The simple answer to the problem of our wasteful tax structure is centralization of taxes. For instance, each state could collect all property taxes within its borders, so that property would be taxed just once, at a uniform rate—instead of several times, as now, at varying rates by different districts.

States could be sensibly split into nonoverlapping cities and counties. Enough money could be turned over by the state to each city and county to take care of the government services best handled locally. The local tax mess would disappear; the cost of local government, stripped of wasteful duplications, would go down.

Mincing steps toward centralization have been taken by a few states—notably Wisconsin, Kentucky and North Carolina. But the big barrier to centralization is the tenacity of local political jobholders.

Overlapping of Federal with state taxation lays another unfair burden on the taxpayer. Of the nine chief sources of state revenue—taxes on gasoline, liquor, tobacco, death bequests, personal income, corporate income, automobile licenses, general sales and property—the first six are also used by the Federal Government. On them the taxpayer pays twice.

Moreover, state tax rates present a disorderly lack of uniformity, and uniformity is probably the best single test of whether taxes are "fair." Take the gasoline tax.

In Florida and Tennessee, the state rate is 7 cents a gallon. But in parts of Florida, there is a 1-cent city tax. In parts of Alabama, where the State rate is 6 cents, there is a 3-cent county tax and a 2-cent city tax, making a total of 11 cents a gallon, exclusive of the Federal tax. At the other end of the scale is Missouri, with only a 2-cent State tax.

Another flaw in our confused tax structure is interstate rivalry over tax revenue. Newspaper readers may notice when William Randolph Hearst threatens to move out of California to escape its high tax on personal incomes.

But newspaper readers get no inkling of the tens of thousands of such disputes that do not get to court at all. And it is the rare newspaper reader who contemplates the problem raised when a man living in state A receives income from a trust set up in state B and managed by a trustee who lives in state C, the income being in the form of dividends of a corporation that is incorporated in state D, with its main office in state E, and its business extending throughout states F to X. Any or all of these states may want to tax all or part of the income.

The solution of this state-Federal tax mess is again centralization of taxes. For example, the Federal Government could increase its personal and corporate income tax rates, and this additional revenue could be considered as collected for the states.

Washington could then offer to each state its share of that extra money, provided that state collected no income tax itself—an offer that any state would find it hard to refuse for long. The same plan could be used for all important sources of revenue wherein the states conflict with the Federal Government—death taxes, liquor, tobacco and gasoline taxes.

Such a scheme would make all these taxes absolutely uniform throughout the 48 states. It would mean immense savings in the cost of collecting taxes.

Further, state revenue would not be limited to the funds distributed by the Federal Government. For that biggest single source of tax revenue, the property tax, would remain in state hands.

Under this plan, the present haphazard potpourri of Federal, state and local taxes might be linked into a purposeful chain.

This centralization program could not be put into effect overnight. But if United States taxpayers become sufficiently indignant, here is a way in which its wastefulness can be eliminated.

Checking Up on Guardians

Ray J. Cunningham, Regional Attorney, Veterans' Administration, in Bench and Bar.

PRIOR to the organization of the United States Veterans' Administration, and for several years thereafter, no attempt was made to supervise the use of the funds paid a guardian, or other fiduciary, of a bureau beneficiary under legal disability.

It soon became apparent, however, that the ways in which a guardian could misuse the funds of his ward are legion. At first, it was thought that these cases were merely isolated incidents, but it soon became evident that they were alarmingly numerous. Some sort of supervision over these estates was necessary if the waste, and even actual embezzlements, were to be eliminated and the interest and welfare of the beneficiary conserved.

It may safely be said that the courts would not permit such things to exist if they knew about the abuses, but they had to depend on the unsupported reports of the guardians as to those matters falling within the first category, and had no machinery whatever to inquire into those falling within the second.

The regulations of the Veterans' Administration, promulgated Dec. 15, 1936, require a fiduciary to furnish definite evidence annually to the Veterans' Administration or to the Court that the securities in which the ward's funds are invested are in his possession or under the control of his fiduciary. This requires a physical inspection of the assets on the part of the fiduciary.

This regulation is not a reflection upon the honesty and integrity of guardians in general, but is merely a safeguard in the interest of sounder administration through the probate courts. The psychological effect of requiring a physical inspection of assets by fiduciaries produces a deterrent effect upon a guardian who might otherwise be tempted to deal individually with his ward's estate.

This program of supervision was at first looked upon by the Probate Courts with skepticism, but it is now realized such a program really aids the court in the administration of estates under state law.

A BLAST AT BRITISH PRO-NAZIS.

From Die Neue Weltbuehne (Prague).

DO all English-speaking people live under British rule? Certainly not. Yet the pro-German Lords suggest to Czechoslovakia that she should give up territory to satisfy the German demand to unite all Germans. May the world forgive this Lords' clique. They were prepared to sell the world to Hitler in order to protect England.

One can appreciate that their plans were motivated by patriotism, but the policy is shortsighted. Fortunately, the British Foreign Office is unlikely to follow their advice. The fact that the Czech Germans have never belonged to the Reich has been overlooked by the pro-German Lords, but not by the Foreign Office.

GOOD ROADS BETWEEN BAD SLUMS.

From the New York Post.

THE President is reported to be studying a plan whereby eight billion dollars would be spent on superhighways in order to lick the recession.

The total amount appropriated for housing for five years under the Federal Housing Act is $500,000,000—one-sixteenth of the road-plan estimate.

The total spent annually, right now, by the Federal Government for roads is close to $200,000,000—$80,000,000 more each year than for housing.

The only way to make this program make sense is to give each slum family a trailer.

TODAY and TOMORROW

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Paying the Piper and Getting the Tune

CONGRESS is about to consider bills to carry out the plan for reorganizing the executive branch of the Government. It will be remembered that the proposal was made by the President more than a year ago, shortly before he submitted the judiciary bill. That spectacular move completely distracted public attention from executive reorganization, and although committees of Congress and departmental officials have continued to work on it, only now will the matter come up for action in Congress.

The scheme covers a great many controversial questions. But almost certainly the most important is that involving the office of Comptroller-General. To the layman, this is a very dull subject of controversy, and it is certainly a most complicated and technical subject. Yet it involves what is perhaps one of the two or three most fundamental problems in the maintenance of responsible government. It involves the question of the control of executive officials by the people's representatives in Congress.

Put more exactly, the question is how Congress can make it certain that the President and the officials under him will in fact do what Congress intends that they should do when it enacts a law. For if the executive officials do not do what Congress intended, if the executive officials do something else that happens to seem more desirable to them, then the will of Congress is defeated. It has paid the piper and it has called the tune, but the piper has whistled some other tune that he likes better.

As a matter of long historical experience, and in every-day practice, the principal way that Congress controls the executive is by supplying the executive with the money which he must have to do anything at all. By saying how much money the executive may have and what he must spend it for, the people's representatives exercise their control over executive officials. It is their greatest power. By refusing to appropriate money, they can shut off any activity of government that they do not like, and there is no power anywhere which can compel them to provide the money.

But this power to control is not a reality if all that Congress does is to vote money earmarked for certain definite purposes. Congress has to know that the money was actually spent for those purposes or its supposed control over the executive is a mockery. Now, with the executive spending some eight billions a year through some 130 departments, bureaus, commissions and what not, it is impossible for Congress to know whether its will is actually being carried out. In fact, Congress never finds out, except more or less by accident in particular cases, what happens to the money it has intrusted to the executive.

The question is how Congress is to find out whether the executive has actually done what Congress meant him to do. This question has troubled Congress for a long time, and shortly after the war there was set up the present office of Comptroller-General. Congress thought it had answered the question. It created an official, appointed by the President, confirmed by the Senate, for a term of 15 years and removable only by Congress. It was to be the business of the Comptroller to act as the watchdog of Congress by deciding, in the name of Congress, whether any expenditure was legal.

Though the intention was excellent, the result was not. Congress got nothing out of the Comptroller except the illusion that it had a watchdog on guard. It never got any report from its own agent on what had really happened to its appropriations. All it has had was the meaningless knowledge that nothing had been spent which this one over-worked and necessarily bewildered official had not approved.

Surely it must be clear that if Congress is to hold the executive truly accountable, it must receive independent reports on what has actually been done with the money. There must, as the accountants say, be an audit made by an agent of Congress. We have no audit today. For since the Comptroller may decide in advance how the money is to be spent, his reports are simply reports approving the correctness of his own decisions. An audit, to be any good at all, must be made by someone who had nothing to do with the original decision. For if he had anything to do with it, he is already committed, and what he says has no value as an independent examination.

Now, unfortunately, the pending bills do not very clearly recognize the difference between the power to approve payments in advance and the power to audit them afterwards. These two functions are still somewhat confused, though it would seem as if the present bills were at least headed definitely in the right direction, toward the establishment of a congressional audit.

They ought, if possible, to be clarified and strengthened. For it seems very clear, from the experience of Britain, and from the best corporate practice in this country, that the only way to impose financial accountability is through a real audit, and the only way to get a real audit is to have it made by someone who has had nothing whatever to do with any decision to spend the money. Thus, in a well-managed corporation, the stockholders are furnished an audit, made not by the directors or by the officers, but by an outside accountant.

If Congress is to hold the executive accountable, it must do it not by a watchdog who pretends to approve all payments but really cannot begin to do that—it must do it by getting full reports of what has been done and these reports must be made by its own agent. Then Congress can call upon the executive for explanations and know what it is talking about.

The knowledge that every transaction is going to be reported to Congress and that any transaction may have to be explained to Congress is the best guarantee that could be devised to make the executive responsible.

DR. JAUNCEY STANDS BY ELECTRON THEORY

Insists Weights Vary Despite Calculations of North Carolina Physicists.

Prof. G. E. M. Jauncey of the physics department at Washington University, whose announcement that he had discovered "heavy electrons" startled scientists at the Indianapolis meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science last December, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter today he was unconcerned over efforts of physicists elsewhere to disprove his theory.

Experiments conducted since the announcement provided additional proof that the electron, whose constancy of weight long has been recognized by physicists as a major fundamental, actually varied in weight up to three times that previously accepted, Prof. Jauncey declared.

Following the Indianapolis meeting several physicists, incredulous over a concept which would necessitate many revisions in study of nuclear physics, announced they planned to put the theory to every possible test before accepting it.

Chicago U. Professor's View.

Recently, however, Prof. Arthur H. Compton of the University of Chicago, Nobel prize winner and cosmic ray expert, told Prof. Jauncey in a letter: "I see no escape from your conclusions on the basis of the evidence thus far published."

But from the University of North Carolina has come an announcement by Dr. Arthur E. Ruark and Creighton Jones, physicists, that they have definitely disproved the Jauncey theory. Their findings, published in the current issue of the Physical Review, publication of the American Physical Society (and side by side with another article by Prof. Jauncey offering additional proof of his discovery), are based, not on independent experiments, but on calculations from experiments by Dr. F. Clive Champion of the University of Cambridge, England.

Using an apparatus known as a Wilson cloud chamber, Dr. Champion photographed the tracks of electrons as they rushed through air or other gas. Some of the electrons discharged from radium E (the same radio-active substance as that used by Prof. Jauncey) bumped into other electrons present in the air. Photographs of some of these collisions, published by Dr. Champion, prove that the weight of the electrons from the radium E are the same as the weight of ordinary electrons in the air, Dr. Ruark and Jones contend.

Dr. Jauncey told the reporter he was utterly unconvinced by the North Carolina calculations. "In the first place," he said, "the calculations are based on experiments conducted with another purpose in view, not on experiments to measure weight. Secondly, photographs of only 14 collisions were used, although Dr. Champion obtained a total of 35,000 photographs of cloud chamber tracks. These 14 collisions might easily be the bumping of ordinary electrons from the radium E with other ordinary electrons in the air. Now, if all of the 35,000 photographs pictured similar collisions, some question might be raised about my conclusions."

The Washington University experiments, as previously told, consisted of shooting electrons of a selected speed through a magnetic field which caused their paths to bend. The variation of these paths, as shown by the points of contact of the electrons on a photographic plate, showed the variation in weight, since the paths of heavy electrons were bent less than those of light ones, Dr. Jauncey said. He compared the process to the shooting of bullets of various weights, but at the same speed, through an area across which a wind is blowing. The wind would affect the heavier bullets less than the lighter ones.

Experimentation in the physics laboratory was hampered by lack of equipment, which the department had no funds to buy, Dr. Jauncey told the reporter. "For instance," he pointed out, "we have no Wilson cloud chamber, which would enable us to carry out experiments similar to those of Dr. Champion, but with the specific purpose of weighing the electrons. Despite that lack, however, we believe that we have proved our point and that it will stand attack from any source."

THE PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
SUMMARY OF ANNUAL REPORT FOR 1937

THE 91st Annual Report of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company covering operations for 1937 will be presented to the stockholders at the annual meeting on April 12, 1938. Total operating revenues increased over 1936 by $14,508,320 or 3.3%. Operating expenses increased $23,873,592 (due principally to higher wage scales, larger expenditures for maintenance, higher costs of materials and supplies and greater expenses incident to increased business). Net income was $27,278,638, as compared with $38,742,091 in 1936. Surplus was equal to 2.9% upon the outstanding Capital Stock as compared with 4.8% in 1936. Surplus per share (par $50) was $1.45 as compared with $2.38 in 1936.

MEDICAL ASSOCIATION BOARD HEARS CRITICS

Participants Decline to Tell What Went on at Chicago Conference.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—After a three-hour closed meeting here of trustees of the American Medical Association and a delegation representing 800 physicians who are at odds with the A. M. A. over a program for extending medical care, the following joint statement was issued last night:

"The proceedings lead to the view that a satisfactory solution of any misunderstandings and differences of opinion will be reached."

Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the A. M. A. and official spokesman for the association, added: "That will be all—there will be no interviews." And there were no interviews, the participants in the meeting either leaving the city at once or declining to talk about what went on behind the closed doors of the ornate trustees' auditorium.

Before the meeting, however, one member of the visiting delegation said their principal demand would be that the A. M. A. be made a more democratic organization. He said now it is "about as democratic as Tammany Hall."

Refusal to Print Letters.

Particularly irritating to the committee of physicians was the continued refusal of Dr. Fishbein's Journal of the A. M. A. to print letters complaining about alleged inaccuracies and unfair statements in editorials on the "principles and proposals" of the committee of 800 which were outlined in yesterday's Post-Dispatch.

The public health program of the A. M. A., now including an exhaustive survey of medical needs, will be outdistanced by concrete proposals like compulsory health insurance, the physician said. He expressed personal opposition to compulsory health insurance, saying it would not work in agricultural districts and would be bureaucratic, but conceded that it would be popularly supported, particularly by labor groups.

The physician said the committee is not likely to try to form a rival medical association. It is still hoped that improvement can be made within the framework of the A. M. A., he said.

Journals Side With A. M. A.

Little aid for the committee of physicians seemingly will come from the various State and county medical journals, however. Examination of a dozen or more State journals at A. M. A. headquarters today showed that only the New England Journal is somewhat favorable to the insurgents.

Representatives of the committee of physicians, were: Dr. Borden S. Veeder of St. Louis, Dr. John P. Peters, professor of medicine at Yale University, New Haven, Conn., Dr. Emmet Holt, associate professor of pediatrics, Johns Hopkins medical school, Baltimore, Md., Dr. Hugh Cabot, consulting surgeon at the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., Dr. Thomas B. Cooley of Detroit, chairman of the council of the American Pediatric Society., Dr. Hugh J. Morgan of Nashville, Tenn., executive secretary of the Association of American Physicians, and Dr. Robert Osgood of Boston, professor emeritus of orthopedic surgery at Harvard Medical School.

EDUCATOR SAYS COLLEGES GIVE WORTHLESS COURSES

Condemn Trade Instruction in Schools, Hair-Dressing Lessons in Universities.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 18.—Presiednt Ralph Cooper Hutchison of Washington and Jefferson College said last night that the principle of "let the buyer beware," had invaded higher education, resulting in courses of instruction that "are known to be worthless."

He told the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board that there "was a time in America when higher education refused to offer instruction which it knew to be comparatively worthless," but that day is gone.

"The public has come into the market with certain demands. Education is frankly out to meet those demands even though the resultant courses of instruction are known to be worthless.

"It has resulted in the placing of trade and business courses in our public schools. In the university, it has resulted in courses in hair dressing, tap dancing and a thousand and one of what President Hutchins (of the University of Chicago) calls 'trick of the trade' ocurses.

"Techniques of business and industry change with such rapidity that much of that taught is useless by the time the victim graduates."

$25,723 PLEDGED SO FAR IN SCOUT FUND CAMPAIGN

First Report Meeting Announces a Fourth of $97,775 Sought Has Been Subscribed.

More than one-fourth of the $97,775 sought in the St. Louis Boy Scout 1938 financial campaign has been pledged, it was disclosed at the first report meeting, held yesterday at the York Hotel. Included in the $25,723.26 already pledged was $15,000 from the advance gifts division—exceeding by $3500 the amount pledged in the corresponding time in 1937.

John J. Nangle, local chairman of the special groups division, read a special honor roll of nine representatives who are conspicuously ahead of their quotas and a longer list of those to whom good luck tokens have been awarded for lesser gains.

The campaign, which opened formally Feb. 14, is to provide funds to maintain the camps at Irondale and Lion's Den, to train scout leaders and to establish 80 new units in under-privileged districts.

N L R B PRESSES FORD LOYALTY PLEDGE HUNT

Origin and Ultimate Destination of Petitions Sought From Witnesses.

Why Gus Krummel, a packing department employe at the Ford Motor Co., circulated "loyalty pledges" at the company's St. Louis plant last October and November, and what he did with them after several hundred employes had signed, became questions of major importance at a National Labor Relations Board hearing today.

Edward F. Gramlich, a subforeman and the company's forty-seventh witness, who testified that he regarded the pledges as "a sort of straw vote to determine the attitude of the men," was recalled for further cross-examination.

But Gramlich, like some 15 other subforemen who have appeared as company witnesses, was unable to relate the exact origin of the pledges, which have been described as petitions in which employes expressed satisfaction with Ford labor policies and wages and hours at the St. Louis plant. N L R B attorneys have attempted to establish that the statements were a preliminary step to the formation of the Liberty Legion, alleged by the N L R B and C I O to be a "company union."

Headed Legion Trustees.

The board's attorneys have attempted also to show that there is some significance in the fact that Krummel became chairman of the trustees of the Liberty Legion local, when it was formed late in November and after the C I O United Automobile Workers had called a strike at the plant.

Krummel, who wraps fenders in the plant's shipping department, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter today that he would tell the "whole story when the company calls me as a witness." He added that "somebody is trying to make me the goat in this case, but I have nothing to be ashamed of."

The fender wrapper appeared to relish his position in the proceedings. When he appeared as a witness for the Liberty Legion, early in January, his belligerence aroused N L R B counsel and caused Trial Examiner Tilford E. Dudley to remark that "the witness has a glare in his eye and a chip on his shoulder."

Subforemen's Testimony.

The five subforemen who testified yesterday declared that they either got copies of the statement from Krummel or that they knew Krummel was active in their distribution. All of the witnesses denied making reports on the men who refused to sign or that workmen were told that it was necessary to sign to retain their jobs. Many union witnesses have testified that subforemen urged them to sign the statement to assure opening in November.

None of the company's witnesses has been able to tell what Krummel did with the pledges or statements after they were returned to him. One witness, Bert Kenney, chassis department subforeman, testified he thought they "might be used some time to show the sentiment of Ford workers to the Labor Board."

The five subforemen asserted that they joined the C I O union last summer after a campaign of threats, "nagging and pestering." Gramlich quoted Joseph Cooper, vice-president of the C I O local, as remarking that "he had protected me long enough and he couldn't hold the dogs off any longer."

Home Stench-Bombed.

E. Reith, also a chassis department subforeman, declared that his home in Goodfellow Terrace was stench-bombed last Dec. 16. A few days before the bomb was thrown, the witness testified, he saw Ben Bunk, an active C I O union member, and other union members drive past his home.

On cross-examination, Reith said he had the "idea" that Krummel did not want all employes to sign the statements of satisfaction. The witness said he was unable to explain where he got the idea, but he was certain that it was from nothing that Krummel had said.

Andrew Sivley said he was threatened constantly during the union's early organizational drive last spring. He joined the C I O local, he said, after Norman Smith, C I O organizer, had addressed a meeting of subforeman and advised them to "think of your wives and children."

In direct testimony the subforemen corroborated the testimony of foreman and other executives that the services of many men now unemployed are not needed because of low production. The assembly plant, closed now because of a decline of about 50 per cent in car sales from sales at this time last year, will resume operations Feb. 28.

RELIEF FRAUD CHARGES FILED

Man Accused of Getting Food Orders When Employed.

Two warrants charging James Jackson, Negro, 1303 Carr street, with obtaining goods under false pretenses were issued yesterday after representatives of the State Social Security Commission told Prosecuting Attorney James P. Finnegan that Jackson had obtained two requisitions for food while he was employed.

The grocery orders, each for $19.70, were issued last Aug. 7 and Sept. 7, while he was working at the American Car & Foundry Co., it was alleged.

C I O MAN TELLS N L R B OF FORD ORGANIZER

Testifies at Kansas City John Gillespie Handled Company Unions.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 18.—The name of John Gillespie, variously identified as "Monsieur X," a "former billionaire," a "politician," a "free lance trouble shooter" and confidant of Henry Ford, was brought frequently into testimony of a National Labor Relations Board hearing today.

Gillespie has been mentioned by almost every witness since the board opened its inquiry this week into charges of a C I O affiliate that the Ford plant here opposed unionization with spies, coercion and a company union.

The latest identification of Gillespie, given by the recording secretary of the complaining union, was that of a man employed after the Wagner Act was declared constitutional "to take over the organization of company unions for the Ford company."

The witness, Walter H. Williams, who said he was a Ford metal finisher until he was laid off, testified Gillespie thus identified himself when he came here last spring from Detroit and helped settle a brief sitdown strike at the Ford plant.

"Gillespie said," testified Williams, "that in 1935, after the Wagner Act was declared constitutional, he was asked to take over the organization of company unions for the Ford company by the Ford attorney who had studied the act and knew how to form them."

Last night in Detroit, Harry H. Bennett, Ford personnel director, said Gillespie was "a free lance trouble-shooter with many 'ins' on both sides," once worked in the Ford service department but was not on the Ford payroll now.

Williams testified that Gillespie agreed the local of the United Automobile Workers of America, the complaining union, had convinced him the independent union of Ford workers "was undoubtedly a company union." The independent union is an intervenor in the present hearing.

Baron de Louis, president of the local C I O union, previously testified that Gillespie, on coming here last spring to help settle the sitdown strike, said: "I'll go telephone Ford and Bennett." Afterward, De Louis said, he returned and announced everything was settled.

Williams testified that Gillespie, displaying a Ford badge, assured the union men at that time an "article" would appear asking them to turn in their badges "and that we should disregard it."

Williams testified today that when his union tried to circulate its official publication to Ford workers as they left the plant the company foremen told the employes if they took one "it means your job."

Ford attorneys objected to the wording of the question when Paul Nachtman, Labor Board attorney, asked if here were other attempts "to hinder the freedom of the press." The trial examiner overruled them.

Victor Kienboeck, president of Austria's National Bank, offered his resignation, but it was not accepted. Kienboeck's stand was that if there were anything like Austrian-German Anschluss (union) there would result a fall in the national currency.

Germany presently owes Austria 47,000,000 schillings (about $8,500,000) for Austrian goods.

Freed political prisoners were back home and students, expelled from Austrian schools for Nazi activities, were permitted to resume their courses. TELLS ABOUT INSIDE UNION AT SWIFT & CO.

C I O Man at Labor Board Hearing Says Names Were Checked.

Testimony in support of National Labor Relations Board charges that the Employes' Protective Association at Swift & Co.'s packing plant, at National Stockyards, is a company union, was given at the opening of a hearing in the Federal Building at East St. Louis today.

The charges, being heard by Trial Examiner Albert L. Lohm, were preferred by the regional office of the Labor Board on complaint of Local 530 of the United Packing House Workers' Industrial Union, an affiliate of the Committee for Industrial Organization. The complaint lists a variety of alleged unfair labor practices.

As the hearing opened Arthur Felsen, United States Commissioner and, in his private capacity, attorney for the protective association, filed a petition to intervene on behalf of the association.

The petition asserted the association was the legitimate bargaining agent for employes and denied it was fostered, dominated and supported by the company. Formed May 4, 1937, the association excludes from membership all persons employed in a supervisory capacity, the petition continues.

It has more than 1000 members, who joined without coercion or intimidation, and it is willing to prove by an election that this membership comprises a majority, the petition says. The plant is said to employ 1500 workers. The C I O union had petitioned for an election, but later withdrew the petition. The Employes' Protective Association was then willing and is still willing that the election be held, its petition declares.

Union Head Testifies.

The first witness for the Labor Board was Joseph Behnan, president of the packing house workers' local and also of the East St. Louis C I O Council. He said he was a loin puller in the pork cutting department of the plant.

In response to questions by Joseph A. Hoskins, Labor Board counsel, Behnan testified that when he started work in 1933 the Employes' Protective Association was in existence, but that in April, 1937, after the Supreme Court upheld the Wagner Act, the company posted notices that the association, as a company union, would be dissolved.

The same day, Behnan continued, an employe, Bluford Jones, went around the plant, asking employes to vote on a new organization. "He told me the company would prefer an inside to an outside organization," Behnan testified. "He said the company would be glad to recognize an inside organization and that dues would be less and we would get more advantages."

Had List He Checked.

"He had a list of employes' names and their badge numbers and was checking how they voted," the witness continued. "I told him I wouldn't vote because there was no secret ballot. Later in the morning he came around with blank pieces of paper and then I voted. That afternoon notices were posted that the inside organization had won. The count of votes was not given and I never knew who counted them."

The witness said he heard representatives of the E. P. A. urge workers to join in the presence of foremen, who did not object. One foreman, discussing the E. P. A. with him, said, "I thought you knew a good thing," Behnan testified. "I said, 'I do, that's why I joined the C I O,'" Behnan said he replied.

The office of the protective association is in the lobby of the plant office, alongside the employment and timekeeper's offices, the witness said. Meetings are held evenings in the company cafeteria, he continued.

Handbills Passed Out.

He identified several handbills, which he said were passed out at gates of the plant. Some were notices of meetings, others were statements of the association on its controversy with the C I O. Other notices, he added, were posted on plant bulletin boards, ordinarily used for company business, and on time clocks and doors.

The N L R B complaint charges the company discharged 11 employes for union activities; that it threatened to discharge others for wearing union buttons and to remove its plant from East St. Louis; that it laid off four persons because of union activities and has restored only one to a full-time job, and that it reduced the basic pay of four other employes.

SHELL OIL TO LAY OFF A FEW

10 Per Cent Cut in Refining Operation Will Not Involve Many.

The reduction of 10 per cent in refining operations by Shell Petroleum Corporation, announced yesterday, will not involve laying off an appreciable number of employes, an official of the company said today to a Post-Dispatch reporter. The personnel required to maintain operations at 90 per cent will be virtually the same as usual, he said.

Operations were curtailed to cooperate with oil-producing states which have reduced production as a result of a surplus of gasoline stock which accumulated last year. The surplus was caused by a production of crude oil in 1937 in excess of the national requirement as estimated by the United States Bureau of Mines.

800 AT NOISY HEARING ON PLUMBING BILL

Measure Taken Under Advisement by Committee of Board of Aldermen.

A bill to regulate sale, installation and removal of plumbing fixtures was taken under advisement by the Public Safety Committee of the Board of Aldermen yesterday, following a stormy public hearing attended by more than 800 persons.

It was the most tempestuous hearing since those on unpopular street widening bills in Mayor Miller's administration. Proponents of the measure, which was sponsored by the plumbing division of the Civic Committee engaged in revising the building code, had scant opportunity to make themselves heard. The crowd, which packed the aldermanic chamber and gallery, was present largely as a result of a notice of the hearing advertised by the Real Estate Exchange, a principal opponent.

Various organizations of property owners and some plumbing supply houses opposed the bill, while master plumbers and labor interests favored it. It was read by Alderman Nick Reidy, who introduced it by request.

Terms of Measure.

Under the bill it would be unlawful to install or remove fixtures, whether new or secondhand, which did not bear labels supplied by the city's plumbing inspection department. Sale or possession of unlabeled fixtures would be unlawful, and dealers would be required to make weekly reports of fixtures sold, giving the names of buyers and the places of installation. Purchases of unlabeled fixtures, unless made direct from manufacturers, would be prohibited. Anyone violating the provisions would be subject to a fine of $5 to $500.

Reidy said the purpose of the provisions was to protect property owners and the public health, without additional cost to the owners of property. The idea was to prevent faulty installations by unlicensed "handy men," Reidy added. There were loud boos and hisses when he finished speaking.

W. T. Collins, secretary of the Mill Creek Valley Property Owners' Association, was the first speaker in opposition to the bill after Alderman Hoeflinger had announced that each side would have one hour. Collins declared that many property owners were unable to collect rents and should not be forced to shoulder additional burdens. "Give the property owner a breathing spell," he pleaded.

Bill Termed Illegal.

Samuel White, representing a plumbing supply house, termed the bill unlawful and stated that a similar measure, "railroaded through the Board of Aldermen last year," was declared unconstitutional. He declared that plumbing salesmen did not wish to be placed in the role of policemen.

Clarence C. Lang, executive secretary of the Real Estate Exchange, stated that a law with similar provisions had been declared illegal in Ohio.

Several other persons spoke against the bill.

Those arguing for it included Thomas Delaney, chief city plumbing inspector; John J. Church, secretary of the Building Trades Council, presenting a resolution by the council; William M. Brandt, secretary of the Central Trades and Labor Union, speaking as an individual; D. W. Day, representing a plumbing supply house; a representative of the Retail Hardware Dealers' Association, and William R. Brokman of Chicago, secretary of the Illinois Master Plumbers' Association, appearing at the request of master plumbers here.

Most of these speakers emphasized the assertion that the bill would promote public health, chiefly by eliminating installation of plumbing by handy men. Inspector Delaney, saying this measure would make enforcement of other ordinances easier, declared epidemics could result from faulty plumbing. Brokman attributed the epidemic of amebic dysentery in Chicago several years ago to an improper piece of plumbing work by a hotel handy man.

The aldermanic committee announced it had adopted an amendment, eliminating from application of the bill furnaces, boilers, radiators and hot water tanks but adding various items of plumbing. Among the things which would be affected would be lavatories, sinks, bathtubs, laundry tubs, combination fixtures, shower baths, toilets, range boilers, water heaters, drinking fountains, filters, water softeners, soda fountains and electric dishwashers.

Bar on Parking Lot Contested.

A petition was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Kurt V. Moll and Rene N. Moll, owners of the A. Moll Grocer Co., 5659 Delmar boulevard, asking for a review by the Court of a recent action of the City Board of Adjustment denying the company a permit to use two lots as free parking space for its customers. The board upheld the action of Building Commissioner Charles A. Welsch, who ruled that the lots are in the mutliple dwelling district, as defined by the zoning ordinance. A hearing on the petition will be conducted by Judge Eugene J. Sartorius March 28.

Fined $100 on Slot Machine Charge.

William Borger, proprietor of a confectionery at Freeburg, Ill., was fined $100 by Justice of the Peace A. H. Schoenenberger at Belleville yesterday on a charge of operating a slot machine. Borger said he would appeal.

MAN, ORDERED EVICTED, KILLS TWO OFFICERS

Los Angeles Negro Finally Subdued in Home by 24 Policemen.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18. — George Farley, a Negro, shot and killed two unarmed deputy city marshals yesterday and was wounded three times himself before 24 policemen finally subdued him.

A movie company was making a scene depicting a fight between police and criminals two blocks away. Their work was interrupted by the real shooting.

Deputy Marshal W. L. Romer was shot to death in the Negro's yard. The other deputy, Dwight Crittenden, ran toward his automobile but fell to the pavement, a bullet in his head. Crittenden was a former stage and movie actor. The Negro continued shooting with his rifle along the street and drove everybody to cover. Police attacked with the aid of tear gas bombs. Inside the house thay found Farley. Hospital attendants said he would recover. "They offered me $36 to get out of the house," Farley said at the hospital. "Then I went and got my gun and let them have it." The man apparently misunderstood the marshal's deputies, who had been instructed to notify him to vacate the house in 36 hours.

G. L. ALLEN HOME TO BE RAZED TO SAVE TAX

Unless House at 26 Westmoreland Finds Buyer, It Will Be Wrecked.

Unless the George L. Allen mansion at 26 Westmoreland place is sold within several weeks, members of the family plan to tear it down to save taxes and cost of upkeep.

The 28-room stone structure has been vacant since the death of Allen's widow, Mrs. Lillie H. Allen, in June, 1936. Gerard B. Allen, one of her sons and a trustee of the estate, said today to a Post-Dispatch reporter that efforts to sell had been futile thus far.

"It is now in the hands of several real estate agencies, which are trying to sell it," he said. "If they fail, it goes into the hands of the wreckers. In fact we are already receiving bids from wrecking companies."

The house was built in 1893, at a cost of $72,000, by George L. Allen, capitalist and former president of the Fulton Iron Works, who died in 1924. Later a ballroom, 34 by 60 feet, was added at the back of the house, costing $25,000. In addition there is a four-car garage, formerly a stable, at the rear of the 200-foot square lot. All would be razed under present plans.

The assessed valuation of the property is $67,000, of which $41,000 is for the buildings. Thus, at the current tax rate of $2.77 on each $100 of valuation, the estate would save $1135 annually in taxes by removing the improvements. In addition, there is a substantial expense for maintenance. Gerard Allen said a small sum would be realized in wrecking, from costly woodwork and fixtures.

The two-and-a-half story house, of Renaissance architecture, with a cupola on the roof, is one of the largest on either Westmoreland place or nearby Portland place. Woodwork throughout is of hardwood, mostly oak, and the ballroom is paneled in French walnut. The latter was the scene of many fashionable parties a generation ago.

"The house is simply too big and too old-fashioned to attract buyers," Allen said. "The residential trend is toward the west—out of the smoke of the city—and any man able to afford such a house would undoubtedly rather build a new one than pay to modernize an old one."

If the house is razed the estate will offer the lot for sale. Tax on the ground is $720 annually.

Several large homes in Westmoreland and Portland places have been razed for similar reasons in recent years.

TAVERN OWNERS SEEK VOTE ON SUNDAY SALE OF 3.2 BEER

Single License Plan and Saloons for Unincorporated Areas Sought in Referendum Petitions.

Circulation of initiative petitions for a change in the State liquor law to establish the right of saloons to sell 3.2 beer on Sunday, provide for licensing saloons in unincorporated areas and set up a single-license system has been started by the Tavern Owners' Protective Association of Missouri. The measure will go on the ballot in next November's election if signed by 8 per cent of the voters in nine of the 13 congressional districts.

Sale of 3.2 beer by saloons would be authorized at any time, except between 1:30 and 6 a. m. State saloon licenses in unincorporated districts would be issued on certification by the County Court that the location was satisfactory and the applicant was of good character and likely to comply with the laws. However, there would be a limit of one license for each 1000 inhabitants of unincorporated area. The proposed single license would be $300 a year for sale of intoxicating liquor or nonintoxicating beer by drink or package.

Roy Graham, 7901 Forsythe boulevard, Clayton, is chairman of the association.

The body of Mrs. Louise Reichmann, a widow, 67 years old, who had been missing from her home, 916 South Second street, since Thanksgiving day, was taken from the Mississippi River by police yesterday at Victor street.

Her brother, William Scheible, of the same address, identified the body. He said his sister had suffered spells of melancholia.

ROOSEVELT CALLS SHIP BUILDING A HEADACHE

Three Courses for Merchant Marine Suggested but All Very Slow.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—President Roosevelt described the problem of building up the merchant marine as "a headache" today shortly after Senator Thomas (Dem.), Utah, characterized maritine union opposition to mediation legislation as due to misunderstanding.

Roosevelt outlined at his press conference three possible courses he said could be followed if the Government itself should undertake the job of building merchant ships. These were:

1. Finance existing private shipyards, and have the work done under private management. The President recalled the fixed fee system followed in World War days.

2. Build the ships in Government yards and finance them with Government funds.

3. Build new ways and equipment in the navy yards.

All these methods, he said, would be very slow.

In response to a question as to the feasibility of building ships in foreign yards, Roosevelt said almost all Congressmen with whom he had discussed the proposal had favored it as practical but added they could not vote for it.

Senator Thomas, chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, said today that some of the opposition of maritime unions to proposed Government mediation and arbitration of their labor disputes probably was due to misunderstanding.

The Senate Labor Committee called in legal and labor experts today to go over proposed labor amendments to the Maritime Subsidy Act suggested by Joseph P. Kennedy, retiring chairman of the Maritime Commission.

Conferring with the Senate committee at at executive session were Gerard D. Reilly, Labor Department Solicitor; Charles Fahy, counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, and U. Bon Geaslin, Maritime Commission lawyer.

WOOL MANUFACTURERS' ASSN. REJECTS TRADE MEETING BID

It Turns Down Federal Commission on Conference on Practices in Industry.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The National Association of Wool Manufacturers announced last night it had declined to participate in a trade practice conference for the wool industry called by the Federal Trade Commission.

The association made public a copy of a telegram from Arthur Besse, its president, to the commission in which he said the industry needed no such conference in the first place and that in the second place the commission had called it without consulting the industry itself.

"We learn not from you but through a press release," said Besse, "that the Federal Trade Commission has called a trade practice conference for the wool industry . . . The wool textile industry has not been consulted about this conference . . . If we are correctly informed exactly two members of the wool textile industry and certain wool growers have asked you to institute such a proceeding . . . Are we to understand that the commission calls a trade practice conference at the request of two members of an industry such as ours?"

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

ST. LOUIS, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1938.

GRAND JURY CALLS MURDERED SENECA MAN'S WIDOW

Panel Visits Scenes of Killing of N. E. Mitchell and of Two Ex-Convicts Shot to Death.

NO ADEQUATE MOTIVE FOUND

Victim, a Druggist and Undertaker, Well-Liked, and Was Not Known to Have Had Enemies.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEOSHO, Mo., Feb. 18.—The special Newton County grand jury investigating the murder of Norman E. Mitchell, prominent Seneca druggist and undertaker who was mysteriously shot to death last Dec. 28 in the basement of his home, visited the scene of the crime this morning as the inquiry entered its fifth day.

The jury also visited the nearby farm home of Logan E. Hunt and Carl Smith, former convicts, who were shot to death Jan. 12 by Constable Roy E. Hance of Seneca in a fight which began, Hance said, when he sought to question them about the Mitchell murder.

The visit to the home of the former convicts definitely establishes that the special grand jury has incorporated into its investigation of the Mitchell murder the related killing of Hunt and Smith. Evidence which Hance reported he found near the Mitchell home indicated that Hunt was the killer of the druggist, but subsequently the prosecutor obtained affidavits from three young farmers that they had been with Hunt and Smith at their home the night Mitchell was killed, and that the two men did not leave the place.

When the special grand jury was convened Monday, Circuit Judge Emory E. Smith stated in his instructions that the jury had been called primarily to "investigate the matter of murder in this county." While he did not specifically mention the Mitchell murder, he referred to it indirectly by saying that "so far, county officers have had no success in ferreting out the murderer."

More Information Sought.

Prosecutor Wayne V. Slankard said there was a possibility that the jury would recess for the week-end at the close of today's session. If this is done, the jury will resume its work next Tuesday. Slankard said the recess would probably be necessary to give him time to obtain additional information requested by the jury. He did not disclose the nature of the information requested.

The only witness under subpena for the hearing today is Mrs. Iva Mitchell, wife of the murdered druggist, who spent more than an hour before the jury Tuesday. She is Mitchell's third wife, the others having died.

She and Mitchell were divorced July 25, 1934, and were remarried about a month later. The divorce decree was granted to her on her cross bill to a suit filed by Mitchell. In her cross bill, Mrs. Mitchell charged general indignities and alleged that within a year following their marriage in 1914 her husband began associating with other women.

Effort to Establish Motive.

It was learned from a reliable source that many of the 37 witnesses who have appeared before the jury during the first four days of the investigation were friends, relatives and business acquaintances of Mitchell, who were questioned about his private life in an effort to uncover evidence which would establish a motive for the murder.

Mrs. Mitchell's divorce pleading also stated that Mitchell had requested her in 1932 to get a divorce, and offered in settlement gross alimony of $10,000 or gross alimony of $5000 and $100 a month. The cross bill estimated he was worth $50,000 to $60,000, stating he owned considerable property in Newton County and had "large sum of money in his possession."

An inventory of his estate has not been filed. Mrs. Mitchell was named executrix of the estate in his will, which left his property in equal shares to her, a daughter by a previous marriage, and an adopted daughter.

Thirteen witnesses were heard by the jury yesterday, including Mitchell's daughter, Mrs. Norma Chase, and her husband, Aaron Chase of Quapaw, Ok., Highway Patrolman W. E. Grammer, Deputy Sheriff Jay Ackerson, and John Wilkinson, Joplin grain broker, who had purchased fence posts and rails for his farm from Hunt and Smith.

Constable Hance, 33 years old, who was a witness before the jury Wednesday, was in the courthouse throughout the day while the jury was in session. His left hand, which was pierced by a bullet in the fight, was bandaged.

Mitchell, who was 53 years old, was killed by a charge of heavy buckshot when he was preparing to fire the furnace in the basement of his home. His assailant fired through a small basement window at close range, the charge striking Mitchell in the shoulder and chest.

County authorities frankly admit no adequate motive for the killing has been found. The druggist was well liked and as far as has been determined he did not have enemies. He enthusiastically pursued his avocations of hunting and collecting Indian relics.

Both Hunt, 37, and Smith, 27, had served terms for robbery. Their rented home in which they were killed by Hance in the gun fight, is four miles east of Seneca and, according to Sheriff B. W. Bridges, is outside of the township in which Hance was a constable.

Hance's evidence which incriminated Hunt consists of an empty shotgun shell the constable said he found near the Mitchell home the night of the murder, which was found to have been fired from the sawed-off shotgun Smith used in the fight with Hance; and a vinegar jar, found near the scene, bearing Hunt's fingerprints.

Several days after Mitchell was murdered a reward of more than $1100 was offered for solution of the crime. The Newton County court contributed $100 and the rest was subscribed by friends, relatives and business associates in Seneca, Neosho and Joplin.

WORLD UNION REJECTS SOVIET TRADES COUNCIL

Amsterdam International Objects to Terms Attached to Acceptance of Membership.

MOSCOW, Feb. 16.—The Executive Council of the International Federation of Trades Union (Amsterdam International), which last November invited the Soviet Trade Union Council to join its 22,000,000 members to the International Workers' organization, has rejected the Soviet offer of acceptance of the invitation because of certain conditions stipulated in the Soviet reply, it was learned here tonight.

While it was the Executive Council which refused to accede to the Soviet's terms, it was understood in authoritative circles that the national trade unions which comprise the International Federation would not overrule the Executive Council.

No details of the Amsterdam International's rejection of the Soviet agreement have appeared in the press here, and information concerning future action of the Soviet Council could not be obtained.

The Soviet Union, because of the International Federation's action, still remains the only important non-Fascist country in the world whose workers, or at least a part of them, are not members of the Amsterdam International.

The International Federation of Trades Unions claim a membership of 14,000,000, exclusive of the 3,000,000 A. F. of L. members now part of the world organization.

DAIRY HEAD CATCHES BURGLAR IN STORE

Waits With Branch Manager and Nabs Former Employe Entering Window.

Hoping to catch a burglar who had obtained $8.35 in two recent robberies of a branch store of the Golden Rod Dairy Co. at 3529 North Grand boulevard, the president of the company and the manager of the store turned off the lights at 6 o'clock last evening and waited in a back room. Forty minutes later they grabbed a young man crawling in through an unlatched window and turned him over to police.

The intruder told policemen he was Kenneth Bender, 2922A Hebert street, and, they said, admitted the two robberies. The president of the dairy, Frank B. Hoing, and the store manager, Henry J. Stadler, said he was a former employe. The robberies were on Jan. 31, when $4 was taken, and Feb. 9, when $4.35 was obtained.

Confectionery Robbed; Two Men, Arrested, Admit Holdup.

Two minutes after police received a telephone report last night that there had been a holdup at a confectionery at 3800 Page boulevard, detectives driving to the scene saw two men walking on Spring avenue north of Page boulevard, seached them, and found an empty revolver, $18.31, and papers bearing the name of the confectionery in the pockets of one of them.

The proprietor of the store, Bernice Kolons, and a woman friend who also was held up, identified the prisoners as the robbers, and said $18.31 was the exact amount taken. The prisoners then orally admitted the holdup.

500 YOUNG DEMOCRATS MEETING, MAYOR TALKS

Senator Clark, Who Begins Campaign for Re-election, to Speak.

The sixth annual meeting of the Young Democratic Clubs of Missouri convened today at Hotel Statler for a two-day session which will include speeches by United States Senator Bennett Champ Clark and Gov. Lloyd C. Stark. Five hundred registered for the gathering.

Charles Lamkin of Keytesville delivered the keynote speech after T. E. Roberts of Diamond, president of the State organization, replied to welcoming addresses by Mayor Dickmann and Dan Schlafly, president of the St. Louis Young Democratic Club.

"The present administration has done more ror labor than any other in history," said Lamkin, who is president of the Missouri Prosecuting Attorney's Association, "and certain labor union members and officials should be strongly advised that bombings, sluggings and general violence are a poor way to win public confidence and to replay the friendship of our party."

The decadence of the Republican party in St. Louis "in large part may be traced to the failude to recognize the need for young blood," declared Mayor Dickmann, "and to the failure to recognize the fact that young voters have a right to participate in party functions and government."

Numerous delegates arrived yesterday to attend a reception for Senator Clark at Hotel Jefferson, where his campaign for re-election was formally opened. About 1000 persons attended. In the reception line also were Ruby M. Hulen, Columbia, general chairman of his campaign; Mayor Dickmann, who will direct the St. Louis campaign; Robert E. Hannegan, chairman of the Democratic City Committee, and Gale F. Johnston, general chairman of the Finance Committee for the campaign. William L. Igoe, head of the anti-Dickmann Democratic faction, was among those who attended.

Assured of full support by St. Louis Democratic organizations and indorsed by Boss Tom Pendergast of Kansas City, Senator Clark is expected to have no opposition for the nomination and it appears probable the Republican organization will make no sustained effort to defeat him.

Today's program included a 5 o'clock tea for women delegates given by Mrs. Nat Brown, Democratic National Committeewoman for Missouri, at headquarters in the Buder Building.

An address by Gov. Stark at the opening session at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning will be followed by a speech by Pitt Tyson Maner of Washington, president of the Young Democratic Clubs of America.

Senator Clark will address the afternoon meeting, following which officers will be elected. With little competition for nominations for principal offices to be filled by this year's elections, there likewise was no spirited campaign for offices of the Young Democratic Clubs. It was expected that James C. Conran of New Madrid, Prosecuting Attorney of New Madrid County, would be elected president.

Committee Asks Hennings to Again Run Again for Congress.

Congressman Thomas C. Hennings Jr., serving his second term, was asked to become a candidate for re-election in a resolution adopted yesterday by the Democratic Eleventh Congressional District Committee at a luncheon at Hotel Jefferson. The committee is composed of members of the Democraitc City Committee representing Wards 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 14, 15, 16, 17, 19, 23, 25 and 26.

CHARGE THAT CLAIM OFFICE PRACTICED LAW IS DISMISSED

State Bar Committee Drops Action Against Ocean Accident & Guarantee Corporation.

A suit of the Missouri State Bar Committee against the Ocean Accident & Guarantee Corporation and two of its St. Louis employes, asking that they be declared to be engaging in the unauthorized practice of law was dismissed by the Bar Committee today at its cost, in Circuit Judge Eugene J. Sartorius' court.

The employes are Harry B. Dietrich, superintendent of the company's claim office in the Railway Exchange Building, and Donald W. Rowan, an adjuster.

Circuit Judge Thomas J. Rowe Jr. last Jan. 17 sustained a defense demurrer to the Bar Committee's suit, and dismissed the suit. Chief points in the demurrer were that the Court did not have jurisdiction and the petition did not state a cause of action. By its action today, the Bar Committee finally dropped the case, not choosing to appeal.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—The Works Progress Administration reported today an increase of 44,692 in W P A work-relief enrollment during the week ended Feb. 5. Total enrollment was 1,945,317, compared with 1,900,625 on Jan. 29.

Largest increases were 8073 in Pennsylvania, 7024 in Ohio, 4998 in Michigan and 3510 in Illinois.

ILLINOIS COAL PRICES CUT BY U. S. BOARD

Order Issued on Complaint of Companies in Southern Part of State.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—The Bituminous Coal Commission reduced temporarily yesterday the minimum prices it has specified for coal from 15 mining companies in Southern Illinois.

The action was taken to meet complaints of Southern Illinois operators that they could not meet competition at the prices fixed by the board.

The reductions range from 15 to 35 cents a ton.

The companies for which minimum prices were reduced are: Brewerton, Central Illinois Coal Mining, Consolidated Coal, Gillespie Coal, Hillsboro Mining, Indiana & Illinois Coal Corporation, Livingston-Mt. Olive Coal, Marion County Coal, Mine B Coal, Mt. Olive & Stanton Coal, Nokomis Coal, Pana Coal, Panther Creek Mines Inc., Peabody Coal, and Penwell Coal.

Seven Companies Win Temporary Injunction on Rail Fuel Rates.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Seven coal companies won a temporary injunction yesterday restraining the Bituminous Coal Commission from enforcing its price schedule for locomotive fuel.

Although the order issued by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals applied only to six complaining firms in Illinois and one in Indiana, the District of Columbia Court of Appeals recently blocked general enforcement of railroad coal rates fixed by the commission.

The companies that obtaind the injunction here were the Truax-Traer Coal Co., United Electric Coal companies, Pyramid Coal Corporation, Southwestern Illinois Coal Corporation, Central States Collieries, and the Illinois Pocahontas Coal Co., all of Illinois, and the Patoka Coal Co. of Indiana.

The companies alleged they were unable to sell coal to railroads because the commission fixed the same price for all grades of bituminous coal, and that railroads naturally preferred to buy higher grade coal mined in some of the Southern Illinois mines when they could get it at the same price as lower grades from other mines.

DRIVER TRACED BY LICENSE FINED $625 FOR ACCIDENT

John O. Granstaff Penalized on Three Charges; Accused of Hitting Two Men.

John O. Granstaff, 20 years old, 3156A Park avenue, was fined $625 yesterday by Police Judge James F. Nangle on three traffic charges placed against him Jan. 9 by police who traced to him an automobile which did not stop after striking two men in the 1700 block of Missouri avenue.

He was fined $300 for careless driving, $300 for leaving the scene of an accident, and $25 for driving with four persons on the front seat. In addition, his driver's license was suspended for six months.

Traced by the license number, his car was found to have dented fenders and a missing door handle. A button on the running board matched those on the overcoat of one of the injured men. Granstaff, a machinist, said he was driving in the vicinity, felt a bump but was unaware his car had hit anyone. He will appeal.

MANY REQUIREMENTS FOR MOVIE SINGERS

Film Work Harder Than That in Opera, Mary Garden Says.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 18.—"Singers, in pictures, have more than twice the difficulties to overcome that they have in opera. Motion pictures demand every attraction a dramatic player can have, plus a flawless voice that can withstand the searching accuracy of the microphone."

So declared Mary Garden, opera star, who has returned to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, where she is developing and discovering singing talent for the screen, following a trip to New York, where she held a number of auditions.

"It is for this reason that we are trying to find potential voices among very young people, so that, by the time they are trained, they will still have the youth so essential to pictures," Miss Garden said. "Opera, on the stage, possesses few singers, for instance, who have the voice as well as the youth and beauty of Jeanette MacDonald, Gladys Swarthout or Helen Jepson. The average singer starts training after becoming adult, and by the time there is sufficient experience, there is a lack of youth. But by training youngsters like Betty Jaynes, in their 'teens, we can have a finished product earlier in life. The camera close-ups make this necessary."

Because of the nature of screen musicals, such as "The Girl of the Golden West," singers must be good dramatic actors and actresses, Miss Garden points out. "Film musicals are essentially dramatic stories, and must be played so convincingly that audiences believe the story and character," she said. "Hence, singers have to be perfect actors and actresses, aside from song.

"We train our new singers vocally and dramatically at the same time, each prospect practicing singing part of the day and taking dramatic coaching for another part. Several young singers I am having trained in Paris, are going through the same routine there."

Aspiring singers should know at least two languages, in addition to dramatic and musical training, Miss Garden believes.

"Jeanette MacDonald, Nelson Eddy, Ilona Massey and other successful screen singers," she points out, "can sing equally well in English, French and Italian. Eddy can also sing in Spanish.

"Even though the artist may never sing in a foreign language, knowledge of at least one is valuable for control of diction, and for a proper perspective on the whole subject of singing."

WINNINGER FORSAKES STAGE PERMANENTLY FOR SCREEN

Comic Actor Builds New Home in West, Settles Down to Film Work.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 18. — According to Charles Winninger, "Goodby Broadway," Universal comedy in which he is being starred with Alice Brady, will most likely mean just that for him, for his picture screening engagements are booked so far ahead that he has decided to make Hollywood his permanent home.

In proof of his determination to dodge Broadway and its lure of starring parts in big stage productions, Winninger is just finishing construction of a magnificent new home on the hills of the San Fernando Valley near the Gerard Country Club, and after he moves in there, he declares that nothing less than a stick of dynamite will dislodge him.

"For more than 30 years I have been trouping," declared Winninger. "I started out as a boy in the stock companies owned by my four brothers. I played hundreds of roles throughout the Middle West while with them and even pinch hit as a patent medicine seller and as an acrobat.

"Then I was bitten by the Broadway bug and after I made 'Show Boat' there I thought I had everything. But finally motion pictures got me. I had been rejected by them years before because my eyes were of such a light blue they would not photograph. But when the picture people came after me the second time they have become so expert they could photograph the eyes of the Sphinx, if necessary.

"So here I am and here I stay. At least as long as the public is willing to put up with me in pictures."

Recent successes of Winninger include principal roles in "You're a Sweetheart," "Every Day's a Holiday," "Nothing Sacred" and "You Can't Have Everything."

Southern Mexico as Setting.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 18. — Southern Mexico, a locale never before used as a motion picture background, will be introduced to film audiences in Paramount's new musical picture, "Tropic Holiday," featuring Bob Burns, Dorothy Lamour, Martha Raye, Ray Milland and Tito Guizar.

IRVING BERLIN TO APPEAR IN TRAILER FEATURETTE

Short Subject Will Herald Feature, "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 18.—A one-reel musical featurette starring Irving Berlin will be made to herald "Alexander's Ragtime Band," the most pretentious musical Darryl F. Zanuck has ever produced.

The trailer featurette will tell the story of how Berlin composed many of the 30 hit songs and three new melodies of "Alexander's Ragtime Band." Berlin will play his cherished piano, the piano with its special keyboard on which he composed his now famous melodies.

Since Berlin composed "Alexander's Ragtime Band," in 1910, he has created some 600 melodies which have sold some 60,000,000 copies. He is considered the father of ragtime since he gave it substance and standing with his "Alexander's Ragtime Band," which subsequently gave rise to jazz and the present swing music.

EL BRENDEL IN COMEBACK AFTER WORK IN HENIE FILM

Dialect Comedian Gets Supporting Role With Shirley Temple.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 18. — Who says that movie fans are fickle to their beloved favorites, and that producers are insensitive to the likes and dislikes of film-goers?

Recently when the familiar figure of El Brendel, Swedish dialect expert, appeared on the screen at the Alexandria Theater in Glendale, during a preview of Twentieh Century-Fox's "Happy Landing," the audience broke into applause. It's been a long time since Brendel has been seen in pictures, and his appearance in the Sonja Henie skating picture was a surprise to the audience, inasmuch as his name was not included in the list of players.

Darryl F. Zanuck, production chief at the studio, who was present at the preview, must have made a mental note of the fact that Brendel is still tops with the fans, for the other day the studio announced that the comedian has been given an important role in "Little Miss Broadway," starring vehicle for Shirley Temple.

Actress Furnishes Film Title.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 18. — Just for the sake of the record, let it be known that perhaps for the first time in the history of the cinema an actress has furnished the title for her own picture. The imaginative thespian is Mary Carlisle and the title is "Tip-Off Girls" (nee "Highway Racketeers.") It created something of a stir in the studio accounting department. A bonus is customarily paid to employes responsible for a title selected, and it was the first time such a bonus would have gone to a star. Mary endorsed the check over to a players' relief fund.

RELIEF BILL REPORTED FAVORABLY TO SENATE

House's 'Alien' Amendment Struck Out of $250,000,000 Measure.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—The Senate Appropriations Committee reported favorably today the $250,000,000 emergency relief appropriations bill, stripped of the "alien" provision voted by the House.

Senator Adams (Dem.), Colorado, said the amendment would have permitted aliens to share in relief if they had declared their intention to become citizens, or had "lived honorably" in the United States 10 years.

The committee struck out the amendment at the suggestion of Aubrey Williams, acting Works Progress Administrator, Adams said. Williams contended the provision would conflict with a section of the present relief act prohibiting relief to aliens who are ineligible for citizenship.

The committee rejected a motion by Senator Hale (Rep.), Maine, to cut the appropriation to $150,000,000, of which he would allot $75,000,000 directly to the states.

Adams said no attempt was made in committee to increase the total appropriation. Several Senators asserted, however, that an effort to raise the total is expected to be made on the floor when the measure is called up Monday.

The House passed the relief bill Wednesday.

STOCK LIST HAS NERVOUS DAY OF UPS AND DOWNS

Recoveries Follow Mid-day Set-Back After Administration Statement on Price Policy and Then Shares Sag Again.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The stock market suffered a relapse today following the President's comments on the price level at his press conference. These were interpreted by some traders as chilling talk of speculative inflationary psychology.

Recently strong steels, coppers, rubbers, motors, farm implements and specialties converted opening gains of fractions to more than a point into losses running to 2 or so.

There was a later comeback and another slide at the beginning of the final hour, with a mild recovery attempt just before the close.

Steels, buoyant at the start, were among the principal sufferers at the finish as the U. S. Steel Corporation disclosed it would ask authorization to increase the common stock by 2,500,000 no-par shares.

Despite the one or two feverish trading intervals, the day's transfers were estimated at around 800,000 shares.

Conspicuous on the reversal were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown, Anaconda, American Smelting, Chrysler, General Motors, Goodyear, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, J. I. Case, Westinghouse, du Pont, Santa Fe, American Telephone, Allis Chalmers, Philip Morris, Union Carbide, Johns-Manville and International Nickel.

Utilities were only fractions in arrears. Resistance was shown by Eastman Kodak, Homestake Mining, Allied Chemical, National Lead and St. Joseph Lead.

Down at the end were Phelps Dodge, Canada Dry, U. S. Rubber preferred, National Distillers and Newport Industries.

Day in Commodities.

Commodities, ahead in the forenoon, dipped with stocks and bonds turned uneven. Wheat at Chicago was off 1 to 1⅝ cents a bushel and corn down ¼ to ⅝ cents.

Cotton futures at New York ended off 30 to 65 cents a bale. New York volume of hide futures trading totaled 19,280,000 pounds, topping the more than 18,000,000 pounds traded the preceding day, the previous high record session. Hide futures ended down .28 to .34 of a cent a pound, after sharp gains the two preceding days. Wool top futures trading at 1,450,000 pounds was the heaviest in the history of the Wool Top Exchange. Forward contracts closed .15 to .25 of a cent a pound higher.

Copper futures at New York declined, lead and tin forward contracts edged up a bit, and zinc futures were unchanged. Also lower at New York were rubber, silk, cocoa, coffee and cottonseed oil futures. Sugar forward contracts were uneven, showing little change.

The Associated Press index of 35 weighted wholesale staple prices, with 1926 as 100, advanced to 70.97 from 70.96 yesterday.

Among Market Factors.

On the side of steels was the overnight announcement of United States Steel's principal subsidiary that prices for the second quarter would be reaffirmed. This, to some observers, indicated that pent-up buying in this field might re-enter the market and help mill operations.

Helpful also were better than expected earnings statements, with several companies reporting sizable increases for 1937 over the year before.

A more than seasonal drop in last week's freight loadings was in line with forecasts and carriers merely trailed the rest of the market.

Recent curtailment of public spending was reflected in the week-end trade review of Dun & Bradstreet, which finds that, while retail distribution in leading centers was 1 to 5 per cent ahead of the preceding week, it was 3 to 6 per cent under a year ago for the country as a whole.

At the same time, the review points out, retailers have been somewhat encouraged by the steadiness of consumer purchasing thus far this year in the face of reduced payrolls, "although alertly cognizant of definite indications of weakening."

By the Associated Press.

ORDER DESIGNED TO PREVENT GRAIN 'SQUEEZES' IS ISSUED

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18. — The Commodity Exchange Administration has issued an order designed to prevent grain market "squeezes" by forbidding trading in grain futures contracts during the last seven days of the delivery month. Present regulations prohibit such trading during the last three days of the month.

Dr. J. W. T. Duvel, chief of the agency, said the order would not apply to May, 1938, futures contracts. He explained, "trading in July wheat will cease on July 22, leaving the balance of the month to settle contracts by delivery of the actual grain."

The order will apply to trading in wheat, corn, oats, barley, rice and flaxseed. Markets affected are the Chicago Board of Trade, Chicago Open Board of Trade, Duluth Board of Trade, Kansas City Board of Trade, Los Angeles Grain Exchange, Milwaukee Grain and Stock Exchange, Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce, New York Produce Exchange, Portland Grain Exchange, St. Louis Merchants' Exchange and the Seattle Grain Exchange.

Officials said the order grew out of a "serious congestion" or "squeeze" in the 1937 September corn future, which resulted in suspension of trading on the Chicago Board of Trade.

New York Sugar.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Sugar futures were irregular today. The No. 3 contract, after advancing 2 to 3 points on further trade covering, reacted under increased commission-house liquidation. The No. 4 held comparatively steady. March No. 3 broke from 2.28 to 2.24 and July from 2.32 to 2.28, leaving the list around 2 p. m. about 1 to 2 points net lower. The No. 4 at the same time, was 1 to 1½ higher, with March at 1.04½ and September at 1.12.

Futures No. 3 closed unchanged to 1 lower. Sales 20,250 tons.

U. S. STEEL'S NEW FINANCING PLANS; NO-PAR COMMON

Stockholders Asked to Approve Increase of 2,500,000 Shares — Rehabilitation Program.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18. — Directors moved today to make the capital structure of the United States Steel Corporation more flexible for future new financing. They asked stockholders to approve an increase of 2,500,000 in the number of authorized common shares and change the face value from $100 to no-par.

Under the new setup, if approved at the annual meeting in April, the corporation will have authorized outstanding 15,000,000 shares of common and 4,000,000 authorized 7 per cent cumulative preferred, of which 3,602,811 are outstanding. No change was made in the status of the preferred in today's action.

The increase to 15,000,000 shares is from 12,500,000. It was stated there was no immediate plan for the financing.

Stockholders were requested to authorize the board to issue bonds, debentures and other convertible obligations.

The statement, made by a spokesman for the company, said that, in changing the common stock from $100-par value to no-par value, the directors proposed that the stated capital for outstanding common stock be $75 a share, thus decreasing the capital, and increasing the capital surplus of the corporation by $217,581,300 to $298,831,321.42.

In a letter to stockholders dated Feb. 21, Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the board, explained that the board contemplated reducing the item of intangible assets to a nominal value of $1 by charging the amount of $260,368,520.53 against the capital surplus, leaving a capital surplus of $38,462,800.89. The corporation's earned surplus would not be affected by the proposed changes.

The letter pointed out that, during the five-year period ended Dec. 31, the corporation and its subsidiaries undertook rehabilitation and new construction to the extent of approximately $250,000,000, about $225,000,000 of which was provided from resources without the sale of any securities. At the beginning of this year $50,000,000 of this amount had not yet been expended and to carry out the program the corporation recently borrowed $50,000,000 from banks in New York, Pittsburgh and Chicago.

WEEKLY WOOL REVIEW

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Feb. 18.—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

"Demand for wool continues light on Summer street and prices are easier for the week, both with respect to worsted and woolen wools. The stronger trend in wool futures has given some courage to holders. Demand for goods, however, still lags.

"In the West, the outstanding event of the week was the first purchase of new clip wool in Arizona at 17¾ cents, against 36 cents a year ago. This is figured at not exceeding 55 cents, clean basis. Sales of similar wools here have been made around 60@62 cents, clean basis. Sales of merchantable quarter and three-eighths wool from the Midwest have been made at 24@25 cents for good wools.

"Foreign markets are slightly easier for the week, both in the primary and secondary markets.

"Mohair is dull and not quotably changed."

The Bulletin will publish the following quotations:

BIG STEEL REAFFIRMS CURRENT QUOTATIONS

Trade Sees Action as Stabilizing Influence, Looks for Buying.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 18.—The Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation has reaffirmed current quotations on hot rolled products for second-quarter shipments.

The base prices for cold rolled sheets will be at the same reduced rates of $4 a ton which became effective last week.

Steel circles see the move as a stabilizing one, which should cause many consumers, now sitting on the side lines awaiting possible reductions in line with the cold rolled cut, to place immediate orders.

Buying had dropped perceptibly in many lines after the break last week, when one mill offered a reduction to a large automobile body concern.

Carnegie-Illinois and other subsidiaries of the United States Steel Corporation normally produce about 37 per cent of the nation's steel. Generally in the past other producers have followed Big Steel's price changes.

An outstanding exception, however, was last week's reduction in cold rolled steel, when Carnegie-Illinois announced it had followed a competitor in slashing prices.

Executives of the independent producers declined to comment "at this time" on the announcement, although the spokesman for one large concern said he expected it also would re-affirm present prices.

Last year, when steel mills were booming along at higher than 80 per cent capacity output and with heavy backlogs of orders, second quarter prices were not reaffirmed until late in March.

Present national production is about 30 per cent of capacity.

Hot-rolled steel sheets, under 24 inches wide and one-quarter of an inch thick were quoted in Pittsburgh at 2.4 cents a pound yesterday, or $48 a ton. Cold-rolled steel sold for 3.2 cents a pound or $64 a ton.

Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet & Tube and Inland Steel also reaffirmed current steel prices for the second quarter.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The price of export copper today was lifted to 10.17 cents a pound, compared with around 10 cents yesterday. Cable advices to domestic trade sources reported an active buying movement abroad.

Week's Review of Business

By Dun & Bradstreet, Inc.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Retail buying at leading centers of distribution this week was 1 to 5 per cent above last week, but 3 to 6 per cent under a year ago for the country as a whole, Dun and Bradstreet reports. Wholesale buying ran from 5 to 12 per cent under last year.

"The moderate increase in sales this week," the agency says, "was contributed chiefly by products in the super-price brackets, even though some improvement was felt by merchants serving the wage-earner class of trade. Despite wide-price mark-downs, furniture, rugs, radios, fur coats, and infants' wear moved slowly. February sales of toiletries and accessories attracted patronage. Jewelry, watches, gloves, millinery, handbags, cloth coats, dresses, sweaters, and tailored suits sold well, with the stress on the new spring styles."

The agency says reports from varied wholesale lines and localities did not indicate that average retail inventories were "unduly heavy, or that liabilities were out of proportion."

ST. LOUIS—Definite improvement in retail sales for week held the decline from the 1937 total to about 5 per cent. Wholesalers received a good run of orders from visitors to the American Retailers' convention. Buying was cautious and volume remained under last year's by 10 to 12 per cent. Shoe orders restricted, despite rising total. Wide jump for week almost doubled the corresponding 1937 building permit values.

KANSAS CITY—In spite of slow employment and payroll reduction, retail sales were larger for the week; decline from comparative 1937 total narrowed to 2 to 4 per cent. Orders to most wholesale houses also rose above the previous week's, but was about 5 per cent below last year's. Buying of spring merchandise slow; most orders for fillins. Commodity prices fairly steady, excepting a drop in some dairy products.

LOUISVILLE—Except furniture, most retail lines moved out more rapidly than in previous week. Comparisons with 1937 week meaningless, as all stores had not reopened, following the flood. Wholesale orders also increased, with the largest gain in jewelry. Orders to manufacturers of metal beds and allied lines up 15 per cent for week; still down about 50 per cent from 1937.

CHICAGO—Retail trade took turn for better over week-end, when temperature dropped abruptly; while sales increased, total was under last year's by around 4 per cent. Wholesalers helped by the style shows and various trade expositions; drop from 1937 volume shortened to about 12 per cent. Most manufacturing schedules were lowered. Steel rate to open week at 23.5 per cent of capacity, off 0.1 point, against 80.5 a year ago.

CLEVELAND—Slight increase in freight car loading, automobile output, and reduction in certain steel prices failed to revive trade despite stimulus of February promotions; retail sales were about 3 per cent under the 1937 week, when floods interfered with shopping. Industrial operations under last year's. Some electrical supply manufacturers to keep on full schedules through March. A few textile mills equaled last year's rate.

DETROIT—Merchants cheered by average rise of 7 per cent in retail sales over previous week's; at some stores gains ran as high as 20 per cent. Compared with 1937 week, total was about 8 per cent smaller. Wholesale markets remained quiet; dry goods orders off nearly 15 per cent from last year's volume. Automobile production advanced to 57,810 units from 51,43 a week earlier; still under 1937 assemblies of 74,145.

PITTSBURGH—Volume of retail distribution uneven, but averaged 10 to 15 per cent under that for the 1937 week. Turnover of clothing, shoe and specialty retailers in some mill towns down 30 per cent. Despite some improvement by independents, steel rate will begin week unchanged at 28 per cent of capacity. More inquiries for pressed and blown glassware. Demand for plate and window glass unimproved; container division making best showing.

BALTIMORE—Department store sales about on a par with last year's; retail distribution, as a whole, down 2 to 4 per cent from 1937 comparative period, with deepest drop in industrial sections. Wholesale buying made little progress; volume about 5 per cent under 1937 week. Industrial situation unchanged; most orders specify immediate delivery.

YOUNGSTOWN—Gains predominated in most retail lines this week, which reduced the drop from the 1937 total to about 8 per cent. Drastic price concessions on many items helped to maintain volume. Moderate increase in wholesale orders; volume short of a year ago by 8 to 10 per cent. Steel rate will average about 25 per cent of capacity, a rise of four points from last Monday. Unemployment increased by building lag.

DECREASE IN LENDABLE BANK EXCESS RESERVE

Federal Statement Shows Drop of $50,000,000 in Week—Switch to Notes.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—The lendable excess reserves of the nation's banks decreased $50,000,000 to $1,360,000,000 in week ended Feb. 16, the Federal Reserve Board reports. Total reserves increased $11,000,000 to $7,216,000,000 principally because of a decrease in Treasury cash and an increase in gold stocks.

The reserve banks again switched from Government bonds to notes, selling $5,000,000 of the long-term securities and buying similar amount of the short-term variety.

"During the week ended Feb. 16 member bank reserve balances increased $11,000,000. Additions to member bank reserves arose from decreases of $4,000,000 in money in circulation and $24,000,000 in Treasury cash and increase of $6,000,000 in reserve bank credit and $25,000,000 in gold stock, offset in part by increases of $31,000,000 in Treasury deposits with Federal Reserve Banks and $19,000,000 in non-member deposits and other Federal Reserve accounts. Excess reserves of member banks on Feb. 16 were estimated to be approximately $1,360,000,000, a decrease of $50,000,000 for the week. Inactive gold included in the gold stock and in Treasury cash amounted to $1,214,000,000 on Feb. 16, a decrease of $9,000,000 for the week.

"The principal changes in holdings of bills and securities were an increase of $5,000,000 in United States Treasury notes and a decrease of $5,000,000 in United States Treasury bonds."

The board's statement:

Changes in member bank reserve balances and related items during the week and the year ended Feb. 16, 1938, were reported as follows:

$60,000 IN SECURITIES STOLEN

Brief Case of Papers Taken From Broker's Office.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—A brief case containing securities valued at $60,000 was taken by a thief yesterday from a table in a Wall street broker's office.

A messenger, Richard Deegan, 28 years old, had turned from the table to hand a batch of securities to a cashier, when the brief case was stolen.

OFFERS INDUCEMENTS FOR EMPLOYES TO QUIT

New York Phone Co. Seeks to Reduce Surplus Force; Pay Provision.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The New York Telephone Co. is offering inducements to employes in the traffic and accounting departments to resign and thereby cut down the surplus of employes, it was learned yesterday. The reason is the business recession.

The company yesterday posted the following notice in the traffic and accounting departments in Manhattan, Brooklyn and the Bronx:

"Because of the decline of general business activity and consequent fall in the volume of telephone calls, a surplus has gradually appeared in the Manhattan, Brooklyn and Bronx operating forces.

"In an effort to avoid part-timing or lay-offs, the company is endeavoring to eliminate the surplus through offering special payments of one week's pay for each year's service, in addition to vacation pay, to a limited number of the force who do not depend solely on their jobs for income and who may consider the special payment inducement to resign voluntarily at this time."

Victor E. Cooley, vice-president of the New York Telephone Co., said yesterday that the same scheme had been used in March, 1933, and had worked effectively. He said that about 60 per cent of the operators in the three boroughs resigned every year, but that there was still a surplus.

STICKER NEW NOTICE OF PARKING VIOLATION

Aldermen Unanimously Pass Measure Which Mayor Dickmann Advocated.

A windshield sticker as a means of preferring charges of parking law violations in the absence of drivers is provided for in an ordinance passed unanimously by the Board of Aldermen today.

Sponsored by Mayor Dickmann and President Albert Bond Lambert of the Police Board, it will take effect when it is signed by the Mayor, probably tomorrow or Monday. Lambert, who urged the passage of the ordinance at an executive conference with most of the Aldermen in Dickmann's office earlier in the day, promised that the police would not use the measure as a means of persecution, but in an effort for better control of downtown parking for the benefit of merchants.

The sticker to be pasted on the windshield of a machine parked too long or at a forbidden time or place will call on the owner of the car to report to the Traffic Violations Bureau. For first offenders the penalty payable at the bureau, in Police Headquarters, for parking law violations is $1. Police Court summonses will be issued for the owners of record, as shown by licenses, in the case of those disregarding the notice to go to the bureau.

It is provided in the ordinance that presence on a street of a vehicle parked in violation of the law shall be prima facie evidence that the person, firm or corporation in whose name it is registered committed the violation. Heretofore, to make a case, police have had to await the return of the driver. With a limited staff to enforce parking rules, police have been unable to do this thoroughly.

The ordinance had been sent back to committee before passage for elimination of clauses repealing numerous sections of the traffic code. A companion measure, aimed at non-resident car owners, providing that a car parked illegally might be locked or towed away, with a $10 fee for release, has not been pressed. The existing traffic code contains such a provision as to towing.

The Aldermen also passed unanimously an ordinance to increase the milk inspection fee from 4 to 5 cents a 100 pounds, which will increase the revenue from this source from $10,400 to $13,000 a month. Health Commissioner Joseph F. Bredeck declared this was necessary to meet inspection costs. The charge is borne by dairies.

Continuation as a public function of the public defender system for indigent persons accused of felonies also was voted. Since July, 1936, it has been supported by contributions through the Voluntary Defenders' Association and W P A grants. Law students will act as investigators without pay. Provision is made for a director at $3000 a year, an assistant at $2100 and a stenographer-clerk at $1580. An advisory committee will recommend appointees to the Director of Public Welfare and will have general supervision in co-operation with the Circuit Judges.

By an amendment from the floor, a representative of the Lawyers' Association will be added to the advisory group, others being representatives of the Bar Association, the faculties of the local law schools approved by the American Bar Association and an Alderman who is a lawyer. C. Lloyd Stanwood, a lawyer, has had charge of the office.

A $50,000 appropriation from the special hospital fund was voted for rehabilitation of institutional buildings in conjunction with the W P A.

At the conference in the Mayor's office the Aldermen discussed with city department heads pending bills which the administration desired to have passed before the annual legislative session ends April 18.

DEMOCRATS FINISH TAX BILL DISCUSSION

Further Modification of Levy on Family Corporations Voted —White House Meeting.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—House Ways and Means Committee Democrats agreed yesterday to further substantial modification of the most bitterly disputed levy in the entire tax revision bill—a surtax on family-owned or closely-held corporations.

One change would have the effect of exempting from the special tax all corporations having incomes up to $75,000. The former limit was $50,000.

The Democratic members completed their consideration of the proposed revenue act after Chairman Doughton had conferred with President Roosevelt. Also present at their conference were Chairman Harrison of the Senate Finance Committee and Secretary of State Hull. That taxes were mentioned was conceded generally, and that the levy on closely-held corporations came in for attention likewise was taken for granted by some members. They pointed out that Secretary Hull was a tax expert while in Congress.

Predicts Compromise Bill Stand.

Chairman Vinson of the Ways and Means Tax Subcommittee, after the meeting of Democrats, predicted the levy on closely-held companies would be recommended to the House in the modified form in which it now stands.

The full Ways and Means Committee meets today.

Some of the Democrats who have opposed the principle of the levy said they still were unyielding, however. They have contended that, although it is designed to penalize corporations which may be used for tax avoidance, it also would hurt many legitimate businesses.

Vinson estimated the tax would produce $45,000,000 in its modified form.

A company would be defined as closely-held when one person and his family owned half the stock, two individuals owned 53 per cent, and up to 10 individuals owned 75 per cent.

Vinson said the tax, in its altered form, would operate this way:

A closely-held corporation would pay a normal income tax of 16 to 20 per cent. From remaining income, it would deduct $60,000, 30 per cent, or the amount used to pay debts or set aside irrevocably for debt payment, whichever is greatest. Then it would reduce the amount paid in dividends, and on remaining income pay a 20 per cent surtax.

No Surtax on Deficit Fund.

A corporation having a deficit would not pay the surtax on money used to make up the deficit or to make up a capital loss. Operating losses would be carried over for one year to be used in the reduction of the surtax base.

A corporation against which the Treasury assessed a tax deficiency would have 60 days after the assessment became final in which to declare out dividends equal to the amount of the assessment.

A firm would be allowed two and one-half months after the close of a taxable year to pay out additional dividends equal to 10 per cent of the total of dividends disbursed during the year. Vinson said this was designed to "give leeway in dividend policies."

Corporations emerging from bankruptcy or receivership would be exempt from the surtax for two years.

JUDGE ASTOUNDED AT LAND BANKER'S ACTS AS RECEIVER

J. B. Gallagher, Ex-President of Chicago Joint Stock Bank, Sold Shares, Bought Bonds.

HE THUS PROFITED BY RECEIVERSHIP

He Purchased Issues With Book Value of $1,000,000 at Bargain, Escaped Liability on Shares.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18—Testimony which United States District Judge John M. Woolsey described as "astounding" was filed yesterday in connection with a bondholder-creditor suit against New York stockholders of the Chicago Joint Stock Land Bank.

A transcript of the testimony, made public today, showed that James B. Gallagher, formerly president and now receiver of the bank, had shifted his position from that of stockholder to bondholder, with the result that he stood to gain rather than lose through the receivership.

As holder of 100 shares, Gallagher, like other stockholders, might have been liable to a 100 per cent deficiency assessment—$10,000 in his case—if he had not disposed of his stock before he and the directors petitioned the bank into receivership, on Oct. 1, 1932.

Under cross questioning, Gallagher testified that he sold his shares three months before the receivership.

Sold Stock, Bought Bonds.

"I knew the bank was in very bad condition at that time," he said. "That is one of the reasons why I sold the stock."

Questioned further, Gallagher said that after the bank went into receivership and his title changed from president to receiver, he purchased the bank's bonds with par value of about $1,000,000 at from $400 to $750 per $1000 bond. As owner of these bonds he said he had received payments totaling about 72½ per cent, that he expected to receive other payments, and that he would gain an additional $300,000 if the present suit to collect deficiency assessments was successful.

A suit against Illinois stockholders has resulted in such an assessment and similar suits are under way against stockholders in other states. Principal defendant in the New York action is the Cago Corporation, of New York, which is liable to an assessment of $793,900 on its 7939 capital shares.

The Chicago bank, under jurisdiction of the Farm Credit Administration, had bonds outstanding in the amount of $40,000,000 and assets approximating $28,000,000 when it went into receivership. New York stockholders altogether own about $1,500,000, par value, of its outstanding stock.

A Voluntary Witness.

Gallagher appeared as a voluntary witness and offered to testify as an expert on land values, explaining he had "no interest other than to answer what questions are asked of me." Before counsel for the Cago Corporation took up the question of his holdings, Gallagher expressed opinions relating to the values of Illinois and Iowa farms, on which the bank held mortgages.

Later, after disclosing his status as a bondholder, Gallagher said he knew of one other employe of the receivership who had purchased bonds after the receivership. No name was mentioned.

When he said he feared he could not produce a record of all bondholders "without getting permission from Washington," Judge Woolsey interrupted, saying:

"I get impatient at the rules of authorities in Washington at times. It is perfectly absurd. We want those things and we ought to be able to get them."

Judge Woolsey declared Gallagher's testimony showed he had a "substantial stake in the recovery" and this "simply forced him out as an expert."

"His testimony about buying and using those bonds was very astounding to me," the Judge said.

Warrants Naming Margaret Anderson and Edward Cox Dismissed for Lack of Evidence.

Warrants charging carrying a concealed weapon against Miss Margaret Anderson, a stenographer, 4018 Beachwood avenue, Pine Lawn, and Edward Cox, a bartender, 2736 Belt avenue, were dismissed yesterday because of insufficent evidence by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Willard Guest in Justice of the Peace Adam C. Mahaffy's court at Wellston.

Miss Anderson and Cox were arrested for questioning Jan. 22 at 4:30 a. m. in the 6100 block of Natural Bridge road, when walking on the street. Deputy Constables said an unloaded revolver was found beside her in the seat of the deputies' car. Cox explained he had intended to sell the revolver.

PAUL WANER SIGNS ONE-YEAR CONTRACT WITH PIRATES

SALARY THOUGHT TO BE BETWEEN $15,000-$17,500

Demaree and Jurges, Last of Cubs' Holdouts, Accept Terms — Allen's Demand Unreasonable.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 18.—Paul Waner, batting star of the Pittsburgh Pirates, signed a contract for the 1938 season today after a two and a half hour conference with President William E. Benswanger.

The amount was not disclosed, but it is known he is the highest paid player on the club, probably drawing between $15,000 and $17,500.

Three times winner of the National League batting championship, he finished fourth last year with a mark of .354.

Last of the Cubs Sign.
By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—The Cubs' holdout worries were ended today when Shortstop Bill Jurges' signed contract was received at the offices of the National League baseball club. Terms were not announced, but Charles Drake, assistant to the president, said Jurges signed the first contract offered him after refusing it once.

The shortstop earlier had notified Owner Phil Wrigley he would bring the unsigned paper to Chicago next week to negotiate. Outfielder Frank Demaree wired acceptance of terms yesterday.

Five members of the Chicago White Sox, Pitchers Ted Lyons and Sugar Cain, Catcher Luke Sewell, First Baseman Zeke Bonura and Outfielder Rip Radcliff, are still potential holdouts.

Allen's Demand Unreasonable.
By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 18.—President Alva Bradley of the Cleveland Indians said yesterday that Pitcher Johnny Allen demands a salary so high above the club's offer that there is no common ground for negotiations.

"We have offered Allen two contracts," Bradley said. "Either would make him one of the highest salaried pitchers in baseball. He has returned both with a demand which we consider beyond all reason."

Allen, now at Hot Springs, Ark., won 15 straight games last year. He was understood to have been paid $15,000 last season and that the club's offer contained substantial increases. Bradley said that under no circumstances would he attempt a compromise.

Frank Pytlak, veteran of five years as Cleveland's first string catcher, signed his 1938 contract calling for approximately $9000.

19 Giants at Hot Springs.
By the Associated Press.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 18.—Nineteen members of the New York Giants moved into Hot Springs yesterday for 10 days of preliminary conditioning before starting regular training at Baton Rouge, La. Reporting to Manager Bill Terry 11 pitchers, four catchers, two infielders and an outfielder.

INFIELDER BEJMA IS 25TH MEMBER OF THE BROWNIES TO SIGN

Ollie Bejma, infielder, who was recalled by the Browns from the San Antonio club, sent his signed contract for 1938 to the team's headquarters today. He is the twenty-fifth member of the club in the fold for next season.

With the Texas League club last year, Bejma hit to an average of .318 and fielded .969. He was up before as one of the Browns' reserve infielders.

Bennie Huffman, catcher, who jumped last spring from Ray Doan's baseball school at Hot Springs to a place on the Brownie roster, called at the St. Louis American League office this afternoon and went into a contract conference with Vice-President Bill De Witt.

FOX 10-TO-7 CHOICE TO BEAT BROUILLARD

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Feb. 18.—Tiger Jack Fox of Spokane, Wash., rules a 10-to-7 favorite over Lou Brouillard, of Worcester, former world's middleweight and welterweight champion, for their 10-round feature bout of the Goodwin A. C. show in Boston Garden tonight.

Brouillard, who is in the midst of a comeback drive to add the light heavyweight championship, will scale about 165, giving away about 10 pounds to his rival, who has knocked out Bob Olin and outpointed Maxie Rosenbloom and Al Gainor, among others.

Hit or Error.

THERE will be a new scoreboard at Sportsman's Park when the new season opens, but the customers still will have to buy score cards to identify the players through the numbers on the board, and no information will be given to the customers about doubtful plays. Persons listening to the game over the radio will know whether that was a hit that Joe Medwick slashed past the shortstop or third baseman, but the person who pays at the box office will have to guess whether it was a hit or an error.

There is only one reason for the double-number system. Limitations in the mechanics of the old scoreboard constituted an excuse through the years of its existence. All of the uniform numbers could not be flashed on the old board and so there were two sets of numbers, those on the uniforms and those used on the scoreboard to identify the batter and the batterymen.

With a new scoreboard coming up, however, this could be corrected. The board could be made to show the uniform numbers. But in that case, bootleggers could get the list of uniform numbers and peddle scorecards outside the ball park. The double-number system makes it more difficult for the bootleggers and also makes it a bit more confusing for the customer, thereby making it more necessary for him to buy a card daily. Thus the double number system will be continued in the interest of a few more dollars for the ball club, even if it does make it a little more difficult for the cash customers.

Blame the Player.

IT'S a different story, though, about the hit and error information. The club owners and officials and even some of the managers, agree that it is unfair to Beowulf Q. "Cash" Phan to keep him in ignorance about doubtful plays, while persons who hear the games over the radio and therefore do not pay anything directly to the ball club for the privilege, are informed immediately about hits and errors.

The ball player who can't take it is responsible for this injustice. Several clubs have tried out the system of flashing an "H" or an "E" on the scoreboard. The Cardinals, for a time, even tried out the public address system and Jim Kelley, who was doing the announcing then, shouted that it was a hit or an "air" for the fielder.

That didn't work at all. The man who hit a hard grounder to an infielder and thought he should have been credited with a safety, complained bitterly in the dugout, when he heard that the play was scored as an error. There were times when players even glared at the official scorer, from first base or the dugout, because they thought the official had done an injustice.

Finally the dugout bickering over the decisions became so annoying to Manager Frank Francis Frisch that he journeyed to the front office and asked, for goodness sake, if something couldn't be done about it before he went completely batty. Of course there was something that could be done. Sam Breadon is a kindly man at times. He might not care if you or I went cuckoo, but it's something else again when it's his high-salaried manager. Sam sent word down to Announcer Kelley to desist, and so now the ball players don't get mad about the hit and error decisions until the evening or the next morning.

Good Old Morpheus.

BUT, you see, by that time the manager has had a snack of kalter aufschnit, or even perchance, a night's sleep. It is old stuff to him, then, and apparently the bickering about yesterday's hit or error does not nudge the manager so definitely toward the booby hatch.

With errors and doubtful plays so definitely a part of baseball, it seems ridiculous to bow so readily to the temperament of the high-salaried gentlemen who make a living out of the game. It would seem more reasonable, for the promoters of the game to give a little more consideration to the customers, who make the players' salaries possible. It would be different if the tender little things could be kept in the dark always about an error. But they have to know the bitter truth soon or later. Why not soon?

Certainly the failure to give the cash customers the information at once doesn't eliminate the players' complaints. Last year a close play at Sportsman's Park was called an error. The next day, a similar grounder was hit, except that it was driven past an infielder with much more force. The infielder barely touched it with his glove. Half a dozen Cardinals jumped from the dugout and glared and waved sarcastically at the official scorer in the press box, as much as to say, "I guess you'll call that an error."

There are players, of course, who care more about winning than they do about their batting averages. Frisch always was that way. He approved the public address system announcement of hits and errors.

"I don't care what they call anything I hit," he told the writer, after the system had been abandoned. "But my players—some of them—just can't take it. If you lived with them you'd understand. Why, some of them even curl their hair. And the announcement that they have not been credited with a safe hit is apt to perturb them no little, perchance even give them a splitting headache, if you know what I mean."

Illinois Wesleyan Wins.
By the Associated Press.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Feb. 18.—After a close first half, Illinois Wesleyan's basketball team, paced by Ray Temple's five field goals, stepped out to defeat St. Viator, 34 to 27, last night. The lead changed hands five times in the first five minutes of play and the score was tied as the two teams opened the last half.

VALLEY GAMES FOR BILLIKENS, BEARS TONIGHT

Nearing the end of unsuccessful basketball seasons, the Washington University Bears and the Billikens of St. Louis University are scheduled for Missouri Valley Conference games away from home tonight and tomorrow night.

Tonight, the Bears oppose Washburn College at Topeka, Kan., and the Billikens are at Tulsa U. Tomorrow night, the Billikens move on to Stillwater, Ok., there to play the conference-leading Oklahoma Aggies, while the Bears will visit Creighton at Omaha, Neb.

The Bears have won two of their nine conference contests, while the Billikens, far in the cellar, have lost all their nine valley games.

The two teams meet here at the Field House next Tuesday night for the second time this season. The Bears won the first by a small margin.

RIVAL SUES BONURA OVER FISH MARKET SOX PLAYER OWNS

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 18.—Suit was filed in Civil District Court yesterday in an attempt to close the fruit, vegetable and fish market conducted by Zeke Bonura, Chicago White Sox first baseman.

The action was brought by Anthony Marciante, proprietor of an adjoining market, who seeks $1380 for loss of business and damages of $14,871.54.

Marciante charged that Bonura, through collusion with his father, John Bonura, and uncle, Felix Bonura, rented the building adjoining his with the understanding that he would not open a competitive market.

ALL-AMERICA PLAYERS TO FACE STOCKHAMS

In the lineup of the American Institute of Business team of Des Moines, Ia., which will start against the Stockham Post's girls' basketball team Sunday afternoon at Christian Brothers' College gymnasium, 6501 Clayton avenue, will be at least one All-America and possibly two, according to word received from R. C. Bechtel, athletic director at the Des Moines college.

Myrtle Fisher, 6-foot, 2-inch blond center and captain, will be a starter and so will Elvera Lindgren, guard, who also gained All-America honors several times, providing Elvera has recovered from an injury she suffered in a recent game. Should Miss Lindgren be unable to make the trip, Ardis Held, one of the outstanding stars of last season's National A. A. U. tournament, will be used.

Pro Basketball at $100 a Game Fails to Tempt Louis Boudreau

By the Associated Press.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Feb. 18.—Professional basketball—even for a consideration of $100 a game—apparently won't interest Louis Boudreau until his college career is completed.

Athletic Director Wendell S. Wilson of the University of Illinois said yesterday the Illini basketball captain who was suspended from athletics for trafficing with professional baseball, was "unwilling to let anything interfere with his determination to obtain his degree next year."

Wilson said a pro basketball offer of $1500 for 15 games was made to Boudreau by Ed Ciesar of the Whiting, Ind., professional team, which includes such former Big Ten conference players as Johnny Woodin of Purdue, Bill Haarlow of Chicago and Ken Gunning of Indiana.

Three weeks ago the Big Ten faculty board barred Boudreau from further competition this season because of a verbal agreement to play with the Cleveland Indian baseball club after his graduation. In return for the agreement a sum of money was paid to his mother.

RAIN PREVENTS PLAY IN $5000 GOLF TOURNEY

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 18.—Driving rain caused postponement today of the first round of the $5000 Crescent City open golf tournament.

The tournament committee announced the entire schedule would be moved up a day.

Johnny Revolta assaulted the wind-swept City Park course yesterday with a record, 5-under-par 67 that made him No. 1 man to beat in the fast field.

Bunched in the field of 143 professionals and amateurs were many of the big names of pro golf.

Sammy Snead, the West Virginia bomber, drove in late in the afternoon from the Pacific Coast and filed his entry.

Long absent from the tournament winners' circle, dapper Ky Laffoon of Chicago, put up the storm warning with a fancy round in the pro-amateur which enabled him to win the event with his partner, Walker Cupper Freddie Haas of New Orleans. Laffoon beat par by two strokes and played flawlessly in the recording of a 65 best ball with Haas.

Free predictions that par would take a severe licking over the 72 holes weren't panning out too well. Only other player besides Revolta to dip below 70 was Felix Serafin of Schanto, Pa., with a 69.

WHIZZER WHITE MAY TAKE HIS TIME ABOUT ACCEPTING $15,000 OFFER

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 18.—Byron (Whizzer) White, Colorado's great athlete-scholar, may take as long as he likes to decide about playing professional football with the Pittsburgh Pirates for $15,000 next fall, the club announced last night. Johnny Maher, Pirate secretary, said the deadline of Feb. 18 had been extended indefinitely.

Previously White had replied that his answer would be no if it had to be made by today, before the National League opens its annual schedule meeting in Philadelphia. White intends to enter Oxford.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELUHIA, Feb. 18.—Art Rooney, owner of the Pittsburgh National League professional football team, expressed the opinion last night Byron "Whizzer" White, Colorado halfback, would eventually accept his offer of $15,000 to play pro football this fall, after White "thinks it over." Rooney is here for the mid-winter meeting of the National League.

SABIN, LAST YEAR'S WINNER, ADVANCES AT ST. PETERSBURG

By the Associated Press.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 18.—Vernon Marcum of Lakeland was paired today against Bill Colton of Tampa in the quarterfinals of the Florida West Coast tennis tournament. In the only other unplayed round-of-eight encounter, W. B. Marcum of Lakeland opposed Elwood Cooke of Portland, Ore.

Last year's winner, Wayne Sabin of Los Angeles, barged into the semifinals yesterday with a 6-1, 6-0 decision over Harris Everett of Jacksonville.

George Toley of Miami, who will meet Sabin tomorrow, ousted Jim Vuille of St. Petersburg, 6-1, 4-6, 6-1.

St. Louis Girl Has 22nd Perfect Shooting Score

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Feb. 18.—A perfect team score wasn't good enough to win all matches, but it kept intact a record of no defeats since 1930 as the University of Missouri co-ed rifle team won two and tied one telegraphic contest during the week.

The girls' team fired a score of 500, a mark equaled by the University of Oregon, in defeating Washington University of St. Louis with 471, and Nebraska by forfeit. For Capt. Ortrude Schnaedelbach of St. Louis it was the twenty-second consecutive match in which she had a perfect target. She was joined this week in perfect scores by Jane Weaver of Webster Groves, Ruth Hope of Doniphan, Joan Johnson of Mount Vernon and Virginia Roberts of Denver, Colo.

Matches for the varsity and freshman men's teams resulted in a Tiger sweep as the frosh defeated Penn State, Kemper and Virginia Poly to run a victory streak to five matches and the varsity eliminated 10 teams to make its season record read 16 victories and one defeat. The varsity fired 3710 to defeat Rose Poly with 3519 and a score of 1396 bested Pasadena Junior with 1184, Drexel with 1352, Maine with 1315, Howard with 1198, Rutgers with 1334, Norwich with 1316, Kansas State with 1380, and Washington of Seattle and Knox by forfeit.

Kirksville Teachers Lose.
By the Associated Press.

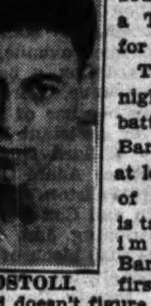
PITTSBURG, Kan., Feb. 18.—Led by Max Maletz, senior forward, the Pittsburg Teachers turned back Kirksville (Mo.) Teachers, 32-25, in a basketball game here last night. Maletz scored 12 points. Allen Snyder, six-foot, six-inch center, was high scorer for the visitors with six.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Big Week for Leather-Pushers.

"IS MY crown on straight?" may be asked by five ring champions (one unofficial) during the week beginning tomorrow. In various sections of the United States and in Puerto Rico, champions will be battling, in some cases at more than casual risk of defeat.

First of the title-holders to put his championship on the line will be Freddie Steele, middleweight king still by virtue of an overweight arrangement which saved his crown in the fight with Fred Apostoli. That bout resulted in a TKO victory for Apostoli.



APOSTOLI.

Tomorrow night Steele battles Carmen Barth and here, at least the king of the middles is taking a minimum chance. Barth is not a first-class fighter and doesn't figure to make the finish close.

On Sunday in Puerto Rico, Harry Jeffra, the bantamweight king who wowed the St. Louis fans on his only appearance here a few weeks ago, will fight a championship engagement with the man from whom he gained the crown—Sixto Escobar.

Beaten Twice, Picked to Win!

SIXTO HAS been beaten by Jeffra twice but that does not prevent the cognoscenti of the ring from naming Jeffra to lose his title. In America the odds would be about 1 to 2 on Jeffra. In Puerto Rico the smart fellows are "guessing" that Sixto will win. Home judges and referee may explain this odd viewpoint.

Next Monday Lou Ambers, the shifty lightweight king, will take on Lou Jallos and it doesn't matter much whether the title is at stake or not. It is perfectly safe in Ambers' pocket. Critical observers of the East are wondering how the commissioners ever sanctioned this bout. Jallos apparently has the same chance to win as a one-legged man in a sprinting race.

• • •

Young Corbett in Again.

FRED APOSTOLI defends his title claims Tuesday night at San Francisco and his opponent was a former champion—Young Corbett. Apostoli is not an official champion, although he TKO'd the titleholder Steele and before that stopped the International Boxing Association's world champion Marcel Thil. His title claims seem sounder than Steele's and he should win from Corbett, who is one of the "in again, out again" type. Young Corbett has not appeared to know his own mind about a ring career. Twice he has retired. But here he is back again. A good fighter in his prime, he probably has gone back.

• • •

A Good Mann.

JOE LOUIS and Natie Mann will battle a heavyweight championship in Madison Square Garden on next Wednesday. While it's true Louis' title will be there for Mann to shoot at, it appears to be bullet-proof.

However, Louis is just off the pastures and we understand these have been lush. Joe has partaken of the flesh pots and for several months has done little. He might be caught a trifle below best condition, but that's not likely. Mann is rugged and tough, but they are laying 1 to 3 against Joe.

Still, they laid that against Schmeling when he fought Joe.

Henry Armstrong, the standout fighter of this year and last, champion of the featherweights, will oppose that very clever and interesting performer Young Rightmore, at Chicago next Friday.

Rightmire doesn't have enough guns to shake Henry, but he is so fast and clever that he may gain an advantage in the early rounds. Few can withstand the battering of the Perpetual Motion machine Armstrong, however. Just a little more grief for Rightmire, it appears.

• • •

Adamick on Trial.

OTHER OUTSTANDING FIGHTS are on the card for the next seven days and one of them, scheduled tonight, will see some important gloves fly. That will happen at New York when Jimmy Adamick of Detroit battles Harry Thomas of Minnesota, with the winner to get a shot at Joe Louis in April.

Thomas threw a lot of gloves in the direction of Max Schmeling, recently, but could not shake the solid German. He actually had a point lead for the first five rounds. But Schmeling wore him down and battered him out.

Adamick is young, a fellow with a punch, a lot of spirit and plenty of inexperience. Those who should know something about Adamick pick him to beat Thomas and later take a few pot shots at Joe Louis in his second tuning-up fight.

Another great bout should result at Philadelphia Monday when Pedro Montanez, the sensation of six months ago and still a wonderful fighter, battles Norment Quarles, unknown in this sector. In the East they think Quarles will force Montanez to extend himself to the limit.

English Team in Finals of World Hockey Tourney

By the Associated Press.

PRAHA, Czechoslovakia, Feb. 18.—England entered the finals of the world amateur hockey championships today by defeating Poland 7-1 in a second round match.

The United States' hockey team was eliminated from the world amateur championships yesterday by losing its second straight game, a 1 to 0 defeat at the hands of the high-scoring Switzerland skaters. The Swiss team did not score until the last period.

The Americans lost, 2-0, to Czechoslovakia Thursday in the opening game of their second-round eliminations. The round is played among the three teams on a round-robin basis.

Ten thousand fans saw the Swiss defeat the Yanks.

The game was close and hard-fought through the first two periods, with the Americans crowding their rivals, but always being stopped in front of the opposition nets. In the final session, the Swiss suddenly opened a hurricane attack, with Piz Cattini scoring in the twelfth minute.

The United States skaters rallied the rest of the way, but were unable to break through the sturdy Swiss defense.

Great Britain opened its second-round play by trouncing Sweden, 3-2.

Germany, defeated Wednesday by Canada in a second-round opener, stayed in the running by nosing out Hungary, 1-0.

MARION MILEY AND MRS. ZECH TO MEET IN ORLANDO FINAL

By the Associated Press.

ORLANDO, Fla., Feb. 18.—Marion Miley, medalist from Fort Pierce, Fla., and Lexington, Ky., gained the finals of the mid-Florida women's golf tournament today by defeating Frances Owen of Jacksonville, Fla., 6 and 5.

Mrs. Lillian Zech of Chicago eliminated Mrs. Archie McLave of Hastings-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., 5 and 4, in the other semi-final match.

Miss Miley and Mrs. Zech will play 18 holes for the title tomorrow afternoon.

Lowell Jackson to Represent B. P. A. In Exhibitions

Win or lose in his 120-game bowling match with Ned Day, Milwaukee star, for the national individual bowling championship, Lowell Jackson, St. Louis titleholder, will represent the Bowling Proprietors' Association in a series of exhibition matches beginning probably next September, according to Harry R. Feuser, national president of the B. P. A.

It was stated last night that Feuser would act as Jackson's manager, but Feuser later said that he would not accompany Jackson on his extended tours of exhibition matches in the West and Middle West. Day will also represent the B. P. A. in a series of exhibition matches, showing his bowling ability in Eastern cities.

Should Jackson attempt to roll his exhibition matches for the Bowling Proprietors' Association, before the local league season ends, he or Cliff DeWees would have to ride the bench when the Hermanns, of which both are members, roll in league or tournament play, as both would be pronounced alley men, according to the rules of the American Bowling Congress, which states that no two alley men can roll on the same team in a sanctioned league or tournament match. De Wees is manager of the Grand-St. Louis Recreation.

The Day-Jackson match for the singles crown was scheduled to open here tomorrow night, but due to the illness of Day, the opening match was advanced to Feb. 26 with the first 30 games scheduled at Detroit. They will appear here March 12 and 13 at the Del-Mar alleys.

FLYERS' THIRD PERIOD SCORES TIE TULSA, 2-2

By the Associated Press.

TULSA, Ok., Feb. 18.—St. Louis' league-leading Flyers lived up to their reputation in the third period of an American Hockey Association game last night by overcoming a two-goal Tulsa lead to gain a 2-2 tie.

Two overtime periods were scoreless.

The Oilers led on a second-period goal by Wakeford and another in the third by Williams, but the Flyer line of Kendall, Burns and Mulvihill shook the laces twice in the third to knot it.

George Lackey, president of the Tulsa club, announced he would protest the match as the result of a play which happened with less than a minute of the second extra period remaining.

During a pileup of players in front of the Flyers' goal, the red light showed, denoting a goal. However, Referee Bob Trapp ruled that the light went on before the disc had passed Nelson and that no goal had been scored.

Following the match, Coach Gordon of the Oilers attacked Referee Trapp and also took a punch at Coach MacKinnon of the Flyers.

William Grant, league president, was a spectator at the game and expressed the opinion that no goal had been scored on the disputed play.

GOLDEN GLOVES BOXERS IN TITLE BOUTS TONIGHT

Sixteen championships of the Golden Gloves boxing tournament will be decided tonight at the Municipal Auditorium, 32 fighters competing from flyweight to heavyweight, in open and the novice divisions, to close the annual ring carnival.

Several outstanding bouts are expected to develop, one in the flyweight novice division that opens the show. Georgie Clemens of the Neighborhood Association meets Kenneth Dodd of Cherokee Center. Georgie, 16 years old, appears to be a great natural fighter.

The final bout looks like a tough one, bringing together Moses Rook, Boonville Negro, who is representing Columbia, and Emanuel Murray of Adams Community Center, also a Negro. They are fighting in the heavyweight open division. Rook knocked out three opponents in reaching the final round and appears to be an up-and-coming scrapper. Murray also scored three knockouts, over former Golden Gloves champions.

In the middleweight open final, Frenchie Le Moyn, a clever lad who has caught on with the fans, meets Frank Sidlow of the South Broadway A. C. Le Moyne is making his second bid for a trip to the Chicago Golden Gloves tourney. He won the Evansville (Ind.) gloves title last year, then moved here.

Battles to Aid Coach Lou Little

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Cliff Battles, star running back of the champion Washington Redskins of the National Football League, abandoned his professional playing career yesterday to become varsity backfield coach and assistant to Lou Little at Columbia University.

Battles, whose reported salary will be $4500, succeeds Herb Kopf, now head coach and athletic director at Manhattan. He will report to Columbia in time for spring practice.

Now 27 years old, Battles was a four-letter man at West Virginia Wesleyan from which he was graduated in 1932. He also was an honor student.

M'KINLEY AND BEAUMONT IN BASKET GAME

Beaumont will meet McKinley in the second and feature game of tonight's City High School League basketball tripleheader at St. Louis University gymnasium. Soldan and Blewett will start the activities at 6:30 p. m., while Central and Cleveland will close the program.

Beaumont's last chance to make a serious bid for the championship hinges upon a victory tonight. If the Blue Jackets fail, they will be eliminated, and the championship will be determined next week when Central and McKinley meet.

The smooth-working Central five may have its hands full with Cleveland, however.

Final games in the Preparatory League are scheduled tonight. The champion Christian Brothers College team will be host to McBride, while Western Military Academy will entertain St. Louis U. High. McBride and the Junior Billikens have a chance for the runner-up position, depending upon the outcome of the contests.

Wood River, the new Southern Illinois Conference champion, will be at home to Belleville in the feature of tonight's league play. Other conference contests are Alton at Granite City and Collinsville at Madison.

In nonconference engagements, East St. Louis is host to Decatur and Edwardsville will be at home to Canton.

The final games in the Cahokia Conference are Freeburg at Mascoutah, O'Fallon at New Athens and New Baden at Lebanon.

Small Horse Can Carry High Weight if He's a Champion

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Frank J. Bryan, for 35 years one of the country's ranking handicappers, today took exception to Samuel D. Riddle's statement that a horse as small as War Admiral should not carry 130 pounds. The Admiral has been assigned that weight for the $50,000 Widener Challenge Cup at Hialeah Park, March 5.

"Why, there've been plenty of small horses that carried high weight and never suffered," said Bryan. "Just look at Peanuts, for one. He carried high weights consistently and won. Then, too, he went on to prove himself in the stud."

Bryan, who admits to being somewhere near 70 years of age, also recalled the important steeplechaser Faskadale. He was under 15 hands and weighed only a little over 800 ponds, but won races at two and a half miles with 160 or more pounds in the saddle.

More recently, there has been Equipoise. He wasn't a big horse, but often carried more than 130 pounds. "Ekky" had 128 up when he set the world record of 1:34 2-5 at Arlington Park in 1932. Grey Lag was another on the small side, but he, too, won with plenty of weight in the saddle.

"Yes, there've been a host of small, medium sized and big horses that have won under 130 pounds or more," declared Bryan.

"In a field like the Widener, I think War Admiral has been well-treated. If there were three or four top-notch horses in the race, then the handicapper could have rated them all a little below his usual standard and dropped the remainder far down. But with the Admiral the standout, there's nothing a handicapper could do except what Charlie McLennan did if he expects to bring the horses anywhere near together at the finish."

Bryan indicated the Admiral would have to carry much more in the summer handicaps if he continues his fine form. Personally, the veteran handicapper is in favor of high weights.

"It'll do much to banish rough riding by giving the more experienced boys a chance to keep busy," he said. "I've found that the inexperienced, lightweight apprentices usually cause most of the trouble in a race. They're usually too willing to do anything to make a name for themselves."

ADAMICK AND THOMAS FIGHT PUZZLES FANS

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—At a late hour today, nobody had been found willing to hazard a guess on the purpose, not to mention the outcome, of tonight's 10-round duel between Jimmy Adamick, the kid from Detroit, and bouncing Harry Thomas.

The whole affair had everybody so puzzled that many intended to go and see for themselves, the expectation being that around $25,000 worth would turn up at Madison Square Garden. The fact that Old Doc Kearns, the bogey man of boxing, was going to be in Adamick's corner undoubtedly added to the popular interest.

Ever since the strident voice of the doctor was heard clear from Detroit proclaiming the unqualified greatness of his newest protege, the ears of those closest to boxing have been perked up. It was ordained from the first that Kearns and Adamick would make their way East eventually, and here they are.

Tough Spot for Adamick.

Adamick, through no particular fault of his own, finds himself in a tough spot for a youngster. Kearns, the most articulate of all fight managers, said that Adamick was "better than Dempsey." He wasn't, of course, talking in his best superlatives on that occasion.

Anyway, Adamick got here, and in his gymnasium workouts he has appeared only a willing but unskilled young fighter, with a good punch when it lands. The original odds, mostly on Kearns' sayso, were 3 to 1 that the Michigan terror would slam Thomas about worse than Max Schmeling did some months ago.

But as the amazement grew at Adamick's ineptitude, the boys began putting locks on their money pockets, having decided it would be better not to bet at all, but just to wait and see. The odds were supposed to be 8-5 on Adamick today, but there wasn't any business.

Tune-Up for Louis.

The winner has been "signed" to give Joe Louis a tune-up in April. The only attraction in a Thomas-Louis classic, however, would be to see whether Joe could knock Harry down more times than Schmeling did, which was eight by unofficial count.

A canvas of the town's ring authorities on tonight's outcome elicited 14 why-ask-me's and 13 blank stares. Only Dumb Dan Morgan was willing to be quoted.

"I predict that if it goes over five rounds the Department of Health will take over the place," said Dan. "They's nothing in this world worse than two tired heavyweights."

Adamick weighed in at 189 pounds today and Thomas weighed 198½.

LONG ISLAND U. MAKES 84 POINTS IN BEATING CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Feb. 18.—Long Island University's Blackbirds ended their home season last night as they trounced the Catholic University basketball team, 84 to 28.

The visitors dropped in the first goal, but from there on the Blackbirds romped away, making 17 consecutive points and leading 35 to 9 at the half.

Jack Bronberg led the L. I. U. marksmen with 14 points while Ambrose paced the visitors with 12.

Buff Donelli's sharp shooting has Castle Shannon's German Sport Club at the top of their division in the Keystone Soccer League, major circuit of the Pittsburgh area. The Castle boys oppose South Side Club here in a national cup match Sunday at Sportsman's Park. In winning seven games, tying three and losing two, Donelli's team has scored 37 goals, an average of three per game. Opponents have scored 23 times, indicating the German Sport defense is not very strong.

German Sport Club keeps two teams engaged in Pittsburgh and national soccer. One is a professional combination in which Donelli, Johnny Jaap and Mike Bookie form the inside forward trio; and the other is an amateur team in which these three stars are replaced by young men who play football without financial reward. The amateur side was defeated last Sunday in a national amateur cup match by Morgan, Pa., a team managed by another of the numerous Donelli clan.

There are 43 clubs in regular league competition in the Pittsburgh area, most of them representing small mining communities within a few hours' ride of the big city.

Chicago's football fans are looking forward with a great deal of interest to the meeting of Sparta and the Maccabees. But they may never get together in the national cup series, for Sparta must first oppose the Thistles of Detroit. And since the Thistles ran up a 5-1 score on the fair-to-middling Ekhardt-Becker club of Detroit last Sunday, there is grounds for question as to the outcome of the Sparta-Thistle match. This is how the teams will line up at Chicago's Sparta stadium Sunday:

SPARTA — Silvosky, Scott and Mrnka; Tomich, Nudera and Pearson; Fraser, Trimmell, McDermott, Vicek and Wolf.

THISTLES—Wilson; Ed Trantor and Brooks; Kilgour, S. Trantor and Clemons; Syme, Cobb, Willocks, O'Donnell and Coombs.

The changed right wing of Sparta has given that team greater speed. Trimmell scored three goals against St. Louis' Shamrocks earlier in the season, and Fraser, on the wing, is yards faster than the man he replaces, Jimmy Munro. McDermott, at center forward, makes Sparta a really formidable team.

St. John's Smoke Shop team will opose the Schumachers in the second game of the Municipal Soccer League playoff double program offered at Fairground Park Sunday afternoon.

Irish Village will face the Beltmars in the opener, starting at 1 p. m.

Second round games in the Community Center Soccer League playoffs to be contested tomorrow afternoon at Fairground Park, Grounds No. 4, follow: Midget Division, Pete Garcias vs. West End A. C., 1:30 p. m. (Holy Rosary bye.) Junior Division, Spanish Caballeros vs. St. Teresas, 2:45 p. m. (St. Edwards draw bye.)

Ozark A. A. U. to Sponsor Women's Basketball Meet

The Stockham Post girls' team will be seeded in Class AA, and the winner of the Municipal series between the Irish Village and Tom Burkes will be seeded in Class A.

The event is in charge of Betty Carpentier, chairman of the women's basketball committee. Entries may be sent to her at the Ozark headquarters in the De Soto Hotel. The entry list will close Feb. 25.

Washington U. Swimmers Leave On 5-Day Trip

Washington University's Missouri Valley championship swimming team meets Oklahoma A. & M. tonight at Stillwater, Ok., in the first of a four-meet, five-day road campaign for the Bruins.

Twelve men were in the party which left last night, guided by Coach Artie Eilers. Bill Kiessling, Dick Toon, Gregg Burdick, Bud Skinner, Clair Staley and Jack Kopolow will compete for the Bears in the free-style events; Rudy Brand and Jack Pickering in the breast-stroke, and Kiessling and Ivan Staley in the back-stroke. Bud Bohn, sophomore find; Frank Clasquin and Al von Hoffman comprise the list of divers.

Washington will receive serious competition from the Aggies, who, led by Crooley, winner of first honors in the 100, 220 and 440-yard free-style events, defeated Oklahoma U. last week, 42-33.

While in Stillwater the Bruins will be guests of honor at the intercollegiate wrestling matches. The Aggies are National collegiate champions, having won the title for the past several years.

Tomorrow night the Bears will move on to Norman, Ok., to compete with Oklahoma U. Monday night the Hilltop tankers will be in Manhattan to take on the Kansas Teachers. They will close the trip Tuesday night at Lawrence, meeting the University of Kansas.

BOSTON DEFEATS RANGERS, 3-2, IN OVERTIME GAME

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Largely because Gordon Pettinger "invented" himself a scoring shot and Eddie Shore can still check any offense silly, Boston's Bruins figured today to be all but "in" with the National Hockey League's American section honors.

In fact, New York's red-hot Rangers, who were cooled off somewhat by a 3-2 overtime beating the Bruins pinned on them last night, were willing to admit that they have to take next Sunday's game at Boston to entertain any hopes of climbing out of second place. The Bruins are now five points in front.

Coach Frankie Boucher and Manager Lester Patrick agreed that the defeat was due to the fact the Rangers were far off in their timing. But to the 16,091 fans who packed Madison Square Garden to the rafters, the aforesaid Pettinger and Shore, with some handy help from Goalie Tiny Thompson, Milt Schmidt and Dit Clapper were the major reasons the New Yorkers had their ears pinned back.

Unexpected Score.

Pettinger's goal, the one that put the Bruins ahead to stay in the overtime, was so unexpected that even the Rangers' always-reliable goalie, Davey Kerr, was too astonished to do anything but stand and watch it whistle past. The puck had caromed off Roy Goldworthy's stick and was wobbling on its edge as Pettinger came along slid his stick under it, and flicked it in with his wrist.

While that score was the turning point in the battle, however, too much credit can't be given to Shore and Schmidt for their work. Schmidt, playing without a headguard for the first time since his jaw was broken two months ago, was all over the place, scoring the Bruins' first goal, headlining the Boston attack, and even swinging into the one major fight of the evening—a short fist-tossing sortie in which he and Art Coulter were banished in the overtime session.

Shore gave one of his classier defense exhibitions. Half a dozen times he dropped to one knee or flat on the ice to break up Ranger power plays by blocking shots.

16,000 Crowd Average.

All in all, it was a big evening, particularly to the club owners, who used some more heavy black ink as a result of the crowd. Including last night's game, the six meetings of the Rangers and Bruins this season have drawn an average of approximately 16,000 fans per game.

Toronto scored twice in the last period to top the Montreal Maroons, 2-1; while the Americans increased their International section third-place margin by fighting the Chicago Blackhawks to a 3-3 tie.

By winning, the Leafs climbed eight full points in front of the Montreal Canadiens at the top of the league's International section, while the Maroons sank deeper into the cellar. The Hawks' deadlock with the Americans boosted Chicago's chances of making the American section Stanley Cup playoffs over the Detroit Red Wings.

Steele and Barth Ready for Title Fight Tomorrow

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 18.—Carmen Barth, Cleveland challenger for the middleweight title, who meets Champion Freddy Steele in a 15-round championship bout here tomorrow night, was just one pound above the weight limit of 160 pounds when he finished yesterday's training session.

Steele, who has done only light gym work in training for the bout, was down to 159 pounds.

Fight critics questioned Barth's stamina over the 15-round route at the middleweight poundage, pointing out that he had not fought at the weight for more than a year. Trainer Scotty Strachan declared, however, that Barth would make the weight without losing strength.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 18.—War Admiral, unbeaten three-year-old champion of 1937, will return to competition tomorrow at Hialeah Park in either the mile and an eighth of the $7500 McLennan Memorial Handicap or a seven-furlong dash worth only $1100.

The son of Man o' War from Samuel D. Riddle's barn today was entered in both events. He has been asked to carry 130 pounds and meet many of Hialeah's best in the McLennan but gets into the sprint with only 122.

Riddle and his trainer, George Conway, are not expected to decide until tomorrow morning as to the race in which the Admiral will make his winter debut.

CHET WYNNE RESIGNS AS KENTUCKY U. COACH

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 18.—Chet Wynne last night resigned as head football coach of the University of Kentucky.

No reason was given although reports laid the resignation to alumni dissatisfaction. Kentucky's football team last season won four of its games but lost five.

Wynne said he had no other football coaching post in sight. He was a former Notre Dame star and coached at Midland College in Nebraska, Creighton University and at Auburn before he came to Kentucky.

FARR THREATENED TO PUNCH HIM, SAYS HIS FORMER TRAINER

By the Associated Press.

PLYMOUTH, England, Feb. 18.—Tom Evans, veteran trainer who formerly conditioned Tommy Farr, confirmed his break with the British heavyweight champion as he arrived from New York today aboard the Ile de France. He asserted that "Tommy threatened to hit me."

"As soon as he got to the top, he threw me over," Evans said. "Tom has no use now for old friends who helped him."

METCALFE SEES NEW MILE MARK FOR CUNNINGHAM

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Will Glenn Cunningham break his own indoor mile record? Will Ben Johnson clip another tenth of a second or so off the 60-yard dash standard? Ralph Metcalfe thinks so.

Ralph, who is better than a raw hand at the old sport of footracing, makes the prediction with the timeliness of pay day. Glenn and Ben pace a few heats with Pop Time in the New York A. C. games Saturday night, the top performers of a glittering field.

"That Cunningham," says Metcalfe with awe, "he's always in command. At Providence Tuesday night he knew where he was every minute. And from the times he's been turning in, he is running better than ever. He's pretty close to his peak right now. That 4:08.4 indoor mile record may go Saturday night."

Coach Now at Xavier.

Ralph, who is coaching at Xavier University in New Orleans, turned to watch Ben Johnson as the crack Negro sprinter came thundering down Columbia's board track.

"Here's a fellow who's just starting to run," he said. "Long ago as 1935 he was trimming us. But he wasn't as good as he is now. He's smoother, easier. I know a little about the sprints and this fellow would be a great sprinter in any company. He may knock something off that new record of his any time out."

The New York A. C. meet has attracted a field that is big and good.

Cunningham faces Archie San Romani, Gene Venzke and Blaine Rideout. Johnson numbers Perrin Walker and Allan Tolmich among his opposition.

"But," continued Metcalfe, "these fellows will have to be pushed. Cunningham isn't going to set any new records running off there all by himself. Johnson might, but not a miler."

Lash in Two-Mile.

Don Lash will devote all his energy to the two-mile race. He has a formidable field with him, including Norman Bright, who has done 9:03.7 this year; Joe McCluskey, Floyd Lochner and George de George.

The Buermeyer 500 has drawn Jimmy Herbert, unbeaten New York University Negro; Doug Raymond of Boston University, the New England 440 champion; Dick Gill, Boston College; Howie Borck, Manhattan, and Delmer Brown of North Texas State Teachers' College. They will take a crack at Eddie O'Brien's record of :57.6.

Other strong fields are in the Haplin 880 with Johnny Woodruff, Charlie Beetham and Lou Burns; the metropolitan relay championship with N. Y. U., Manhattan and Fordham and the hurdles with Spec Towns and Allan Tolmich.

Two-Year-Olds Can't Race Before Month of May

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18.

THE California Horse Racing Board passed a rule yesterday forbidding racing of two-year-olds until the month of May each year, effective next year. The move concurs in a recent resolution adopted by the National Association of Racing Commissioners.

The rule will eliminate Santa Anita's baby events. Two two-year-olds, Airflame and Balking, flashed world record speed at Santa Anita, but later failed to develop.

Cunningham, Lash in Games at Newark Armory

By the Associated Press.

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 18.—The entry of Glenn Cunningham in 1000-yard run in the eleventh annual Seton Hall College indoor track carnival Monday night at the 113th Infantry Regiment Armory was announced yesterday.

The great Kansas miler, now running under the colors of the New York Curb Exchange, will face Lou Burns and William Ray, also of the curb exchange, and Frank Slater of Fordham.

Don Lash, Indiana's two-mile record holder, will also compete. His distance was not announced.

St. Edwards Wins, 4-1.

St. Edwards defeated St. Philip Neri, 4 to 1, yesterday afternoon at Sherman Park in a Parochial School league basketball game. Visitation won from St. Rose, 10 to 9, and Our Lady of Lourdes defeated Holy Trinity, 16 to 14, in the other contests.

HERMANN FIVE REGAINS CITY BOWLING TITLE

Although Lowell Jackson was the only man of the Hermann Undertakers' team able to topple 600 pins in the final three games bowled last night, his team retained its lead over the Budweisers and thereby regained the city match-game team bowling championship. The Budweisers, hitting a grand total of 3106, took all three games bowled at the Del-Mar Recreation, but they were unable to overcome the big lead of the Hermanns. The final scores for 12 games was: Hermanns 12,655, Budweisers 12,315.

In winning the series and the local team championship, the Hermanns became eligible to compete in the inter-city match game championships, the survivor of which will oppose the Heils of Milwaukee for the national team championship.

"FIDDLE BOTTLE" NOW IDENTIFIES BARDSTOWN'S FINE WHISKY

Makes it easy to buy this Kentucky Straight Bourbon . . . made the old SOUR MASH way

We're proud of the whisky we make here at Bardstown, in Nelson County, Kentucky. And we're proud of "The Old Kentucky Home" which stands here—and which Stephen Foster immortalized in his famous ballad. So we do honor to both with our new "Fiddle Bottle."

For 118 years the limestone water of our Bourbon Springs has been widely known for the distinctive character it gives to whisky. Today, with this seemingly magical water and selected grains, we make whisky by the same slow Sour Mash method our fathers used . . . and mature it in Nature's own way—in heavily charred new white oak barrels. The result is a full-bodied drinking whisky, smooth and mellow.

You'll like our BARD'S TOWN and BOURBON SPRINGS Kentucky Straight Bourbon Whisky. Ask for it in the "Fiddle Bottle" at your package store or bar.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU—By BOB BURNS

ONE of the most insincere things I've ever seen is the way some of these actresses greet each other when they meet at parties out here. The other night, one of 'em met another one at a party and she says, "Oh, hello, darling—you're looking so wonderful tonight—how are you?" And she walked up and gave the other one a big kiss. After a while, I took her to one side and I says, "Now, I want'a know why you kissed her like that—I thought you didn't like her." The actress says, "I certainly don't like her—I hate her." I says, "Well then, why did you kiss her?" and she says, "Well, don't you see how terrible her freckles show up on her chin where I kissed the powder off?"

Four Hearts Redoubled

By Ely Culbertson

SCENE: A bridge table.
Time: The present.
Characters.

Mr. and Mrs. Hornett (respectively, West and East); Mrs. Blank, North, and Mr. Meek, South. Also, Mr. Bert Insky, kibitzer-at-large.

Mr. Hornett (to Mr. Insky): We're starting a new system, to apply to kibitzers. The kibitzer's name goes on the back score, along with the players' names. Every time the kibitzer makes a mistake in his analysis or criticism he is debited 100 points.

Mr. Bert Insky: But how can I win anything?

Mr. Hornett: You can't! That's the beautiful part of the system. But, on the other hand, you can't lose so long as you don't say anything.

Mr. Insky: Well, it's some system, if you ask me! How about the bill of rights and free speech? Why, it's unconstitutional!

Mr. Hornett: No such thing! You don't think that the framers of the constitution could foresee any such thing as a kibitzer, do you? Your deal, pet. (To Mrs. Hornett.)

Mrs. Hornett (sweetly): Yes, master!

She deals, as follows:

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 heart	Pass	1 spade
Pass	2 diamonds	Pass	3 hearts
Pass	4 hearts	Double	Pass
Pass	Redouble	(final bid)

Mr. Hornett had been none too confident about his own double. When he heard Mr. Meek, of all players, redouble, he felt that doom was just around the corner. He opened his singleton spade. Mr. Meek won, cashed the diamond ace, ruffed a low diamond, and led the spade king, discarding a club. Mr. Hornett ruffed and returned the deuce of clubs. Mrs. Hornett won and blithely returned another spade. Mr. Meek chucked his remaining club while Mr. Hornett, gnashing his teeth, wasted a sure trump trick in ruffing. He returned a diamond, which dummy ruffed. Mr. Meek then captured the denuded heart king and spread his hand. Four hearts, doubled and redoubled, made!

Mr. Hornett (to Mrs. Hornett): I know you've had a hard day changing your dress, and making up, and all that, but would you mind trying to count up to four? Use your fingers, if you must. I led you the deuce of clubs, the fourth best, to be more explicit. You had four. Dummy had two. Now, think hard! With how many did that leave declarer? You saw me ruff the spade with the heart 10. Your eyesight is all right. Didn't it occur to you that if you made me ruff another spade it would cost me a sure trump trick and that Meek could get rid of his last club?

Mrs. Hornett: Don't use that superior tone on me! You opened a spade, didn't you? Well, why open it if you didn't want to ruff?

Mr. Hornett: Well, that's about as reasonable as any observation you ever made! I suppose I could make a blind opening lead as easily as you could defend after seeing the dummy and the fall of cards! You win!

Mrs. Hornett (sweetly): O, no. Our opponents win, as usual!

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

by WYNN

Saturday, Feb. 19.

SOCIAL matters better than yielding to yen to shift business or personal plans. Stick to the line of duty. Strong vibrations from other people come our way; analyze before accepting anything blindly. Keep it innocent.

To Stop Destruction.

Growth is the function of every part of your character. No man is what he can be—for even the race is growing in its possibilities, collectively as well as individually. Most of our troubles, as persons and as nations, have been caused by our preventions of normal character growth. Some day we shall get down to serious study of what man is—then destruction of humans wil stop.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead suggests putting on more pressure, trying harder, for if born on this date there is much potential profit and happiness in this stretch for you. Danger: April 16-May 28; Aug. 24-Oct. 22; Jan. 22-March 15, 1939.

Sunday.

Money schemes that approach tomorrow not worth bothering with.

The Large Family

Where the large family is compelled to share one bathroom, it is sometimes advisable for the older members to keep their towels and face cloths in their own rooms. It will make the bathroom seem more tidy without so many towel racks and it is almost the only possible way to insure your towels against being used at some time by the smaller members.

Kathryn Turney to Give Talks on Books

Kathryn Turney Garten will be heard in another pair of book talks at Famous-Barr tomorrow. At the morning lecture, scheduled for 11 o'clock, she will discuss "Northwest Passage" by Kenneth Roberts; at 2:30 in the afternoon she will review Emil Ludwig's "Cleopatra" and "Augustus" by John Buchan.

These lectures begin promptly and no one will be seated after they have begun.

ON BROADWAY x x By Walter Winchell

The New York Scene.

The First-Nights: The theater picked up plenty of vigor in the last two weeks. Four successes romped into the Times Square sector in that time, a pair of them being smashes. They are: "Shadow and Substance" and "On Borrowed Time" . . . Jed Harris' "Our Town" represents a flashing comeback for The Wonder Boy of 1928 and is expected to join the sell-outs. . . . The fourth of the wows is "Bachelor Born" . . . Despite Mr. Harris' paddling of the critics in an interview with the Sun's Ward Morehouse, they all cooed over his venture. Mr. Atkinson, of the Times, citing it "the best script of Harris' career to which he had "risen nobly." . . . There was queer behavior among the reviewers at "How to Get Tough About It." . . . They figured the play itself not so schoen, but were so delighted by author Robert Ardrey's promise and the beguiling performances of Katherine Locke and Myron McCormick, they wrote what amounted to favorable reports. . . . Mr. Watts summed it up as a good try. . . . That's more than John Anderson would say for "The Bridal Crown," proffered by the Experimental Theater, a group of earnest downtowners. Their version of the Strindberg gloom-fest, said Mr. Anderson, was strictly for relatives, or words to that effect. . . . The famously known "Cain's Storehouse," where play-casualties were buried, was the latest of the recession victims. Died of old age—at 51.

The Press: Twice in recent issues the N. Y. Times has unqualifiedly named Paulette Goddard as Mrs. Charles Chaplin. This ought to be final authority, next to the preacher. Reviewing the Gov't sponsored film, "The River" (which collected raves), Eileen Creelman, of the Sun, wrote: "As a taxpayer I don't like it, but as a reviewer I find it a beautifully photographed short, etc." . . . Miss Creelman works for a Republican, anti-New Deal gazette, and who wants to say she isn't aware of it? . . . One of the silliest of journalistic feuds is being carried on by the German and Soviet newspapers. . . . They call each other pigs in very poor verse, judging by the cabled translations, when any editor could tell them that they could get more insulting in straight prose. . . . The Mirror's new page four is a most readable newspaper in itself. It has pace, among other things. . . . Mrs. Roosevelt discussed the drama in her acreage the other afternoon. She wished no critics were allowed at any play during the first three performances, which, she thought, would result in "much fairer criticisms." . . . We think it was Al Woods who once handled that argument with this terse comment: "I got to know right away if it's a flop!" . . . Chas. B. Driscoll, a capable editor, has this to say: "An editor or reporter who will knuckle to any court or committee and tell where he got his information is unfit to be an editor or reporter, and almost fit to be a politician."

The Magic Lanterns: Critic William Boehnel devoted a recent column to the glamor girls who need a good yarn, but fast, if they don't want to find their cupboards bare of contracts. . . . It is always surprising how slipping stars begin to feel the need of authors, who up to then were just part of the lesser help. . . . You'll howl over the murder solution in "Scandal Street." The slayer builds up an air-tight alibi, then wilts under the second question, realizing, presumably, they were getting to the end of the footage. . . . "Russia Marches On" has some stunning camera pictures on the Soviet, but the narrator wearies you by his incessant chant that "Russia Must be Heaven." . . . Word comes from the projection rooms that Damon Runyon's "Slight Case of Murder" is the hilarious thing it had every right to be on the stage. . . . It's a farcical pants-spanking of the underworld. . . . Topping the beauty of the technicolor made to date is the Strand attraction: "Gold Is Where You Find It," one of the exciting picture-plays of the season. . . . George Brent and Olivia DeHaviland are featured.

The Magazines: Some of the book reviewers who escape Malcolm Cowley's New Republic putsch come in for a shellacking by Walter Brooks in Fiction Parade. . . . The British Empire is definitely cracking up. The English co-eds are now kodaked, in strip clothes, reading College Humor. . . . Among "Two Dozen Ways to Keep Sane," listed by Donald A. Laird in Fact Digest, is to go to a party at least once a week. Presumably on the ground that if you can survive parties (especially in New York) your wits are in no immediate danger. . . . Good Housekeeping has spurned a great deal of advertising because they learned the statements were not true. . . . Lucius Beebe got $300 for the phrase, "Cafe Society," from the films, which will do a flicker bearing that name. . . . Harry Burton, editor of Cosmopolitan, however, came across the phrase a year ago while reading some of Cholly Knickerbocker's stuff. It impressed Editor Burton, both as to title and subject matter. He assigned Beebe to write three articles on the people who make up cafe society. . . . They appeared in Cosmo and clicked. . . . Other magazines aped the idea, and now Paramount pays Beebe $300. . . . All concerned are wondering how come? . . . The New Yorker's page 57 chides Time for using the sentence: "President O'Neal rose to his six feet." . . . But in its own Hague profile, page 22, this appears: "Even when he draws himself up to his full six feet." . . . Tee, hee.

The Wireless: Gertrude Neisen, whose mellow vocalizing on the networks is always welcome over at our shack, has an exciting arrangement of "St. Louis Blues" which the mimics are thefting, already. . . . She is currently at the Versailles stopping shows. . . . One section of it offers that anthem in three-quarter time—and it is intoxicating. . . . Some of the milder cusswords stayed in the broadcast of Clifford Odets' "Waiting for Lefty" the other sundown, but they edited the Hemingways. . . . Lew Lehr appears to be a click with the Bernie menu, if the response of the studio audience is to be considered. They howled at him. . . . Some talent on local networks are called local anesthetics.

The Proletariat: The creditors are pressing another of the Broadway night clubs, and may force its suspension this or next week. . . . The back page makeup man was careless over at the Times on the 10th. Next to the Ad-Writers' Guild ad, which read: "Learn to write advertising" was a filler titled: "Ad Writer Dies in Leap." . . . Ticket brokers were told by Gilbert Miller he was only interested in selling tickets, and would take no premium. . . . The Havana-Madrid has barred Prescott Van Wyck—too obstreperous. . . . A cafe society photographer who covered the East Side smawt spawts with vulcanized checks has blown the town for Florida and Chicago. . . . The out-of-town reports on Alec Woollcott's acting in "Wine of Choice" are almost as terrific as his waistline. . . . Jack Pearl visits the Irving Trust safety deposit vaults at Forty-ninth street twice a year—to dust off his money.

Social Usage Queries From Future Brides

Favoring Groom's Relatives at Wedding — Propriety of Paying Call.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post:

DOES it matter, or does it seem that I am too prejudiced in favor of the groom's family, because my only attendant is to be his sister, his best man his brother, the clergyman his uncle, and the two ushers his cousins? It so happens that they are the ones we want most.

Answer: To begin your married life already caring so much for your future relatives-in-law seems to me to bespeak a great deal of happiness for you both. Only the fact that none of your relations is taking part at the same time makes the situation in any way unusual. In other words, it is quite usual that a bride have her future sister-in-law as one of her attendants. It is certainly usual that the groom have his brother for best man, and when an uncle is a clergyman it is also natural that he be the officiating minister. The bridegroom always has his nearest relatives or friends for his ushers. In your case, your own father is probably going to give you away and that brings your family into the picture. And if you, for example, are an only child and have no sister to include and no brother to be one of the ushers, this is full explanation of why they are not in your bridal party. If, on the other hand, you have brothers and sisters who are of suitable ages to take part, then I think you are showing a good deal of favor to your future husband's family at the expense of your own.

Dear Mrs. Post: A social problem is becoming more imminent every day and something will have to be done very soon. The groom-to-be's family has never made an effort to call on my family. And yet I believe they would like to meet my people and I know I would like this to take place before the wedding. It would be much less awkward at the wedding, don't you think? May we take the initiative?

Answer: Comparatively few people know that it is actually the duty of the groom's family to call on the family of the bride. Therefore, especially since you feel that they may be waiting for your family, I think your mother could quite properly make this overture. She simply writes to the groom's mother and invites them to whatever is most convenient for your family. As a matter of fact, before the invitations are sent out it is always customary that the bride's mother ask the groom's mother to consult with her about them. Moreover, if the wedding is to be a medium sized one, discussion of how many names are to be included in the list of each family is really necessary. Should it be difficult for the groom's family to come to see your family, that is, if they live at a distance and have no car, then your mother could call the groom's mother on the telephone and ask her if she may come to see her, and name a time.

Neglected Things

Having company certainly does get the little odd jobs done that otherwise are frequently neglected, such as silver cleaning, window washing, mirror polishing, furniture polishing—and yet it is so much easier to keep ahead of these things if some part of each one is done each week. Try it and see.

Furniture in the Days of Napoleon

By Elizabeth Boykin

NAPOLEON did as much to fashions in furniture as he did to the map of Europe. For, as furniture and decoration have been doing since the beginnings of civilization, they reflected under Napolean the politics of the Directory and the Empire.

After the short-lived Directory period, it became smart to be warlike, even in furnishings. Spears and shields were seen everywhere in gilded metal ornament or wood. Bedrooms became soldier's tents, with great lengths of material draped on walls and over beds to simulate a canvas shelter; bedposts were surmounted by Greek helmets, tables and stools were drums, some stools having drum cords stretched around yellow hide.

There was another influence at work, too, in the minds of men and in the decorations of their abodes. They were over and done with the soft, lovely curves and elegance of the Louis—they were through with comfort and ease. Their furniture, therefore, was angular and it must be admitted, extremely uncomfortable. A wit of the time said, "A thousand precautions are needed to avoid being bruised by the most gentle use of your furniture." We don't, luckily, have to worry much about discomfort today. Even the most angular Napoleonic bed will yield gracefully to the wonders of a good spring and mattress.

The Empire period designers, Percier and Fontaine, gave more than a nod to the classical Greeks. So furniture appeared with crossed swords and spears, triumphal palms and Victory shown with widespread wings. Napoleon's campaign in Egypt was reflected in the furniture—upright cobra symbols flourished in chair and bed legs; the Goddess Isis was seen in motifs on furniture. Caryatids supported chairs and tables; there were lion heads and huge paws and Egyptian winged animals.

Mahogany and ebony were the popular woods and painted furniture was "all the rage!" Bronze decorations were seen everywhere painted a flat gilt. Cold, uncompromising architectural backgrounds were in favor. But this did not mean that elegance was completely thrown overboard. Soft greens, grays, blues and dusty pinks were popular on walls, and the draperies were usually silk damask, stripes and moires, velvets and many printed fabrics. Against the cool backgrounds, these followers of Napoleon liked to use strong, uncompromising colors, the deep red of mahogany, strong yellows, brilliant blues and greens.

The Empire period can fit into our modern picture if we can pick and choose. There won't be any "war" in your living room if you select the best of this period, and it has a way of fitting in nicely with other period furniture, too, as well as with modern.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

Dear Martha Carr:

IMAGINE the reason people don't help when they can is because they think their kindness will be misplaced; that people may be undeserving. But isn't it better to err by giving than to risk not helping one who is deserving? Aren't we supposed to believe in the ultimate good or am I getting Communistic ideas? Is there any way people can be taught that when they receive a helping hand that they should reciprocate in kind? I think this is one of the causes of so much misery in the world. I have experienced it so much. Here and there one will find a different sort of person, but his hands may be so tied that he is unable to do anything. Maybe you could enlighten me. I know you are the opposite kind; so you must know.

JESSE JAMES JR.

I believe there are few persons who, giving as best they can, would not treasure a word of gratitude and who are not just a little hurt when they have done their very best, and receive no word; or a much belated word expressing appreciation of kindness received.

There are those who receive, who have the idea that were the circumstances reversed, they would be entirely satisfied with the doing. But we are all human enough to need the touch of kindness shown with the expression of gratitude.

My dear Mrs. Carr:

I SHOULD like to give away a pair of arch supports which my little boy has outgrown. Someone may need a pair but cannot afford to buy them. They will fit a pair of boy's shoes, size 12 or 13. Perhaps they may be forwarded through you. MRS. O. F.

Thank you for this offer. I am sure we will have requests, which we will forward to you.

My dear Mrs. Carr:

THE way has been opened to me more than I ever dreamed of to help my family and our home. Let me offer my thanks first to you for being the medium through which I met these perfectly grand people. You most assuredly make this section of the world a grand place to live in. You reach out farther and get closer to the hearts and lives of the struggling world through your column than any other human I know of.

The ladies club, which came to me through you, has brought joy to our hearts. And I have thanked them all personally. They certainly do not believe in doing things by halves. They are the kind that stick with you until you can pull your own load out of the mire. I caught myself singing for joy, recently, and it almost frightened me. I hope all your efforts are as much appreciated as they are by me. Wishing you every good and fine thing that life can bestow.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I HAVE just bought two Pekinese pups and have been told we would have to find Chinese names for them, before they could be registered. Not knowing any I am stumped. I understand that each name is limited to 25 letters. Will you kindly suggest some names to us so that we may use them soon? A DOG LOVER.

The daily papers now are filled with news of China and you can pick Chinese names used in that country in this way, if you choose. "Chang," "Fu-Chow," "Chi-Chi" (pronounced chee-chee), "Ling-Wu," "Kongshee," any of these might do.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM president of the Ladies' Aid of Mt. Zion Methodist Church and we have recently completed fixing the basement so that dinners may be given to help the church. But we are handicapped because we need coal-oil stoves and cooking utensils. If anyone has these to dispose of we would call for them, as we are located in Creve Coeur and at some distance from the city. We would very much appreciate this help. Thanking you very much,

MRS. HASENFRATZ.
Telephone WEstmore 5033.

My dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM appealing to you for a home for four little kittens and their mother, which I have in the basement. I cannot keep them any longer. We bring them all upstairs sometimes and they furnish a lot of entertainment for us. I thought perhaps you might have someone in mind. I must be rid of them soon. I don't know who else to turn to. Telephone PRospect 2446.

MRS. M. O. R.

If you find no home for these kittens, you can, of course, call the Humane Society and have their end made painless. Another correspondent would like to find good homes for four kittens. These are seven weeks old. Telephone COlfax 7778R.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

DOG SHOW CHAMPIONS

Training Animals for the Ring Is Painstaking Business, Requiring Patience and Experience—Necessary 15 Points Hard to Get.

By FRANCIS OLIVER

ALL READY FOR THE SHOW RING — A WELSH TERRIER SHOWS HIS POISE.

AT RIGHT, THE JOB OF GROOMING THE TERRIER BEGINS WITH HAIR PLUCKING.

"HE'S finished."

The statement applied to the lively little Welsh terrier was decidedly puzzling; he looked far from finished as he paced along, firmly, proudly, evenly, neck arched, tail erect, smart championship material. He looked as if he could take a ribbon in any show—which was just it, he undoubtedly would.

Far from being finished in the sense of being "through," the dog, his owner meant, was a full fledged champion, had reached the zenith and ultimate goal of every show dog. And no sporting owner considers it quite the thing to enter a dog that has become a champion of record with the American Kennel Club by winning the requisite 15 points.

"Give the other dogs a chance at the ribbons," is the owner's attitude. "It's a long enough path as it is to achieve a championship certificate, without an established champion winning points a newcomer might take."

So the champion retires from the ring, and can relax and be spoiled a bit, become more a pet than a dog on a strict diet with rigid training and grooming. There is nothing for him to worry about, except perhaps become the parent of future champions, who in the turn undergo the careful and at times a bit irksome preparation for championship.

For preparation they do go through. Champions are made as well as born, and it's not merely a matter of having a swell looking pooch to get a ribbon. Show dogs start their careers really before birth, and go through a strict apprenticeship that reaches a tense stage during the two months just before a show. There is a lot of feverish final preparation going on right now in anticipation of the annual dog show of the Mississippi Valley Kennel Club, March 26 and 27, at the Municipal Auditorium. The preparation is not confined to Greater St. Louis. Dogs of every breed from kennels all over the country will be entered in the St. Louis show, in the hope of garnering a few more points toward championship.

Points go only to winners of winners' classes, and the 15 points required must be won under three different judges at shows adhering to the rules and ratings of the American Kennel Club. It doesn't sound like so many points, but they are pretty hard to get, considering the strong competition in each class, with all the competitors having equally long lineage and preparation.

Owners of household pets may think they give their dogs all the attention possible, and keep them in first-class condition, what with prescribed diets and exercise, and having the vet in for every sneeze and sniffle, and they may be right; but unless they have had experience in showing dogs they are likely to have little knowledge of what a ring dog goes through. Most of the attention given a pet is taboo for a show dog. Until he is "finished."

* * *

LINEAGE is important from more than the standpoint of having two ribbon winners, or even champions, for parents. Breeding partners for a prospective show litter are selected as to bloodstream, temperament and general structure, and it takes the judgment of an expert to do that, for both knowledge and foresight are needed to get the desired results. Then before the pups are born the dam receives unusual care, with special diets to assure enough bone-building and milk-producing food.

Every pup in a litter won't turn out a show dog, but since it cannot yet be determined which will, all are treated as possibilities. At first the litter subsists solely on milk, and does little more than eat, sleep and frisk about a bit, carefully guarded from drafts or anything that will disturb health or disposition. Then, just as with a child, supplementary feeding begins with bits of scraped meat and codliver oil concentrate. As the diet broadens, it begins to vary with the various breeds of dogs, for while in any case diet must be kept balanced, big dogs need food which will develop bone and hard muscles, the smaller breeds get a ration that gives health and strength, without putting on additional size or weight.

Ideas of diet vary with the breeders, with balance the keynote of all. One local owner of several champion cocker spaniels advocates a natural diet, with milk as principal article, and keeps a cow chiefly for his dogs. Others use prepared rations that they believe contribute to the dog's well-being.

Possible champions cannot be selected until the pups are two to four months old, although owners begin to watch for possible signs from very infancy. The coloring; contour of the head, ears and mouth; shape of legs and withers; bone structure, texture of hair, all are appraised for show qualities. And just being a dog lover is far from enough; it takes an expert eye of long experience to pick out the little things that are big in the ring, which the average dog owner would probably overlook. Two dogs of the same litter may be equally bright—and mentality is as important as physical attributes—look exactly alike, comport themselves exactly alike; yet a barely perceptible difference in putting down their feet will mark one to the expert, for the show ring, the other for the so-called "culls."

Once selected, the show dog's training is directed entirely toward the ring. He is not isolated from other dogs, for they help develop alertness and physique, nor from human beings, for a show dog must be used to people, and learn to know and love his trainer or owner, to respond to their orders. Too much attention, too much play, however, are not desirable, for it might have an adverse effect on poise when in the ring. Poise is important in judging; the dog must carry his head and ears and neck at the proper angle for his breed, hold his tail just so, place his feet properly when walking or standing. Much of this poise is inherent, has caused the selection of the dog for the ring, but training and handling add to it.

The grooming of the dog goes on constantly; his toilette and its accessories are as extensive as a Beau Brummel's, differing, of course, according to the breed. Rough-haired dogs such as terriers, are bathed with fair frequency; sleek-haired ones, such as cocker spaniels, are bathed only in extreme cases—such as following a roll in a mud puddle when not watched. Soap removes the sheen, so the dogs are cleaned with brushes, damp cloths, or even dry-cleaned with special preparations. Hair is brushed and trained to set for the most effective appearance; plucked in certain breeds, trimmed in some to give the desired contour.

The intensity of the grooming really begins a month or two before the show, and needless to say, there are quite a few tricks used to bring out the best points. Not very extreme, of course, for judges are just as clever as owners and would be quick to perceive actual cheating. There is, for instance, the method of docking the tail of short-tailed dogs. Most terriers should carry their flags very erect, and there is a way the end can be pinched instead of cut off, so that it grows upright. It sounds and probably is cruel, although, being done at three days old, the pup seems to forget in five minutes.

* * *

OTHER little tricks, if you want to call them that, have to do with arranging and brushing the hair. A terrier, for instance, is judged by the straightness and small width of forelegs, so outside hair is brushed flatly down, inside fluffed, to give an optical illusion of small width. A bit of singeing here, a bit of clipping there; even tinting is resorted to for a better coloring with almost all breeds. White hair is made whiter with chalk.

"It's just like an actress on the stage," commented one breeder. "She makes up for the show, and dogs are made up for the show. An owner wants his entry to look its best."

In the matter of poise, one trick used by handlers "is to keep the dog convinced he can lick the other dog." It is done by letting two dogs get to nose-touching position, while on a leash, and shortly they begin to growl, and want to get into action. It fosters an instinctive pugnacity when on a leash, so that when a dog gets into the ring he senses the antagonism of other dogs, and holds himself alert and tense. Turn him loose with the dog he snarled at, however, and he will start to play and romp. Trainers insist it doesn't make a dog mean.

Dogs must be taught to follow on leash at their natural pace, without tugging or frisking and to be keenly attentive to the handler's actions. Terriers pace like a fine horse or stand still straight on their legs with necks proudly arched. Hunting dogs are often trained by being taken out with veterans, and sometimes those that hunt by scent are allowed to roam the ring loose to show their hunting movement. Greyhounds stand with feet well under, and cocker spaniels with feet well braced, head erect, and tail almost in a straight line with the back.

It would be impossible to give the ring traits for all dogs, for there are hundreds of breeds, but since cocker spaniels are the current fad, many may like to know how nearly their pet approaches the best. A show cocker spaniel should have heavy bone structure, dark eyes, chiseled head and even mouth, low set ears, a tapering neck, well-balanced shoulders, be deep in the body with well-sprung ribs, a declining neckline and withers, nice angulation in the hock, round compact feet, a true or straight movement, and bright personality with mild but bold disposition. So if your pup checks up pretty well with that, he may win a ribbon—but training champions is a painstaking business requiring plenty of patience; and an expensive hobby, for not only are accessories and care costly, but breeders pay high prices for their dogs, and a good kennel runs into the thousands.

The Love We Give Is Love That Counts

An Unselfish Affection Is Its Own Reward, Columnist Asserts.

By Elsie Robinson

DOES love pay? Is love ever worth what it costs? Can love ever be successful?

Yes—love can do all, be all, these things. But there's one secret which you must learn in order to have it so. It isn't the love you get, but the love you give, that counts.

If you start out to love on a "value received" policy, you're heading for complete and corroding failure. For no human being, however admirable, will ever live up to your own expectations of what you deserve. You'll always—according to your notion—be giving more than you get. No kindness can balance your tenderness—no service can measure up to your sacrifice . . . no companionship can approach your own in love or loyalty, beauty or nobility.

In short, if you're going to make a "profit and loss" proposition of love, you'll always be short-changed, according to your own reckoning. And the only compensation you'll get out of such love will be an A No. 1 Martyr Complex.

But, on the other hand, if you go into love for love's sake, you'll always win, no matter what the other fellow may be or do.

He (or she) may be a weakling, a cheat, a coward, a parasite, an all 'round heel, yet if you have the courage and strength to love without counting the cost, you will be the better for it.

Love is not a commercial commodity. It is an act of grace. And like every other act of grace, it is its own reward.

Think of love as you would think of courage or honesty or patience or good will. You do not exercise these qualities because you will be praised or paid for them. You exercise them for themselves . . . for the fineness that lies in them. They are a matter of spiritual grooming . . . of self-respect. You do not do them for profit, yet you do profit by them. You are always the greater for them, no matter what they may cost.

And the same fact applies to love. It, too, is worth doing for itself. Once, in one of the most dreadful dawnings I have ever known, I waited with a mother while her two sons were electrocuted. A broken husk of a thing—she had known every bitterness that life could bring. Born into the most bestial surroundings, her boys had been wolves from birth. She, poor soul . . . utterly helpless in her poverty and ignorance . . . had, nevertheless, given the best she could. For years she had followed them, agonized for them, labored and lied for them, only to be rewarded with curses and blows. Now she could no longer serve or save them. Her last hope was gone. They must die.

There in my office we waited . . . my arms around her thin shoulders, her worn face sobbing on my heart. Great gasps racked her . . . flung her, broken . . . racked her again. Ghastly! The minutes crawled intolerably. Desperately I talked against time . . . soothing her . . . reading the old Book.

Then suddenly, hideously—a great clock began to strike. She leaped upright . . . shuddering . . . her blotted face moving slowly from right to left . . . awful comprehension in her staring eyes. They were going. No one had told her, but she knew. Coward that I was, I tried not to look at her face. Then, amazingly, it happened. The terror passed . . . the anguish dropped away. Slowly the gray lips parted . . . and the drowned eyes smiled.

"They're safe," she whispered. "My babies . . . I loved them so!"

She loved them so! Never had that love brought her a day's peace or pride. Always it had meant terror and agony. Yet, at the end she could forget all pain . . . remember only that she "loved them so"! Love, for love's sake, is worth all that it costs.

COOK COOS

By Ted Cook

DE EDME, ON FATEFUL MISSION, FALLS ASLEEP.

De Edme has made it clear that he will steal a horse to qualify technically for membership in the Gypsy Band, but he confides to Escondito, the Princess of the band, that the real reason he agrees to stoop to such business is because he loves her. If stealing a horse will place him in a better position, technically, to protect her and be a brother to her, he will, then, steal a horse.

By Count De Edme Frisby.

(From His Shameless Diary of 1891).

I was looking for something about 15 hands high, halter-broken and trained either for carriage, saddle or draft work. As to color I was not particular, although I liked molasses color with taffy mane and tail. They always look mighty pretty with silver trappings, and the Gypsies are great for silver. As to the name of the horse, I was not particular. This was a detail that could be worked out later.

The night was overcast—that is, there were dark clouds swimming in the sky, although now and again the moon broke through. It was a full moon, and seemed so near that one could pick up a rock, fling it and smack the moon square in the face, tickle it with a switch, or snatch it down if one stood on tiptoe.

Escondito, who had fetched a halter, whispered that she would accompany me a little way on my mission. Soon, however, she complained that she was chilly and tired.

I was disappointed, of course, when she turned back. I wanted to turn back too, but she said "no," that I had to go steal a horse if I really cared for her. Weary and confused, I sat down on a rock. I must have fallen asleep, for I was awakened suddenly by something cold and soft nuzzling at my neck. Half awake, I scrambled to my feet. My halter must have gotten tangled with the horse, because there it stood, practically haltered, and looked at me as much as to say, "Well, what next?"

I was so surprised—so astounded that—

ALIBI GIRL

A Serial of Mystery and Romance

By ROB EDEN

Nancy Is Confident as She Submits to a Lie Detector Test in the Office of Captain Wyman.

CHAPTER ELEVEN.

WYMAN didn't have his way about the chair after all. Doctor McKee said quietly that Miss Roland must have a comfortable place to sit, so that she could be entirely at ease, and a chair was sent in from one of the offices.

Neither did Wyman have his way about bright top lights. The bright lights were not turned on and the blinds were pulled partly down, so that only the soft subdued sunlight filtered through the room.

"Relax now, Miss Roland," the professor said quietly, "and try to stay relaxed. There's nothing to be afraid of."

She looked up at him gratefully for his voice was kind and she liked his face. It was kind, too, as were his eyes behind his thick glasses.

His fingers as he fastened a tube around her left bare upper arm were gentle, but quick.

There was a slight sensation of tingling as he pumped air into the tube; nothing more. The machine to which the tube connected was in back of her chair. She was glad of that. She had been afraid when she came into the room that she would have to look at it.

The room was quiet—McKee was working quietly, and it seemed to the girl more friendly than it had been before. Only one uniform in the room, and that worn by Capt. Wyman.

She didn't like uniforms, and she was beginning to recognize detectives even when they were in plain clothes.

She smiled confidently at Sam Keene whom she had known as long as she had known Olive. He was sitting slightly to her left where he could look at McKee's machine, and at her, too.

He was a little nervous she thought—but then perhaps only she detected the nervousness because she knew him so well.

Strange that Sam of all people in the world would be defending her life before a court of law. Sam whom she and Olive had played with so much, talked with so much, laughted with so much.

Sam, who seemed so much like one of them, like herself, like Olive. Like Tom had been. Tom Miley knew Sam, too.

Sam and Tom running in to Sunday breakfasts. Sam beating on the door loudly, his arms full of packages, bacon, eggs, sometimes summer sausage. Sam cooking the omelets because he liked to and they were the one thing he knew how to cook.

Tom setting the table in the little living room. Sam drinking cup after cup of coffee, and then demanding another pot.

The four of them piling into Sam's car and riding down to the beach after breakfast, sitting on the sand for hours, sunning themselves and now and then dipping into the ocean for a swim.

SYNOPSIS.

NANCY ROLAND, summoned to police headquarters supposedly to aid in solving the mysterious murder of her wealthy uncle, DODGE ROLAND, realizes, after hours of questioning, that she is being accused of the crime! "But I was with my cousin, ALAN JORY, at the time uncle was murdered Thursday night, July 1," she insists. CAPTAIN WYMAN thereupon summons Jory. As though a blow had been struck against her body, Nancy hears her cousin testify it was Wednesday, June 30 — not Thursday, July 1, the night of the murder—that they were together! Then, an oil station attendant called by Wyman testifies to having seen Nancy with Jory the night of June 30. A night watchman further swears he saw the girl near her uncle's home the night of the murder, July 1. Nancy is lodged in jail, bewildered at the lies being told by her cousin and his witnesses. Almost immediately, however, she is released on $30,000 bond, which is paid by an unknown man in gray, who was present at the questioning. Meeting the man, Nancy finds him to be JULIAN HOWARD, distinguished author of detective novels. She is drawn to him at once, confident in his ability to assist her. But the police web tightens when Wyman, taking Nancy to the scene of the murder, reconstructs in his own words the manner in which she killed her uncle. Returning home, the girl is greeted by WALTER DEGRELLE and his sister, LOIS, who is engaged to Alan Jory. The two urge Nancy, for the sake of the family's reputation, to admit her guilt and suffer the consequences. Arrangements are made the next day for her to submit to a lie detector test. In Captain Wyman's office Julian Howard inspects the machine before the test is made.

Coming back so tired and yet so refreshed with another week to look forward to.

So far away it all was. Years away.

* * *

"THIS is bad, Nancy," Sam had said when she asked him to take her case. "This is bad."

Was he remembering those Sundays, and those other evenings when he dropped into the bungalow or the library?

Nancy didn't think so. He didn't quite look like the Sam she knew so well, and the Sam Olive knew so well now. He might have been a stranger except for the smile that settled over his lips.

Sam hadn't wanted her to make this test. He was violently opposed to it and to the conditions under which it was to be given. "All wrong. If we win, we can't fly any flags, and if we lose, the prosecution can publish all the facts they want to. Unfair from the start."

"But we aren't going to lose, Sam," Nancy had tried to explain.

Of course they weren't going to lose. They were going to win, she and Olive and Sam—only Olive wouldn't be here to see the victory. Capt. Wyman had excluded her from the room.

They were going to win. Julian Howard was going to see them win. See her win, she corrected herself. He was going to see the slate with smooth even white waves all over its surface. He was going to know that she wasn't lying.

The test was going to prove to him that she was honest.

The other persons in the room, Bob Blair, Wyman, even Sam faded from her consciousness. She and Julian Howard seemed to be alone. The tingling that had been localized on her left arm passed over her whole body.

All night she had been thinking about him, even in the few hours in which she had slept. "I'll see him tomorrow," she had said to herself as she lay in the bed that was next to Olive's.

"I'll see him tomorrow, and then he'll have proof that I'm telling the truth.

"Irrefutable proof—because even if no one else will believe the results of the machine—I don't expect Capt. Wyman to believe the proofs or any of his men, either—Mr. Howard will believe them.

"He suggested the test. It was his idea. He wants to know whether I'm telling the truth or not."

Tossing and thinking of him, and in the snatches of sleep that finally came with the summer dawn dreaming of him.

This was tomorrow. It was here. They were together, she and Howard. He had shaken her hand when she had come into this room—the same warm handshake he had given her when she saw him at his Ambassador bungalow yesterday. His smile a warm one, too.

The tingling changed to a singing. She could almost hear it. The room was alive with it.

A half an hour, an hour—and he would know.

Nancy was impatient. She wanted Dr. McKee to start. She wanted the test over with, and Howard coming toward her, both hands outstretched this time, instead of only one.

She had thought of that, too, last night, when she was thinking of him. She had wondered what he would say. She had even put words in his mouth, words that he probably never would say, but words which meant so much to her, even thinking about them.

* * *

THE words she had given him had finally taken her to sleep. Last night there hadn't been a qualm about the test. No nervousness at all. Hardly a thought given to it.

Sam had been in and talked about it. Olive had talked about it, but Nancy didn't listen to all they were saying. Her mind while they were explaining was off with Julian Howard — and her dreams were of him.

Howard and McKee were chatting quietly as the professor was adjusting his machine. The voices were pleasant to the girl—especially Howard's.

She heard his chuckling laugh again, and she smelled the smoke from his cigarette. Once he stooped to pick something up for McKee, his hand brushed her arm.

"Can't we get on with this?" Wyman asked impatiently.

"I've been delaying, Captain, because Miss Roland seems a bit nervous," McKee returned.

"But I'm not nervous!" Nancy said.

"Then let's get started," Wyman demanded. "We've already wasted half an hour."

After that there was McKee's voice asking questions, sometimes slowly, easily, sometimes quickly. Questions that were simple to answer, too simple, Nancy thought.

What she had had for breakfast this morning, what she had had for dinner last night. What she had done last night and the night before. Whether she had read the magazine, Time, for this week, and if she had read it what she thought of what she had read.

Where she had bought the dress she had on and how much she paid for it. What her balance at the bank was. How she recommended books at the Marlboro Library and Gift Shop.

Sam had prepared her somewhat for the questions that might lead up to the final test, but he hadn't prepared her for these questions which seemed so inane and so useless.

What earthly good would it do Dr. McKee and Capt. Wyman to know what the wholesale price on "Gone With the Wind" was, or "Lost Horizon," or whether she bought her hose by the pair or by the dozen? Or how old she had been when her mother died?

It was harder to answer the questions about her father. She seldom talked of him even to Olive. In some way he had found himself a place in a locked compartment of her mind, accessible only to herself. That was the way it had been for a long time, and that was the way it would be always, she thought.

But she did answer the questions as well as she could, and after she had finished, she sat trying to get control of herself again.

"And on the evening of July 1, Miss Roland, Thursday, July 1, where were you?"

"I was out with my cousin, Alan Jory."

"And on the evening of June 30, Wednesday was the day I believe, where were you?"

"I was home on the evening of June 30."

She heard the little gasp behind her, not really a gasp but a quick intake of breath. Bob Blair was standing above the machine, so it must have come from him.

McKee's voice came again, a little higher than before. "On the evening of July 1, you were where, Miss Roland?"

He was standing in front of her, but he wasn't looking at her, as he had been. He was looking over her head at the machine, watching the white lines on the black slate ribbon which was unwinding slowly.

"I was out with my cousin."

Wyman was back of her, too. He had taken two steps across the room to the machine. Suddenly he laughed, and the laugh rang through the room like a deep pealing bell.

Continued tomorrow.

Prepare for Tomorrow

By Dale Carnegie

A FEW years ago I went to Madison Square Garden to see Primo Carnera fight. He was the man of the hour; rich, famous, sought after. He had climbed from the very bottom to the top, for he had been a poor Italian boy who could read and write only with the greatest difficulty.

As I write this, his big form is lying on two beds in a hospital in Budapest, and he is broke. He still clings to a silk dressing gown, almost the sole souvenir of his wealth and fame.

"When I was making money I never thought I would come to this," he says sadly. "It came easy and I spent it as it came."

How true that is! I beg you to save. No one knows what tomorrow will bring. Ziegfeld, who made millions as the great glorifier of the American girl, died in debt. Gen. John A. Sutter, who discovered gold in California, and precipitated the greatest money rush the world has ever known, died in a miserable furnished room with hardly a dollar to his name.

Again I beg you—save. Prepare for tomorrow.

The secret of influencing people lies not so much in being a good talker as in being a good listener. And oh! how rare is a good listener.

I have never seen this point better illustrated than in a book called "Tested Sentences That Sell," by Elmer Wheeler. (Prentice-Hall.) The book, by the way, is dedicated to one of the finest salesmen in America, Prof. Richard C. Borden.

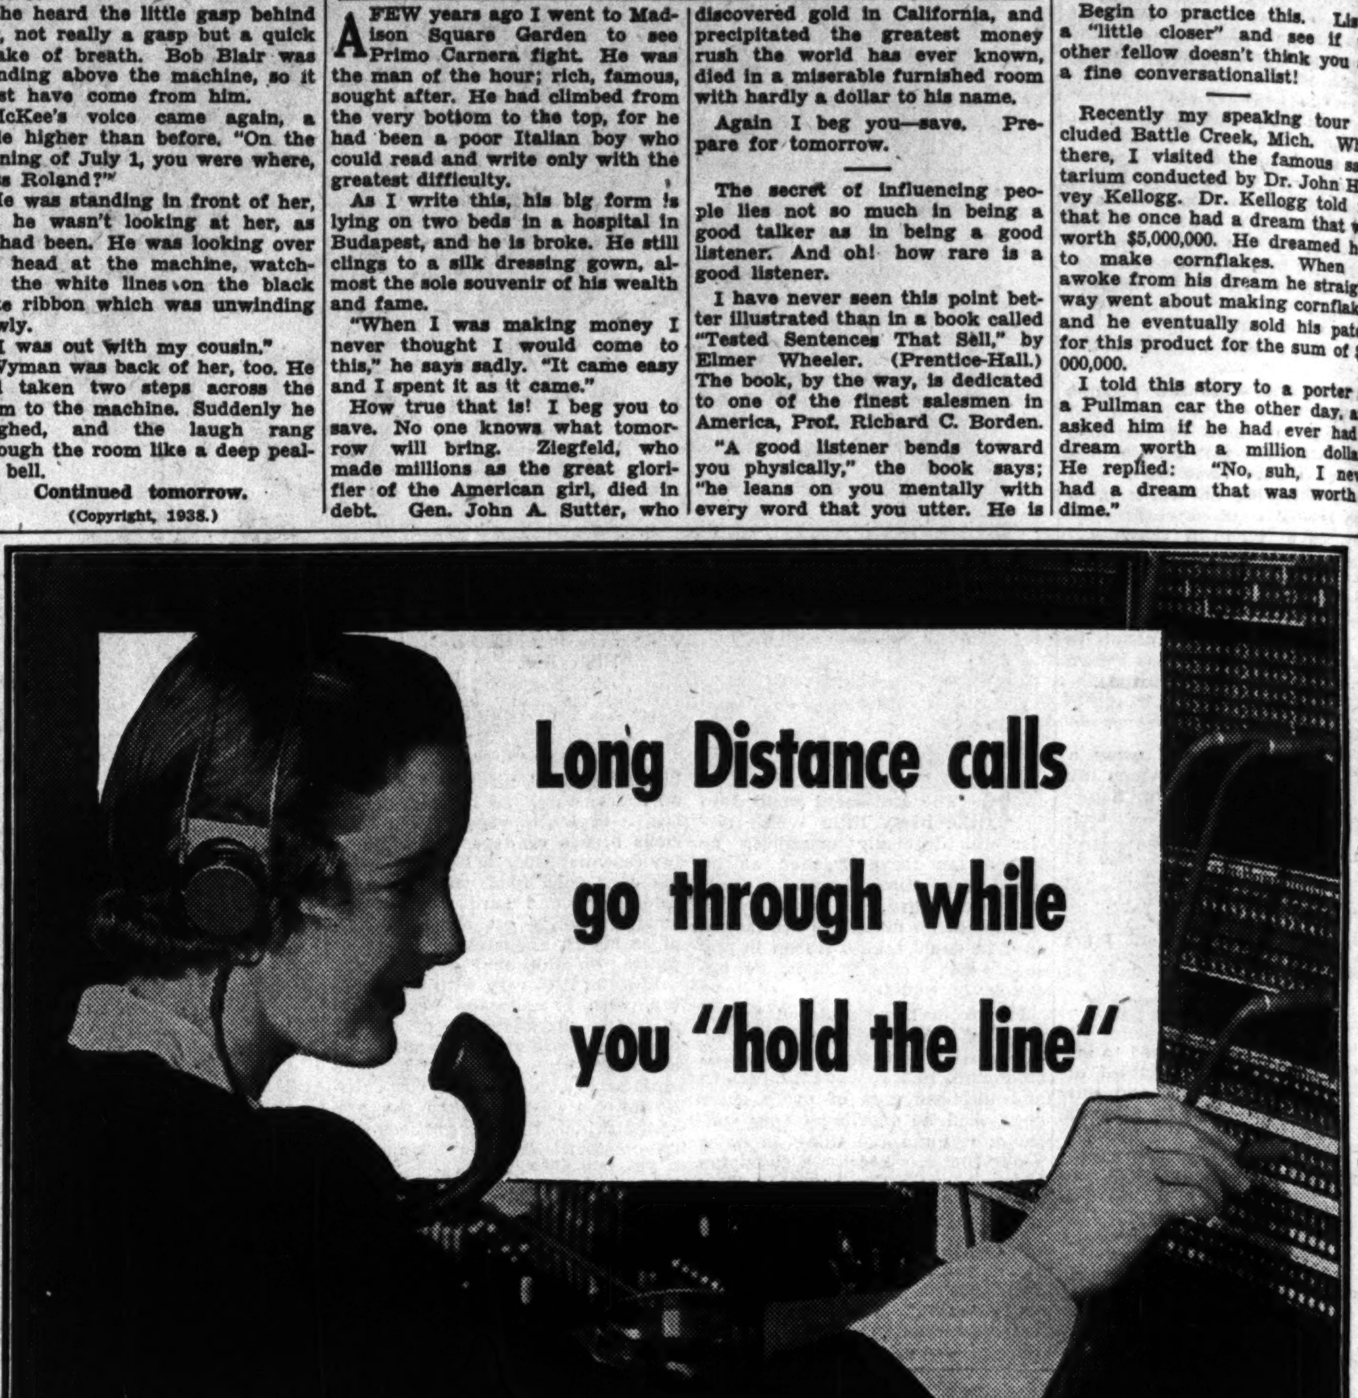
"A good listener bends toward you physically," the book says; "he leans on you mentally with every word that you utter. He is 'with you' every moment, nodding and smiling at the right times. He listens a 'little closer.'

"One way for a salesman to raise his selling average is to 'listen a little closer.' It is a sound rule to follow for social and business success."

Begin to practice this. Listen a "little closer" and see if the other fellow doesn't think you are a fine conversationalist!

Recently my speaking tour included Battle Creek, Mich. While there, I visited the famous sanitarium conducted by Dr. John Harvey Kellogg. Dr. Kellogg told me that he once had a dream that was worth $5,000,000. He dreamed how to make cornflakes. When he awoke from his dream he straightway went about making cornflakes, and he eventually sold his patent for this product for the sum of $5,000,000.

I told this story to a porter on a Pullman car the other day, and asked him if he had ever had a dream worth a million dollars. He replied: "No, suh, I never had a dream that was worth a dime."



because telephone management said...

THE men who head the telephone company have always believed even good service can be better. Their aim, like that of every other telephone worker, has been better and better service at low cost to the user. One result is that today you can call distant cities as quickly, as easily, as you telephone across the street.

A few years ago it took seven minutes (average) to make a long distance connection. Today, the average time is 96 seconds!

Juan Manuel Rosas (1793-1877) Argentine dictator for 23 years (1829-1852) was the prototype of the modern dictators. He abolished a free press and parliament, and ruled by terror, espionage, prison, concentration camps, torture, poison, assassinations and phony plebiscites. He organized an army of cut-throats, whom he dressed in brown shirts and who were his henchmen. He forbade the wearing or display of black, blue and green under pain of death. Everyone was compellled to say and write at least once a day "Viva el restaurador de los leyes" (Long live the restorer of laws) in allusion to himself. He ordered that the name of the third month (Marzo or March) be changed to Rosas in his honor. In only one respect did he go further than his modern imitators. He removed the picture of the Savior from the high altar of all churches and replaced them with his own likeness, forcing the clergy and citizenry to worship him like a god. He was finally deposed and fled to England where he lived in retirement for 25 years.
